BY OSCAR HEWITT.

With the failure yesterday of the county board to pay their hospital nurses, the unpaid public employés of the various local governments now total more than 19,500. The past due and unpaid salaries in the tax revenue crises aggregate $5,195,000.

Actually, however, the local governments are in salary arrears to the extent of $8,259,000, but more than $3,000,000 of this sum is represented in judgments.

This is the second breakdown in two years in the payment for nursing service at the county hospital. In 1929 the county dug up enough cash to pay all employés except the nurses

Former Advance Unpaid.

To keep the nurses on the job caring for the sick and injured, too poor to get service anywhere except at the county hospital, the Continental Illinois bank in 1929 advanced the nurses $1,019,657 in salaries. That bill has not been paid, although the county promised the bank that it would settle with the first money obtained in 1930. The bank obtained a judgment against the county, but it hasn't collected.

Then the county found it lacked money with which to pay other employés. Such a plea was made that the Continental bank agreed to advance $1,900,000 to meet the pay rolls for a short period. Payment of that bill was promised in 1930. The bank obtained another judgment, but it also is uncollected. Those two judgments, for salaries, total more than $3,000,000 when the interest is added.

Unpaid Salaries Listed.

The unpaid salaries of the local governments may be summarized as follows:

Employes—	Number	Unpaid wages.
Regular school teachers	13,246	$3,775,000
Substitute teachers	1,450	170,000
Other school workers	2,620	1,200,000
County hospital nurses	2,236	50,000
Totals	19,552	$5,195,000

The hospital nurses believe that they are discriminated against because the county paid all of its other employés last Friday. These pay rolls were approved by the county board on June 1—the same day on which the county defaulted on the payment of $1,868,400 in bonds and interest on bonds.

The unpaid pay roll of the county hospital includes the wages not only of graduate and student nurses, but also 30 orderlies and about 100 cooks maids and scrubwomen employed in the nurses' home.

Explanation Is Demanded.

When the pay rolls were presented yesterday to the county board, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, one of the commissioners, demanded to know why the nurses had not been paid.

M. J. O'Connor, assistant deputy controller, said there was not enough money left to pay the nurses when the other 4,500 county employés had been given their salary checks. He explained that the nurses were employed through the Chicago Training School for Nurses and that it was in the nature of a contract rather than a strictly salary payment.

"I went to the county treasurer's office," went on O'Connor, "in an effort to obtain $75,000. The treasurer turned me down cold."

Mr. O'Connor asserted that the county has no money, and no means of getting it so far as he could see, for paying the next salaries.

In addition to this predicament, O'Connor revealed that it is impossible to pay jurors' fees any longer. Each juror will be given a slip showing he has served a specified number of days at $5 each—but no cash.

The pay rolls of the highway department of the county are also short of cash. Superintendent of Highways George A. Quinlan yesterday requested the county board to transfer $300,000 from the series V. bond account to the highway fund proper.

U. S. DRYS KILL RUM RUNNER AFTER CHASE

Watertown, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—A suspected bootlegger, Donald Diello, alias Tremont, 22, of Watertown, was shot and killed while fleeing from two United States customs border patrolmen early today near Lafargeville. The chase led pursued and pursuers over a four mile course.

Harold G. Markham, one of the customs patrolmen in the chase, was quoted by Dr. John T. Foulkes of Lafargeville, who was called, as saying he shot Diello by accident. Pearl Lewis was the companion of Markham. Both, stationed at Clayton, had been sent out to patrol the road about 4 o'clock this morning on a tip that a big load of intoxicants was to be run through to Watertown from Fishers Landing.

While they watched, they said, a big open car roared past and they gave chase. The customs patrolmen having closed the gap between their car and that of the fugitive, he ditched the car, jumped out and ran across Pearch lake swamp. Shots were fired, Diello swung around, toppled, fell. He died in five minutes.

Markham was quoted as saying he fired from a distance of 150 yards and did not mean to shoot the man; that his bullet must have ricocheted from a rock or tree.

REDS STONE U. S. CONSULATE OVER NEGRO RAPE CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DRESDEN, Germany, June 9.—"Down with murderous American imperialism!" was the message enclosed in a bottle flung by communists through the window of the American consulate here today.

The demonstrators protested against death sentences dealt eight young Negro workers at Scottsboro, Ala., for raping two girls in a box car. The demonstrators also called for a brotherhood of young black and white proletarians,' 'and proceeded to smash other windows in the consulate. They fled when the police appeared. Four were later arrested.

The eight Negroes, ranging in age from 16 to 19 years, were sentenced to die in the electric chair on July 10 by a jury at Scottsboro, Ala., on April 9.

Seize Ex-Rumanian Consul on Forfeited Bond Charge

John C. Popovici of the Ambassador hotel, former Rumanian consul to Chicago, was arrested by police of the Hyde Park station yesterday on a fugitive warrant charging that he forfeited bonds at Canton, O., in a nonsuppport case. The complainant in the case was Mrs. Mary Moian of the Upton hotel, who had furnished the bonds. According to Mrs. Moian, the wife of Popovici lives in Canton.

Says Hay Fever Is Spread by Tiny Sand Fly

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—Hay fever caused by a sand fly is one of the newest discovered ills at the American Medical association annual meeting.

It is part of a demonstration on exhibition today of scientific use of pollen to prevent hay fever, a method which used "the hair of the dog to treat the bite."

A basic change in medical attitude was advocated tonight in the annual address of the incoming president of the association, Dr. F. Starr Judd, of the Mayo clinic. He favored taking the public into the physician's confidence about new things in medicine.

Fly Found in Buffalo.

The hay fever sand fly was found about Buffalo by Dr. Salvador Parlato of that city. It is a brown insect, smaller than a house fly, and quite slender. It causes hay fever by fanning little mossy looking scales from its wings to float in the air like like the pollens which are the main offenders. It is a rare cause, and a novelty to many physicians.

The grasses causing hay fever at this time of year stand in vases for inspection. They are English plantin, winter grass, sweet vernal, June grass, Ireland grass, and timothy hay. There also is a jar of yellow and white field daisies, ranked as a rare but sometimes real offender.

Alongside the vases stand jars of amber colored liquid which is extracted from the pollens and used to prevent the malady. The treatment is not classed as cure, but as a preventive, notwithstanding an occasional record of apparent permanent cure.

When a hay fever victim calls at one of these clinics in New York City and says: "Last Monday I sneezed my head off," the scientists turn to slides upon which were trapped the pollens prevalent in the air on that "Monday."

Pollens Are Identified.

When these pollens are identified a very weak extract of each one is injected hypodermicaly under the patient's skin until one cases a swelling like an overgrown mosquito bite. That partly indicates the guilty pollen. Next a drop of the extract in the eye clinches the detective work, provided it causes redness. All the pollens are tried, because sometimes as many as half a dozen may be the irritants.

The treatment injects into the patient's skin the largest amount of the pollen extract which will stop just short of producing hay fever. Once a month for the rest of the summer this dose is repeated and frequently saves further hay fever.

"There was a time when the physician," President Judd, in his address said, "in talking with his patient, would use medical terms almost exclusively. He seemed especially happy if he could employ Latin expressions.

Increases Uncertainty.

"Instead of accomplishing his object of impressing others with his wisdom, however, I think it increased the uncertainty and mystery concerning medicine in the minds of patients.

"One reason that charlatans and irregular practitioners are able to continue their practices is that there still is so much uncertainty and mystery about disease. We cannot hope to be rid of this sort of thing until all the mystery is cleared up. We can help society a great deal, however, by utilizing every effort at our command to educate people along medical lines."

BOMB DAMAGES A TWO FAMILY HOUSE IN AUSTIN

A black powder bomb, exploded last night in the rear yard of a two story frame house at 122 South Menard avenue, tore away a section of garden fence, slightly damaged a garage and broke windows of nearby houses.

The lower floor of the house is occupied by Mrs. Florence Duncan, a widow, and her sister, Mrs. Martha E. Dean. Mrs. Dean is the owner of the property. On the second floor live Edward Kelly, a foreman for the American Can company in the Maywood factory, and his family.

Kelly's son, Edward Jr., is secretary to Philip Barry, agent in Chicago for the state board of pardons and paroles.

Rich New York Girl Slain; 2 Men Sought

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Miss Starr Faithfull, 25 year old girl whose body was found Monday at Long Beach, L. I., was murdered by two men, one of whom is important politically, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau county announced tonight.

The murder took place in New York City and the young woman's body was taken to Long Beach by automobile, placed in a boat and towed some distance from shore, where it was dumped overboard, Mr. Edward said.

"I expect to have the men in custody tomorrow," he added. In addition to the suspect "important politically," he classified the other man sought as "of some consequence also."

He offered no explanation of the motive, but did add that Miss Faithfull had been raped before her death. This fact had been established by an autopsy performed after the body was discovered at Long Beach.

Earlier Theory Upset.

His announcement followed earlier disclosures that the young woman had been seen at the Cunard piers in New York on Friday, the day of her disappearance, and which led police at first to conclude that she might have jumped or been thrown from the S. S. Mauretania, outward bound on a "whoopee" cruise to the Bahamas.

The two men sought as the killers were both seen in the company of Miss Faithfull after she left her studio apartment last Friday, Mr. Edwards said. The names of both are known but their identity will not be revealed until they are arrested.

The district attorney made his statement after a day of investigation, which included a three hour conference with Stanley E. Faithfull, a retired manufacturer, stepfather of the dead girl, and a trip to New York in which he and Inspector Harold R. King of the Nassau county police interviewed Mrs. Ellen Faithfull, the victim's mother, and Elizabeth, a sister.

Hunt Shifts to Boston.

Mr. Edwards and Inspector King, continuing their investigation through the night, did not remain in New York. They left New York late tonight for Boston. One of the men sought for the murder was said to be from Massachusetts, where Miss Faithfull passed her school years at Brookline.

Miss Faithfull was the daughter of Flagg W. Wyman II., member of an old New England family, Harvard graduate of 1900, and official of the Maine-Lake company of Boston. When her mother divorced Mr. Wyman and married Mr. Faithfull, Starr and her sister Elizabeth took their stepfather's name.

The Faithfull home is at Mineola, Nassau county, but the girl maintained the studio apartment in St. Luke's place, being independently wealthy. Her apartment was close to that occupied by Mayor Walker.

Strange Behavior on Pier.

It was established that Miss Faithfull had been seen at the Cunard piers Friday by Martin W. Littleton Jr., assistant district attorney of Nassau county. He learned also that on May 29 she had been put off an outbound Cunard boat, the Franconia, in midstream, after she had been found aboard without a ticket.

When informed that she was to be sent ashore on a tug, Miss Faithfull became hysterical and screamed: "Kill me! Throw me overboard!"

The story of her appearance on the Mauretania before sailing time on Friday led to an investigation of her movements after being escorted ashore by a steward. Reports conflicted as to whether the girl had been drinking aboard ship, but several witnesses said she got into a taxicab. The chauffeur said he carried her only a few blocks when she alighted.

Had Few New Friends.

Neither the mother nor the stepfather could offer police any motive for the murder. They said the girl's men friends were few. She had crossed to Europe several times.

MYSTERY SHOCKS START RUMORS OF BIG DISASTER

Mysterious earth tremors in an extensive area in Ohio and Indiana between Fort Wayne and Toledo early this morning gave rise to wild rumors that a terrible disaster had occurred somewhere in that region. Houses were so violently shaken that dishes were knocked from shelves and pictures from walls. The disturbance seemed to be most severe at Bryan, Wauseon, and Archbold, Ohio. At first it was believed a terrific explosion had occurred, but when none could be found the opinion was general that the shaking was the result of an earthquake. Numerous inquiries concerning the "quake" reached Chicago.

LOOP CALM OVER MERGERS; CLOSE BAIN BANK CHAIN

Conserve Assets of Outlying Concerns.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The finishing touches to Chicago's giant banking mergers proceeded smoothly yesterday. With the Foreman-State banks moved over during the night to the quarters of the First National and Union Trust and Savings bank, the excitement and curiosity attendant on the big merger quieted down.

OSCAR NELSON.

The day's business of the consolidated banks was marked by an increase in the Foreman savings deposits which had been taken over by the First National.

On the other hand, some of the outlying banks suffered again from a recurrence of uneasiness and rumors that prevailed several months ago. During the day State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced the closing of twelve outlying Chicago banks and later in the day a suburban bank suspended. Banking officials attributed the difficulties of the banks forced to close to uneasiness of depositors, whose withdrawals have been reducing those banks' strength.

Bain Chain Closed.

The Chicago banks that were closed were identified with the John Bain banking organization. Their aggregate deposits at present were under $13,000,000. Within the last year they have suffered from heavy withdrawals, losing about $12,000,000 in deposits during that period.

The Bain banks were all comparatively small. Nine of them had less than a million in deposits; seven of them less than a half million and in four cases the deposits were below the $250,000 mark. The banks were:

Armitage State, 2400 Armitage avenue.

Brainard State, 8640 South Ashland avenue.

Chatham State, 7850 Cottage Grove avenue.

Ridge State, 7050 South Western avenue.

Stony Island State Savings, 6760 Stony Island avenue.

West Highland State, 7900 South Ashland avenue.

West Lawn Trust and Savings, 3944 West Sixty-third street.

The suburban bank which closed yesterday was the Elmwood Park State bank of Elmwood Park.

State Auditor Nelson said the banks were closed as a precautionary measure to protect both the depositors and the creditors. He explained that with the close alliance between the Bain banks, difficulties in one or two of them would spread to the others.

Bain Makes Statement.

A further explanatory statement was made by John Bain, the largest individual stockholder and head of the banking organization. He said:

"The Bain banking organization deemed it best to close their banks this morning to conserve the interests of their depositors and stockholders. The closing of the banks is due to their inability to dispose of the assets of the banks without undue loss due to prevailing conditions. It is expected that the depositors and the stockholders will be paid in full. The deposits of the Bain banks are in round numbers $13,000,000. The capital and surplus of the Bain banks are $6,400,000."

Mr. Bain has been a member of the south park board for a number of years. It was reported that Cook county has about $1,000,000 on deposit in the Bain banks, most of it protected by surety bond, and that the south park board has about $350,000 in deposit in one of the banks.

Strengthened by Merger.

The outlying bank situation was not wholly gloomy, however. The State Savings Bank and Trust company, 2157 Roosevelt road, which was one of the banks allied with the Foreman-State banks, was absorbed by the Liberty Trust and Savings bank, which is Just across the street. The latter bank is identified with the First National-First Union Trust group.

This secondary banking merger represented a union of resources in the neighborhood of $13,500,000. The last official bank statements on March 25 showed the Liberty Trust and Savings with total resources exceeding $9,000,000 and deposits above $8,200,000, while the State Savings had total resources exceeding $4,500,000 and deposits above $3,500,000.

The merger of the State Savings with the Liberty Trust and Savings was an example of the downtown banks coming to the help of outlying banks and endeavoring to check uneasiness in their neighborhoods. All day money wagons from the loop banks and from the Chicago federal reserve banks left the downtown district bearing in the aggregate millions of dollars for smaller neighborhood banks.

And the downtown bankers aided in other ways. For example, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National, took time out from his own manifold duties to reassure anxious depositors at the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, 815 West Sixty-third street. He explained that the bank had plenty of cash, was ably managed, and deposits were safe. Then the crowd melted away.

Many in No Need.

Officials of the big downtown banks and of the Chicago Clearing House association emphasized, however, that many of the outlying banks are in excellent condition and not in need of financial assistance. They expressed confidence that the great majority of the banks will weather the present situation, which is laid largely to a wave of uneasiness among depositors.

The spacious banking quarters of the First National-First Union Trust group presented a busy scene yesterday. Sections of the bank floors were devoted to depositors and customers of the Foreman-State banks, while in the middle of the main banking floor an "island" of imitation marble had been installed over night, with desks and telephones, for the officers of the Foreman-State banks.

All through the night the assets, books and furniture of the Foreman-State banks had been transferred through the loop by a fleet of trucks and an army of officials and clerks had installed them in the big First National Bank building at Dearborn, Monroe and Clark streets. Therefore, when the banks opened in the morning the Foreman-State depositors and customers were greeted by their usual officers and tellers.

Merger's Savings Increase.

The first day of operation of the consolidated banks in the First National Bank building afforded a surprise. Whereas Monday had witnessed a moderate withdrawal of Foreman-State savings deposits, yesterday brought a net gain, according to First Union Trust officials. Evidently many depositors who had withdrawn deposits on Monday, when crowds filled the Foreman-State building, lost their apprehension yesterday and reinstated their savings. But what seemed to be a considerable number of curious onlookers still augmented others on business bent in the First National bank.

It didn't appear to be an apprehensive throng in front of the paying tellers' windows. In fact, there was a deal of joking between the depositors and tellers at both the paying and receiving cages as bank books and money passed back and forth.

Central Trust Announcement.

The two banks figuring in the other big Chicago merger had a normal day. Further details of the consolidation agreement between the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic were announced. The new Central Republic Bank and Trust company will have capital of $14,000,000, surplus of $14,000,000 and $5,000,000 in capital and surplus of its investment affiliate.

Thus the total capitalization will be $33,000,000, of which eight-fourteenths will be subscribed by the Central Trust company and six-fourteenths will be subscribed by the National Bank of the Republic. These apportionments will be made in terms of assets of the respective banks.

The stock of the new bank will be exchanged for that of the present banks on the apportionment basis. Any excess assets of either bank will be placed in the hands of trustees and liquidated. The proceeds either will be paid to stockholders in the form of liquidating dividends or used by the new bank and additional stock given to the stockholders.

National Stock Up Again.

The belief of investors that the First National bank will benefit considerably by its greater financial power was reflected again in the Chicago bank stock market. First National shares jumped 30 points, making a gain of 60 points in two days. The stock was quoted at $440 to $450 a share. On the other hand, Foreman-State National stock dropped to a bid price of $5 a share, with stock offered at $15. These prices reflected the uncertainty over the eventual liquidation of the bank's assets and what equity may be left for the stockholders.

Central Trust shares about canceled the advance of the previous day, being quoted at $166 to $170 a share, and National Bank of the Republic shares, which are of $20 par value, eased two points, being quoted at $29 to $30 a share.

JOHN BAIN, HEAD OF CLOSED BANKS, WON WAY FROM POVERTY

John Bain, head of twelve neighborhood banks which closed yesterday, has been engaged in the real estate and banking business 25 years and has held membership on the south park board for 15 years. He is 63 years old.

JOHN BAIN.

An immigrant from Scotland, Mr. Bain came to Chicago as a youth of 19 with no resources. For a time he followed the plumbing trade until, in 1897, in partnership with Michael Maisel and John Holton, he organized a real estate company with an office in a shanty at 63d and Laflin streets.

The partners acquired a small store in Laflin street just off Justine street where, in 1906, the first Bain bank—the West Englewood Trust and Savings—was incorporated.

On last April 12 Mr. Bain, on his twenty-fifth anniversary as a banker, was given a banquet attended by 400 employés and associates in the Hotel Shoreland. Five directors of the original Bain bank—Edward C. Barry, William Blumer, E. L. Schweder, Michael Maisel, and Mr. Bain—were present.

Referring on that occasion to the business depression, Mr. Bain proclaimed his confidence in the soundness of the banks bearing his name.

"The last 18 months have been the greatest experience any of you could have had," he told his employés. "It is a practical lesson you could have gotten in no other way.

"In that period this organization has paid out $11,000,000 to depositors and not one cent has been asked of stockholders. I am perfectly sure now, as I was not a year ago, that we are perfectly sound."

According to Charles H. Meacham, chairman of the executive committee of the Bain banks, the organization has 1,116 stockholders, 247 employés, and 119 directors, the latter engaged in 23 lines of business.

In the last year 1,456,000 deposits were made by 128,000 customers. The Bain banks cashed 876,000 checks and issued 250,000 cashier's checks, handling a total of three billion dollars.

TEACHERS' SCRIP, BUILDING QUIZ UP TO BOARD TODAY

Trustees Also to Consider Construction Bonds.

The payment of $5,200,000 in overdue salaries with scrip, the floating of a $50,000,000 bond issue to finance a school building program, and a proposal to investigate the expenditure of $21,000,000 in school building contracts will be considered at today's meeting of the school trustees.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan will present the building fund resolution, asking for an audit of construction expenditures for the last five years. She states that such an audit is necessary because of reports of huddles involving contractors and board members and rumors of substitution of materials.

Mrs. Hefferan announced her intention of proposing the resolution last Monday on the presentation of an audit of school expenditures which did not include the building fund. The auditors said their reason for the omission was that "the building fund presents such a vast problem that it is worthy of special study in itself." The other trustees have agreed and it is reported that the Cleveland Audit company, which compiled the first report, will be asked to make this study.

Teachers Fight Scrip.

The proposal to pay employés in scrip is expected to bring hot discussion. The heads of all teachers' unions have instructed their members not to accept the proposal.

The plan, evolved by President Lewis E. Myers, calls for the deposit of a tax warrant to the amount of the salaries due, $5,200,000, with a Chicago trust company. Against this warrant, participation certificates would be issued in the amounts of the individual salary checks. Their acceptance is optional with each employé.

Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell will propose an alternative plan based on the deposit of a certificate of indebtedness which will equal the total of the board's obligations. He pointed out that this method of paying the board's debts was used 3½ years ago when a similar situation arose. He said that under his plan individual certificates would be issued as in Myers' plan, but they would be more negotiable because they could be secured by court judgments.

Savage Backs Bond Issue.

The proposed bond issue of $50,000,000 for school buildings is sponsored by Trustee Joseph P. Savage. The resolution will instruct Thomas V. Sullivan, the board attorney, to draw up a bill calling on the legislature to authorize the issue and an amendment to the Otis act to reduce the amount of the building fund tax and divert tax receipts to the amount of the reduction for retirement of the bonds over a 20 year period.

The plan is similar to one proposed during the old city hall administration and will be opposed by Robert F. Carr and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, the only trustees on the board who were named by Mayor Cermak.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, will lead the union representatives for teachers and civil service employés tomorrow in a fight against the enactment of a clause in the auditor's report advising the abolition of the system of automatic increases in salaries.

WASHINGTON PARK DEPOSITORS ACT TO REORGANIZE BANK

Depositors of the Washington Park National bank at 6306 Cottage Grove avenue, at a meeting in the bank building last night, adopted plans for reorganising and reopening the institution. The Washington Park National, with resources of $16,625,000 and deposits of $3,964,000, was closed Monday to conserve the assets for the benefit of depositors.

Those present, including about fifty of the large depositors, unanimously indorsed a proposal that the depositors assign to the reorganized bank a part of their deposits in the closed institution. This money, so transferred, would form the basis for a new capital structure. In other words, the depositors at the meeting were willing, it was said, to convert a portion of their deposits into stock ownership of a new bank.

A reorganization committee headed by W. H. Van der Ploeg, president of the Washington Park National, was appointed. Among the members were Joseph B. Fleming, William L. O'Connell, John C. Dinsmore, Victor H. Munnecke, and the Rev. C. J. Anderson.

JEWISH COURIER ASSAILS WAILING WALL DECISION

The Daily Jewish Courier yesterday characterized the decision of three non-British commissioners awarding the wailing wall of Jerusalem and the pavement fronting it to the Moslems as a wanton religious provocation tantamount, in the eyes of Jews, to destruction of the temple. The commission, appointed a year ago by Great Britain with the approval of the league of nations, delivered its report Monday.

"The Arabs have never laid claim to rights on the wailing wall," the newspaper said. "It was only when the British administration in Palestine began to interfere with the Jewish worship at the wailing wall that the Arabs, taking cue from the British officials, assumed the attitude that the wailing wall is their property.

"Since the bloody days of August, 1929, the English administration in Palestine has been waging a relentless war against the Jewish homeland, and the decision is only one of the episodes of this war, and this episode, innocent as it may look to the non-Jew, is considered by Jewish people all over the world a permanent pogrom on the Jewish religion."

Evanston Women to Test Driving Lessons in Practice

Practical tests in automobile driving will be given the women students who have been taking theoretical lessons in the same subjects in Evanston for the last few weeks. Thirty-seven automobiles have been furnished by dealers in Evanston and Chicago, each with a competent driver, and a stretch of road has been set aside for the examinations near Niles Center. Those who pass will be presented with diplomas certifying their competence. The presentation will be made by Chief of Police Freeman of Evanston.

Chicago Army Officer Gets Philippine Command

News of the appointment of Capt. F. J. Heraty of Chicago as commanding officer of Camp Hay at Baguio, Philippine islands, has been received here. Capt. Heraty, the son of Mrs. Peter Heraty, 3632 North Hamlin avenue, was graduated from West Point in 1917. He later saw service in France and was cited for bravery in the St. Mihiel and Argonne sectors, where he was wounded in 1918.

EFFICIENCY MAN STARTS CULLING CITY EMPLOYES

Questionnaires to Guide Pay Roll Trimming.

City hall employés busied themselves yesterday with long questionnaires, the ground work on which J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, intends to build an extensive plan for the reorganization of city departments.

J. L. JACOBS.

All of the 25,000 employés of the city, except policemen and firemen, have received the questionnaires. The latter group will be given theirs soon.

Individual employés are required to answer nineteen questions, covering their duties, qualifications, education, salary, and whether they receive compensation for the use of private automobiles.

Superiors to Give Opinions.

When they have finished, their immediate superiors will be required to go over each report. In every case the superior must give an opinion as to whether the employé is qualified to perform his duties, with recommendations for any changes which would make for higher efficiency. The questionnaires must be inspected finally and approved by the bureau or department head.

The questionnaires are to be supplemented by investigations wherever that is necessary, Mr. Jacobs said. The final report will be delivered to Mayor Cermak for action through his citizens' advisory committee.

"The survey," Mr. Jacobs said, "is expected to determine what departments need reorganization and how that reorganization can be effected best. We expect, when we have all of our facts collected, to make recommendations for reductions in pay rolls through the elimination of nonessential jobs."

May Wipe Out Jobs.

Permanent as well as temporary civil service appointees may find their jobs wiped out through the reorganization, Mr. Jacobs said. In the case of permanent employés, he explained, it will only be necessary to lay off those most recently employed in the classifications which are found overmanned.

In their consideration of the police department the members of the mayor's advisory committee will have the benefit of a recently published report of a citizens' committee which closed its investigation of police administrative matters a year ago.

Prof. Leonard D. White of the University of Chicago, now a member of the city civil service commission, was active in that police investigation, and he is expected to work with Mr. Jacobs and the advisory committee on that phase of the present survey.

The Secret . . . of making men like SALADS

"YESTERDAY FOR THE FIRST TIME I MADE A SALAD WITH HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE. IT WAS THE FIRST SALAD THAT CHARLIE HAS EATEN IN A MONTH!"

YOU will be amazed at the flavor appeal that Hellmann's Mayonnaise has for men. Indeed, it offers a sure way to induce almost any husband to eat the salads that he needs.

The reason for its unique flavor? Carefully chosen ingredients, first of all. Breakfast eggs, special salad oils, thrice strained vinegar, a unique blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions of its famous old French recipe.

And then double whipping . . . a special, scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection.

Try Hellmann's Mayonnaise on the next salad you serve your husband. If either of you feels that it does not measure up to every promise we make, please take back the jar and get your money.

Get a pint or half-pint jar today. Hellmann's is the mayonnaise that always has been identified by the Blue Ribbon on the label. It is sold by your grocer.

"AT LAST RUTH HAS FOUND A MAYONNAISE I LIKE. IT REALLY MADE THAT SALAD SHE SERVED YESTERDAY TASTE GOOD. IT HAD SUCH A FINE FLAVOR,"

Emerson Proffers His Sympathy.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.] Mayor Cermak and Corporation Counsel Busch held a conference with Gov. Emmerson today on financial relief for Chicago, but, although the executive said he was anxious to help pull the city out of the hole, the assembly still turned a cold eye on major items in the program of the mayor's advisers.

MARTIN B. BARLOW.

The senate revenue committee, after reporting out three Igoe house measures to aid collection of personal property taxes, announced that any big measures would be acted on the theory that a special session is coming on revenue and taxation, when the entire subject matter will be considered.

Mayor Goes Home.

The mayor returned to Chicago by no means filled with optimism. He left the fate of his revenue plans up to a dinner conference between the governor, Senator Richard J. Barr, Speaker Shanahan, Silas Strawn, and Mr. Busch. The dinner was held at John Oglesby's farmhouse at Elkhart.

Arguments by the mayor in favor of quick action on senate bill 710, to give the right to license and tax certain businesses and manufacturing, fell on deaf ears in the senate committee on corporations and municipalities.

After a portrayal by the mayor of the financial muddle in which Chicago is struggling and the need for additional revenues to keep the government going, the committee sent the bill to a subcommittee, which placed its chances any far below par.

"The responsibility for the financial condition of Chicago belongs to you legislators," protested Mayor Cermak; "you are the only agency which can come to Chicago our relief."

Carlson Comes Back.

"I resent that remark," said Senator Martin B. Carlson [Rep., Moline]. "Time before, the legislature came to the rescue of Chicago in fine shape. In 1927 we passed 122 bills increasing the taxing power 100 per cent, and in the 1929 special session we passed many bill in the Strawn program. It is not right to scold."

The bill to "put teeth" into the property tax is stranded and opposition is growing against it if it were put to a vote. Three lesser bills, however, which have passed the house were reported out of senate revenue committee and may get through. They are house bills 873, 874, 875. They provide that delinquent personal property taxes shall bear 1 per cent interest a month, like general property taxes, that the tax commission shall publish the tax schedule and that assessors shall furnish blanks by mail or otherwise.

May Abolish Collectors.

Steps are to be made to amend senate bill 676, now in house committee, to provide for the abolition of the 59 town collectors in Cook county.

Bills for semi-annual payment of taxes which have passed the senate, Mr. Busch reports, will be passed by the house this week, also the senate bill to validate 1931 tax anticipation warrants.

Another senate bill ready for approval by the house reimburses Chicago $337,000 for the Berteau avenue viaduct at Dunning, while still another permits the city budget act so that appropriations from bond issues can be made at any time during the year.

The measures urged by Mayor Cermak upon recommendation of his advisory committee were as follows:

Adoption of a unified and simplified system of assessment and review, with a single operation staff in Cook county. [This bill is still in committee.]

Abolition of the township collectors in Cook county. [Expected this to be accomplished through amendment to senate bill 675.]

Semi-annual installment collection of taxes. [Busch reports this is likely to go through.]

Putting the teeth in personal property assessment. [This is regarded as moribund this session, except for the three minor Igoe bills.]

Validation of 1931 tax anticipation warrants [passed by senate, on house calendar with chances of passage].

Defeat of all proposals now pending for tax increases or for new taxes. [Most of these are being knocked off, including income tax, killed by the house last week.]

A constitutional convention. [Failed to pass house today, lacking five votes.]

One bill designed to uncover personal property was introduced tonight by Igoe as one of the Cermak advisory group items. It requires corporations to file with the secretary of state the names and addresses of stock holders living in Illinois. It went to the revenue committee.

A FAMILY OF FOUR SLAIN FROM AMBUSH; POSSE HUNTS KILLERS

Salyersville, Ky., June 9.—[Special.]—A family of four were slain from ambush while they were hoeing corn on their farm in Magoffin county, twenty miles south of here, yesterday. Neighbors brought word of the killings to Sheriff Adam Carpenter who left for the scene in the upper Licking valley with twelve deputies and a pack of bloodhounds.

The victims are Dave Wireman, 50 years old; his wife, 46 years old; their son, Floyd, 22 years old, and another Mrs. Wireman, believed to be the wife of Floyd. Neighbors reported both shotgun and rifle wounds were found on the slain, indicating one person fired on the family.

Floyd Wireman was a member of a posse that figured in a double killing in the county last week. Frank Johnson, 23 years old, was slain by the posse after he had shot and killed Brack Pinks, 60 years old, a posseman. The posse was seeking Johnson and his brother, Robert, for a two year old murder, and came on the Johnsons unexpectedly. The gun battle followed. Sheriff Carpenter said the killing of the Wiremans may have been in retaliation for the son's part in the posse.

THE SPAGHETTI MAKER PUTS HIS GUEST AT EASE

Being Tale of Henry's Prowess as Sleuth.

For seven years Henry Fioletti has cooked spaghetti—tons of spaghetti, altogether—in a restaurant at Erie and Orleans street. Every Saturday he set aside part of his pay, until he finally owned bonds worth $2,000.

Recently his wife, Emma, informed him that a third bambino was on the way to gladden their home. Work was slack. Henry was presiding over the spaghetti boiler only two or three days a week, so he decided to sell his bonds. He gave them to Clarence A. Finn, a bond salesman from Plymouth, Ind., who has been staying at the Brevoort hotel.

But Finn didn't give him the money. Henry called him often, but got only excuses. It was nearly time for Mama Fioletti to go to the hospital. Thinking of her and of his $2,000, Henry didn't sleep for three nights.

Henry Finds Finn in Loop.

Last Monday Henry went to the loop, and at Madison and La Salle streets he espied Finn. He seized the salesman's arm.

"What about my money?" he demanded. "Any day now the baby comes, and I can't pay the doctor."

"Don't you worry," said Finn. "Come to the hotel. I'll get it for you."

At the Brevoort Henry summoned his brother, Albert. Finn, they said, made a number of telephone calls, but no money was forthcoming.

Darkness fell. Finn suggested that the brothers go home and see him the next morning.

An Evening with the Fioletti.

They went to the Fioletti home at 1444 North Kolin avenue. Henry cooked spaghetti and brought forth a jug of wine. Finn played with the two Fioletti children, Armando, 10 years old, and Delores, 2.

It would have been a merry evening if Henry hadn't asked every half hour, "What about my $2,000?"

Finn slept on a davenport. Henry and Albert sat up, keeping watch over him. Yesterday morning Henry went to the Felony court and told Judge Matthew D. Hartigan all about it. The judge gave him a warrant for Finn's arrest.

Back Again to the Hotel.

He took it home, where his faithful brother kept guard over Finn.

"I don't want to arrest you," Henry told his prisoner. "I want my $2,000."

"Come back to the hotel, then," suggested Finn.

They went to the hotel. Finn sat down in the lobby. Henry sat down. Albert sat down. They sat all day. At sundown Henry called Sergts. Edward Gleason and Anthony McDonough from the detective bureau. He handed them the warrant.

"Here," he said, "maybe you can get my $2,000."

AUSTRALIA PREMIERS AGREE TO CUT COSTS TO AVOID DEBT DEFAULT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 9.—After sitting for over a fortnight in conference, the state premiers, federal ministers, and leaders of the opposition in the federal parliament today agreed, in order to prevent a national debt default and a general failure to meet government payments, to reduce substantially all expenditures, including interest, salaries, wages, pensions and social services.

The conference declared that it was necessary to make the sacrifice, due to the inability of the government to meet its liabilities, which, it was stated must be shared by all. A conversion loan plan was approved. Under this plan owners of the internal debt of 550,000,000 pounds, about $2,673,000,000, will be asked voluntarily to accept a lower rate of interest, representing an all around reduction of 22½ per cent on existing rates, thus bringing the bulk of the loans down to a four per cent basis.

A national appeals committee, consisting of Prime Minister James H. Scullin, the leader of the opposition, and the chairman of the commonwealth bank board, has been appointed to direct the conversion plan. It is suggested that drastic action be taken against recalcitrant bond owners.

JUDGE UPHOLDS SHORT SENTENCE GIVEN KIRKLAND

One to Ten Year Term is Affirmed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—A smiling Virgil Kirkland was taken back to the state reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., tonight. The attempt of the attorney general of Indiana to have the youth sentenced to the penitentiary for from five to twenty-one years failed when Judge Grant Crumpacker refused to change the penalty of one to ten years in the reformatory which he had already imposed.

Thus, Kirkland will be eligible on May 27, 1932, to parole, although ten of the jurors who found him guilty of assault and battery with attempt to rape have declared that they thought they were imposing the death penalty upon him for the murder of 18 year old Arlene Draves.

Criticizes Jurors' Statements.

Judge Crumpacker referred to these statements of the jurors in bitter terms.

"Those jurors heard the evidence and returned a verdict upon what they heard in court," he said. "Then they got out into a wave of fanaticism and have since tried to return a verdict on what they've heard outside the courtroom.

"Once I had discharged the jury I could not recall them and, since a jury can't impeach itself, nothing more could be done about it."

As a result of the decision, Robert Estill, prosecutor of Lake county, announced that Leon Stanford and Henry Shirk, named with Kirkland in indictments charging murder, will not be prosecuted and will be released from custody. They are in the Crown Point jail.

Mr. Estill also said that David Thompson and Paul Barton, also named in the indictments, will be tried for assault and battery with intent to commit rape, which was the form on which the jury convicted Kirkland, but if they are found guilty he will move for suspension of the sentences.

Assistant Attorney General Burke Walker argued at length with the court attempting to show that Kirkland should have been given the longer penitentiary sentence. The shorter sentence in the reformatory was discretionary with the judge, he declared, but because of the nature of the case the most severe penalty should have been imposed.

Judge Cites Statutes.

Judge Crumpacker differed with the lawyer. He had read all the law upon the point he could find, he said, and he insisted that the statutes made it mandatory for the reformatory sentence to be imposed upon a minor.

"The jury found that Kirkland was 20 years old," he said. "That ended the whole matter. As a minor he could not be sentenced to the penitentiary."

The judge admitted he had erred in sentencing Kirkland on a charge of assault and battery with intent to commit a felony. He changed the sentence to read assault and battery with intent to commit rape.

"Well, I've no desire to show this court up," responded Walker. "And I haven't any malice in prosecuting this fellow. I just wanted to see, as a lawyer, that the proper sentence was given."

Kirkland was ordered to stand up. He was then sentenced to the reformatory for the second time, the first sentence having been expunged. The young defendant listened with a slight smile playing on his lips. His mother and stepfather nearby looked on, gratified. No relatives of Arlene, the murdered girl, were present.

On the first anniversary of the murder of Alfred Lingle, THE TRIBUNE yesterday paid in full the $25,000 reward which was posted by THE TRIBUNE within an hour after that sensational crime was committed.

A check for $25,000 was presented by THE TRIBUNE to John Hagan, the undercover man who discovered the identity of the murderer of Lingle.

Hagan was assigned by Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, and Charles F. Rathbun, assistant state's attorney, to mingle with the gangs of Chicago, to hobnob with the gangsters in the hope that he might learn why and by whom Lingle had been killed.

Gets Secret from Gangs.

After spending two and a half months living and going about the country with notorious members of Chicago's gang world, Hagan pierced the secret of the killing of Lingle.

Acting upon the information given by Hagan, Roche and Rathbun and their staff succeeded in the capture of Leo V. Brothers, a St. Louis gangster who, fleeing the consequences of another murder in St. Louis, had joined the ranks of the Chicago hoodlums.

Brothers was identified as the murderer of Lingle, he was placed on trial before a jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's court, and he was convicted.

At the outset of the investigation it was announced by State's Attorney Swanson that all of the officials and investigators participating in the inquiry, including Roche, Rathbun, police officials, Coroner Bundesen and himself, had agreed among themselves that they would not share in the reward money.

Braved Death in Inquiry.

The reward was offered for "information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Lingle," and John Hagan obtained such information upon which Brothers was arrested and convicted, and thus Hagan became eligible for the reward.

In the carrying out of his assignment Hagan braved many perils, and always, while he lived with the gangsters and learned their secrets, he stood in danger of being exposed. The penalty of this undoubtedly would have been death.

PLANS APPEAL AS COURT HOLDS HE HAS TWO WIVES

Faced with the embarrassment of two wives, Dr. Julian J. Golembiowski, physician at 700 North Ashland avenue, will appeal the decision handed down yesterday by Superior Judge Desort setting aside a divorce obtained by the physician from his first wife, Barbara, in Mexico in 1927. The judge sustained the separate maintenance suit of the physician's first wife and awarded alimony of $2 a week.

"The question of the residence of Dr. Golembiowski will have to be passed upon eventually in the higher courts. He went from here to Poland for a year, then to Mexico, where he was connected with a sanitarium for three months at Cuernavaca, Morelos," explained Ferre C. Watkins, attorney for the physician. "The doctor maintains also that he and his former wife were separated for two years before he left for Poland."

Judge Desort, in declaring the Mexican decree invalid, said: "This man evidently went to Mexico solely for the sake of divorcing his wife. He returned two months after the divorce which he obtained on grounds [incompatibility] which could not be sustained in Illinois courts."

MEETS HER MATE WITH NEW WIFE; PUTS HIM IN JAIL

Mrs. Vera Clerocke, 26 years old, 2427 Greenview avenue, met her husband, Frank, on the street yesterday. He was accompanied by a woman and a boy 5 years old. Mrs. Clrocke asked Frank who the woman was. He didn't answer, but the woman did. She said that she was Mrs. Frank Clerocke and that she and her husband were taking her son to the county hospital to have his tonsils out. Then Mrs. Clrocke called a policeman and Frank was arrested. He had gone through a marriage ceremony at Crown Point last Tuesday with the second woman, Mrs. Iva Luckett, 1226 North Central avenue, according to statements made by the second wife.

LOWMAN, AID TO MELLON, NAMED IN RUM CHARGE

Campbell, Ex-Enforcer, Is His Accuser.

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Maj. Maurice Campbell, who resigned as prohibition administrator of New York last July after denouncing "certain treasury department officials" as insincere and branding the eighteenth amendment a failure, today disclosed that he has submitted to President Hoover formal charges against Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman.

Mr. Mellon is accused of having "taken advantage of his official position to conceal facts and thus shield a government official who is derelict in his office."

Mr. Lowman, formerly head of the prohibition enforcement division of the treasury department and now head of the bureau of commercial alcohol, the bureau of customs, and the coast guard, is accused in eight specifications of "dereliction" of his prohibition enforcement duties, sometimes at the behest of politicans.

No Reply from President.

The charges were set forth in two letters to the President, dated May 7 and May 16, this year. To date, Maj. Campbell said, he has received no direct acknowledgment of the charges from the President. He did, however, receive from Secretary Mellon, to whom the President referred the complaint, a letter refusing to investigate the charges against Mr. Lowman. It was this fact that led him to make public today the text of the charges.

The accusations against Mr. Lowman were aired, in part, shortly after Maj. Campbell's resignation, in a series of articles which he wrote for the New York World and which were widely syndicated. But the major has told the President he has much additional evidence, well documented, to prove Mr. Lowman's "derelictions."

Charges Summarized.

By this evidence, if he is allowed to present it, Maj. Campbell hopes to prove that Mr. Lowman has played politics with prohibition enforcement; that he sought to moisten New York during the Hoover presidential campaign by directing Maj. Campbell to relax his vigilance over breweries; that he sought, at the urging of "certain politicians," to release more sacramental wine for consumption by New York's Jewish population, and that in many respects he has shown his lack of sympathy with the laws he is commissioned to enforce.

The first of Maj. Campbell's charges asserts, he told newspaper men today, that in August or September, 1928, Mr. Lowman called him to Washington and in the presence of a witness commanded that I, as prohibition administrator for the Second New York district, cease my vigilance with regard to supervision of certain breweries in New York City."

In August, 1928, he said, he also was informed by Mr. Lowman that he had made it "too dry" in New York.

Quotes Lowman on Beer.

He quoted Mr. Lowman as saying: "People are going around with their tongues hanging out because they cannot get beer. Beer wouldn't hurt anybody, and the people ought to have it."

On or about Aug. 22, 1928, he said, Mr. Lowman telegraphed him to be "vigilant, careful and discreet." He interpreted this order, he added, to mean that he was to cease rigid enforcement until the presidential elections of that year were over, so that voters of wet propensities would not be antagonized.

In September, 1927, Maj. Campbell charges, Mr. Lowman, "at the solicitation of certain politicians present in this office," endeavored to change regulations governing sacramental wines so that at least 3,000,000 gallons might be issued to the Jews in New York during a year. All present, Maj. Campbell said, admitted that if this were done "enormous quantities would be diverted to beverage use."

Cites Lowman Letter.

Maj. Campbell charged that the Twenty-sixth enforcement district at Albany was created for political purposes only, and that Palmer Canfield was named administrator for the same reasons.

Mr. Lowman wrote a congratulatory letter to Canfield, Maj. Campbell charged, saying that "after all the important thing in connection with your job is to keep the leaders lined up."

He states further that subsequent irregularities led to the suspension of Canfield, and that records now in Washington "contain much enlightening information regarding the activities of Mr. Lowman."

Maj. Campbell's evidence also is understood to deal with the events leading up to his resignation—a resignation which was reported to have been virtually "forced" following spectacular raids he made on the Plaza hotel and the Central Park Casino.

First Letter to Hoover.

In his first letter to the President, Maj. Campbell wrote that he had hoped that publicity given to the conditions complained of would bring about a remedy, "but inasmuch as this official [Lowman] continues in office, to the detriment of the public good and the administration of law enforcement, I feel compelled to request an investigation of the charges," which he then proceeded to detail as given above.

The reply to this letter came from Secretary Mellon and read, as given out by Maj. Campbell:

"Your letter of May 7, 1931, addressed to the President, has been referred to me. The statements made by you are summaries of allegations contained in a series of syndicated press articles written by you last year. At the time of this publication I made a thorough investigation of your allegations and conclusions. I found them at that time to be so ill founded as not to require an answer on the part of this department. Inasmuch as your letter states no new facts, there does not appear to be any occasion for further action on my part."

Sends a Second Letter.

On May 16, 1931, Maj. Campbell addressed another letter to President Hoover reiterating his charges and professing surprise at the results of the "investigation" made by Secretary Mellon.

"I deeply regret the attitude of Mr. Mellon in this matter," he wrote, "because it now necessitates the further charge that the secretary of the treasury has taken advantage of his official position to conceal facts, and thus shield a government official who is derelict in his office."

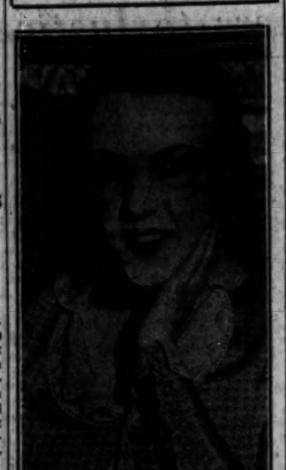
The letter added: "If the secretary's findings are justified that my charges are ill founded, it is most unfortunate that the public has not been so advised, for I assure you, Mr. President, there is universal belief throughout the country that the conditions I described exist, and it seems to me that any man who would dare to so malign public officials, as the secretary claims, should be branded a coward and a liar.

Reiterates His Charges.

"I assure you, Mr. President, I am most sincere in my desire to promote law enforcement. Rather than continue under the existing conditions I voluntarily resigned my government office and relinquished my civil service status, but I am compensated with the knowledge that after three years as prohibition administrator in New York there can be no stigma attached to my name.

"I repeat my charges against Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, Mr. President, and stand ready at any time to produce documentary evidence and testimony to sustain them."

WINS DECISION



Mrs. Nelson Morris (Jane Aubert).
[Acme Photo.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—The divorce action which Jane Aubert, French stage celebrity, brought against Col. Nelson Morris of Chicago two years ago, will finally go to trial at Versailles on July 22.

Col. Morris, in his effort to halt the suit, charged that Jane is not a French citizen since she married an American, and that the French courts are incompetent to try the case. The court of appeals has decided that the local courts are competent and has fixed the date.

Jane's argument was that since she lives at Visinet, near Paris, on her own property, she is entitled to a divorce from a French court. Her $50,000 villa at Visinet was given to her by Col. Morris. She is represented by Paul Boncour, French representative at the league of nations. Col. Morris' attorney is Raymond Rosenmark.

MITCHELL DENIES TAKING ANY PART IN HILL TAX SUIT

Says He Didn't Intend to Evade Couzens' Queries

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Attorney General Mitchell today answered the criticism of his official conduct in the Hill tax case last Friday by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] by publishing a history of the case as it passed through the department of justice showing that he had no part in its disposition.

JAMES COUZENS.
[U. & U. Photo.]

Mr. Mitchell laid to a slip-up in his office the blame for his failure to answer Senator Couzens' letter of two months ago asking why the treasury department's claim of an additional $1,130,000 in estate taxes against the estate of Mrs. James J. Hill, widow of the rail magnate, had not been pressed by the department of justice.

The Couzens letter pointed out that Mr. Mitchell had acted as Mrs. Hill's attorney in making the transfer of property through which part of the estate escaped taxation. At the time the Hill case came before the department of justice Mr. Mitchell was solicitor general. But, Mr. Mitchell explained, he had nothing to do with handling the suit.

Reviews History of Case.

The history of the case as made public by Mr. Mitchell showed that while still in private practice he had acted for Mrs. Hill in making gifts of a portion of her estate to her heirs and to various organizations. Following her death the government sued, claiming these gifts should be included in the estate and subjected to tax. The case proceeded to the Court of Appeals, where it was handled by attorneys for the bureau of internal revenue. The court decided against the government.

"After the adverse decision in the Circuit Court of Appeals the bureau of internal revenue presented to the department of justice the question whether an application should be made to the Supreme court to exercise its discretionary power to review the case on writ of certiorari," the department of justice report declared.

Goes to Tax Division.

"The question in the first instance was submitted to the tax division, then in charge of Assistant Attorney General Willebrandt. It went first to Morton P. Fisher, a special assistant to the attorney general, who recommended against filing the petition for certiorari.

"This recommendation was concurred in by Mahlon D. Kiefer, attorney in the tax division, and by Sewall Key, head of the tax division under Mrs. Willebrandt. On May 26, 1928, a conference was held on the matter between Mrs. Willebrandt, Mr. Key, and Mr. Fisher, who concurred in the conclusion that no petition for certiorari should be filed in the Supreme court. The papers with these recommendations were then transmitted direct to Attorney General Sargent on June 6, 1928, who approved the recommendation against certiorari."

WOMAN SHOOTS HER HUSBAND AT ELGIN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Opal Blades, an attendant at the Illinois State hospital at Elgin, yesterday shot and wounded her husband, Gilbert Blades, manager of the institution's baseball team and brother of Ray Blades, outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mrs. Blades returned to the hospital from her home in McLeansboro, Ill., on Friday. She was told, she said, that her husband had been seen with another woman. Yesterday she drove out to the ball field and found a woman waiting for Blades. The woman fled. Mrs. Blades drove to her home and returned with a revolver.

She called to her husband who was practicing with his team. As he approached the car she fired. Blades reached for the gun as the shot went wild. She fired a second time, hitting him in the right wrist. Blades fell to the ground and rolled beneath her automobile. She got out of the car to fire again but there were no more cartridges in the gun. Mrs. Blades then drove to the Elgin police station where she was charged with assault to commit murder. Blades' condition is not serious.

Lumber Firm Presents Its Claim.

Madison, Va., June 9.—[Special.]—The Ward Rue Lumber company today claimed $300,000 as the value for recreational purposes of the land it owns alongside the upper part of the Rapidan river. A portion of this property is alleged now to be occupied without permission by the so called "cabinet camp," a part of the summer establishment of President Hoover.

F. W. REED.

Another portion of this ground is held by the marines under a lease, but was occupied for a year without one, it is claimed.

The claim of $300,000 was presented in today's testimony before a valuation commission appointed in a condemnation proceeding to obtain about eight thousand acres of Ward Rue property for the Shenandoah National park.

That figure was sent by Franklin W. Reed, executive secretary of the Society of American Foresters and former district forester of the United States in charge of the eastern half of the country.

In arriving at the above figure Mr. Reed deducted certain necessary expenses of development for recreational purposes, among which he mentioned the cleaning up of "some very untidy spots left on the property by the people who built the road to the President's camp."

The so-called "cabinet camp"—the portion of President Hoover's summer establishment which is occupied, according to testimony, somewhat in the way of squatters—was described by witnesses as a very elaborate establishment.

The land involved does not include the buildings which are occupied by the President himself. That land is owned by Mr. Hoover.

BOY'S BODY RECOVERED.

La Salle, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—The body of James Kinne, 6, was recovered from the Vermilion river at Streator today. The boy was sent to the river bank to find a shoe lost at play.

RADICALS ERRED CALLING HUGHES A REACTIONARY

Chief Justice Proves to Be the Reverse.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Tribune Telegram Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Official Washington is viewing with considerable amusement the discomfiture of the senate radicals by the prediction of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes in his Supreme court opinions as the antithesis of the sort of bigot they predicted he would be.

The senate radicals fought confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Hughes to the Supreme court on the ground that he is a reactionary, a lackey of big business, in whose interests there is not a progressive bone in his body. They asserted that to elevate Mr. Hughes to the bench would be to exalt property rights above human rights.

In the year that he has served since his appointment to the court, Mr. Hughes has turned out to be as progressive as any of the radicals could demand, as progressive, at least, as Associate Justices Holmes and Brandeis, whose praises the radicals are now to sing in chorus.

Liberal Majority for Court.

Justice Mr. Hughes, joining with Associate Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Roberts, has transformed the former conservative majority of the court into a liberal majority.

The radicals have been struck dumb by a series of opinions by Chief Justice Hughes to which they could take no exception. In the chain store tax, the gas tax, the Minnesota gag law, the citizenship and several other noted cases of the last year, he took the liberal view.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], who took a prominent part in the fight on the Hughes nomination in the senate, declined to be interviewed on the record the chief justice has made in the court. Similar reticence was evinced by other radicals, some of whom said they would prefer to withhold comment pending action of the court on the forthcoming power trust case.

Cousens Admits His Error.

The only one of the 26 senators who voted against the confirmation of Mr. Hughes' appointment who has broken his silence on the Hughes record up to date is James Cousens [Ia., Rish.], and he admits he made a mistake.

"When the nomination of Mr. Hughes for chief justice was pending in the senate I discussed it fully with President Hoover," Senator Cousens said. "I had formed an opinion as to Mr. Hughes' qualifications for that judicial office and it was distinctly unfavorable to him. I so informed the President and told him I would oppose confirmation of Mr. Hughes' nomination. My opinion of him then was based chiefly upon his views in reference to litigation involving the city of Detroit when I was mayor of the city.

"The first decision of importance he delivered was that in what was known as 'The Southern Pacific Labor Case.' This litigation involved the right of injunction in a controversy of the railroad with some of its employes. The tone of the decision was such I was inclined to suspend judgement as to the fitness of the new chief justice. It extended the interpretation of the law and gave rights to labor that had not existed under previous decisions. When Mr. Hughes' nomination was before the senate that is precisely the kind of decision I thought he would not hand down. Since then I carefully have studied other opinions he has rendered, which have convinced me that Chief Justice Hughes is a judge who would not elevate property rights above human rights.

"The substance of these opinions is along lines of sound progressive thought. Recently I said to President Hoover that in passing upon Mr. Hughes' fitness for chief justice he had been right and I had been wrong on the judge."

ORPHANED BY ROBBERS

TWO FACE DEATH

With the death yesterday of Policeman Edward M. O'Donnell, Nick Floridia, 29 years old, 1933 Taylor street, and Mike Trotta, 25, of 924 South Ashland boulevard, faced charges of murder as the result of a shooting to which they had confessed several hours earlier. Police are seeking a third man.

The shooting occurred on Monday afternoon in front of 25 North Green street, when O'Donnell grappled with Floridia and Trotta in an effort to foil the robbery of Miss Lillian Rice, 2828 Abbott court, whom he was escorting to a nearby bank with $600 in cash and $2,400 in checks belonging to the Schulze Biscuit company. The money vanished, police believe, in the hands of a third member of the mob, but Floridia and Trotta were captured after a heroic chase by Frank Rogers, an ex-artilleryman and aviator, who snatched up the fallen policeman's gun and cowed the robbers in an alley nearly three blocks distant.

O'Donnell, who lived at 4907 Fulton street, died in the county hospital. He was 35 years old, married, and the father of two children.

J. M. BECK FIRES ON 'SANCTITY' OF SUPREME COURT

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

That aura of sanctity surrounding the procedure and decision of the United States Supreme court for generations was abruptly challenged yesterday by a former solicitor general of the United States. James M. Beck, now a member of congress from Pennsylvania, dwelt feelingly on what he termed "this spirit of legal sacerdotalism" in his address to the graduating class of the Northwestern university school of law.

"I have the profoundest respect for the proceedings of the court," Mr. Beck said in his address at Lincoln hall on the McKinlock campus. "I appreciate fully the gravity of many questions upon which it is necessary to render a decision. It is my private belief that it is not only the best court in this country, but the best court in all the world.

Urges Spirit of Progress.

"Nevertheless, I want to emphasize to you young men and women just starting out in the profession the thought just voiced by Dean Wigmore in those trenchant phrases in which he adjured you to be progressive. I want to remind you that the purpose of a law school is to give a spirit of philosophic inquiry to its students. That you may not walk blindly in the paths of legal tradition, but that you seek to find, not what the law was or is now, but what it ought to be.

"In England the feeling exists in the law that bench and bar contribute jointly to the ultimate decision of the court, that before a case is closed the bar will have been given the fullest opportunity to be heard. I am not so certain that this is the case in our country, in whatever court.

"I believe that the Supreme court is our greatest contribution to the science of government. But the subserviency with which lawyers have for generations approached its portals and reviewed its decisions as though they were incapable of error I think is not for the best interest of that court.

"A Human Institution."

"We ought not to lose sight of the fact that, after all, the Supreme court is not only a human institution but a political one as well.

"It will probably be regarded as the rankest heresy for me to utter anything suggesting a criticism of that great jurist, Chief Justice Marshall. I yield to no man in my admiration for that remarkable figure, and thirty-seven years of practice in the Supreme court only heightened my regard for him and his achievements.

"Nevertheless if there is one decision linked with the great name of John Marshall it is the Marbury-Madison case, which reacted prejudicially against the court for more than a lifetime, and in which his action may have been that of a politician, but was certainly not that of a jurist."

Marshall believed, said Mr. Beck, that Thomas Jefferson, who had been elected President, might wreck the country. Therefore Marshall, in his official capacity as secretary of state of the retiring administration, signed numerous commissions for appointive offices in the judiciary, and even justices of the peace, to insure his own party carrying over.

Jefferson Action Causes Suit.

Some of the commissions had not been delivered when Jefferson took office and he ordered that the commissions be held up.

When Marbury, one of the appointees, brought suit, it was Marshall, sitting as chief justice, who passed upon the matter in which he himself had had a part. While this did not seem to attract undue attention and was probably accepted under the ethics of the time, Mr. Beck said, Marshall first ruled that Marbury was entitled to the office and then denied the jurisdiction of the court in the matter.

Dr. John Wigmore, dean emeritus of the Northwestern law school, inducted Mr. Beck and high ranking members of the graduating class into membership in the Order of the Coif, honorary legal fraternity.

REALTY OWNER SUED FOR HALF A MILLION ON WOMAN'S CHARGE

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Edward B. Dean Sr., wealthy Washington real estate owner, was sued for $500,000 damages in the District Supreme court today by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd of Garrisonville, Va., Mrs. Lloyd charged that Dean attempted to assault her May 8 when she was showing him through a residence that was for sale. In addition to the assault charge, Mrs. Lloyd alleges that Dean caused her arrest and detention three days by district authorities. Lloyd also charged that he had been arrested at Dean's instigation on a blackmail charge and detained by police for several days. Mrs. Lloyd asks $300,000 and her husband $200,000.

PAROLE OF U. S. PRISONERS IS UP 100% IN A YEAR

Government Gets Lenient to Relieve Jam.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Statistics published by the department of justice today indicate that the government is becoming more lenient in its handling of federal prisoners. Official figures show a 100 per cent increase during the last year in the number of prisoners out on parole and probation.

In the last week of May, 1931, there were 39,993 persons under federal sentence, compared with 31,467 for the same date a year ago. Of the 39,993 under federal sentences 26,689 were in prisons and jails, 2,451 were on parole and 10,853 were out on probation.

A year ago only 1,447 were on parole while 4,122 were out on probation. The big increase in the number of paroles issued is due partly to the existence of a separate federal parole board which devotes all its time to the business of looking into the records of prisoners and determining whether they should be freed.

The abnormal increase in the number of paroles and probation applications granted has also helped to alleviate crowded conditions in the government penal institutions.

5,000 POLITICAL SPEAKERS HEAT MISSISSIPPI AIR

And "Bilbo the Builder" Leads All the Rest.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jackson, Miss., June 9.—[Special.]—This is the political season in Mississippi, with more than five thousand candidates seeking preference at the August primaries in state-wide and local divisions, from Yellow Rabbit to Vinegar Bend, as political boundaries run here.

GOV. BILBO. [Acme Photo.]

Standing on the capitol steps, looking over this city which presents a picture of the new south arising on old foundations, sniffing the breeze from the piney woods and the gulf, one can almost hear the shouting of the candidates as they make the welkin ring with old fashioned personal campaigning. No radio talks for Mississippi politicians, but the good old fashioned handshaking, baby kissing tactics, with a good deal of talk about the right of the poor.

Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, who has dominated politics in this state for twenty years, is getting into the fray next Monday with the first of a series of speeches on Bilboism in general.

He's Eying U. S. Senate.

He cannot succeed himself and is said to be getting ready to enter the race for United States senate in 1934.

In the meantime the fiery little governor, who refers to himself as "Bilbo the Builder" and who is called "Bilbo of the Bullrushes" by his opponents, is likely to be heard in the presidential campaign next year, for the Democratic national committee already is seeking his help. In the 1928 campaign when they saw the south slipping to Mr. Hoover the Democrats made a similar plea and Gov. Bilbo responded by getting on a stage in Memphis and telling the yarn about Mr. Hoover dancing with a Negro at Mound Bayou during his flood relief trip. That was a poser for the candidate to answer. Gov. Bilbo chuckled, and it certainly stirred up the staid Hoover secretariat.

What will Bilbo do? That is the constant question in politics here. It is to be answered next Monday for this campaign.

School System at Stake.

Much is involved, including the welfare of the state educational institutions, which are deeply enmeshed in politics.

"Things have come to a hell of a pass when a man can't wallop his own jackass," said Gov. Bilbo, referring to his row with W. F. Bond, state superintendent of education and his former political supporter, after Bond had refused to resign and make way for a man who would support the governor's program.

A total of 179 professors, assistants and employés went down in this political mêlée, creating a situation which has left the educational institutions in a turmoil.

The governor found places in this way for political favorites. Stone Deavours, Democratic national committeeman and political friend, was made dean of the school of law at the state university. Senator Julius C. Zeller was given a post as vice chancellor. He was a farmer and a former superintendent of an agricultural high school. Senator Hansford L. Simmons, court stenographer of a county high court years ago, was made vice president of the state college for women. Other legislators were given jobs as night watchmen for the university proctors and as grass cutters.

Laughs at Impeachment.

There is talk of impeaching the governor when the session is called in January, but that does not trouble Gov. Bilbo. He has been in a constant struggle with the legislature.

These are a few things the governor is supposed to talk about next week. He will tell his friends, the common people, all about it.

Bilboism is far from defeat. It is a good deal liver than Hooverism in this state.

In the meantime the state is struggling along without appropriations and several institutions will be in difficulties in the fall. There is a treasury deficit of several millions. There also is a record of 1,600 pardons and parole out of the state penitentiary within three years.

LOSES SECOND ROUND OF LEGAL FIGHT TO MAKE HOME IN CHURCH

Clarence Spiering yesterday lost another round in his legal battle to retain possession of the Hickory Corners Methodist church as a home. Circuit Judge Ralph J. Daly at Waukegan instructed a jury to return a verdict favoring trustees of the church seeking Spiering's ouster. Spiering announced he will carry his fight to the Appellate court if his motion for a new trial is not sustained on June 19.

The church is three miles east of Antioch. Six months ago, when Spiering's home, across the road from the church, burned he moved his family into the church. Trustees of the church brought an action before a justice of the peace to oust the family as squatters. The justice upheld the trustees and Spiering appealed to the Circuit court.

Spiering maintains he has possession of the church through reversion of the title of the site to his mother.

SUIT LOST, WIFE KILLS HUSBAND AT COURT DOOR

Resorts to Gun When Law Fails Her.

Freeport, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Vera Witte, 26, shot her husband, William Witte, 55, to death in front of the courthouse here today a few minutes after she had lost a suit filed against him for separate maintenance. After the killing she surrendered to former Sheriff Robert F. Stewart and was placed in a cell.

The Wittes, married only about a year, had twice taken their troubles to court. Several months ago the husband sued for divorce on cruelty grounds, but the decree was denied.

His wife countered with a separation action, also charging cruelty, and it was this suit that was heard today by Circuit Judge William J. Emerson, who refused Mrs. Witte's petition.

Leave Court Together.

The pair walked out of court after the decision, apparently on friendly terms. According to witnesses the woman left her husband on the courthouse steps, saying, "Well, then, I'll see you in a week."

Witte walked down the street and Mrs. Witte got into a small automobile. Catching up with her husband a few yards from the courthouse entrance, she steered over the curb, stepped out, and fired three shots point blank from a .32 caliber pistol. Wittte dropped dead instantly with one bullet in his heart and two in his head.

Mrs. Witte extended the gun to Stewart, who ran from the doorway of the courthouse.

"I'm ready to go to jail," she said.

Displays No Regret.

She was taken to a cell within ten minutes of the shooting. She refused to talk and displayed no regret when word was brought that her husband was dead. Witte was employed as an engineer by the Illinois Central railroad.

He is survived by a son, Leslie, and a daughter, Ina, of Freeport, with whom he had been living since a recent estrangement with his wife.

Mrs. Witte was formerly Vera Hartman of this city. She shot and wounded her first husband, Ralph Amoth, a former resident of Freeport, in their Minneapolis home several years ago. Amoth obtained a divorce shortly afterward, and she returned to Freeport.

THREE CAKES of fresh yeast daily, eaten before or between meals, soften accumulated wastes and help the body clear them away. With elimination made normal once more, joyous health soon comes back again.

MORE FUN from life is the result when waste has been eliminated from the intestinal tract

They eat 3 Cakes a Day... REGULARLY

That's the secret of keeping internally clean by the Yeast method

LITERALLY thousands of people in the United States and Canada have found new health through eating yeast. Men, women, children, rich folk and plain folk. So many of them, there must be many in your own circle.

You may not know that they eat yeast. People do not often discuss the ways and means they use in achieving health.

But when you see men and women radiant with health . : : enjoying every minute of the day : : : never seeming to tire : : : boasting glorious skins and marvelous complexion color : : : you can very nearly put this down as certain:

Either they are regular followers of the yeast routine, or they have been lucky enough to escape the prevalent evil that eating yeast corrects!

That's a broad statement, but here's why it is true : : :

The picture above, on the left, depicts the stomach and intestinal tract. It is in this region that your body draws its sustenance from the food you eat.

This region must be clean and healthy. If waste matter is allowed to gather there, as it does in many cases, the body absorbs poisons from fermenting residue instead of nutritive elements. The skin grows clouded, or suffers blemishes. Resistance to sickness is reduced; colds and headaches are apt to follow. Appetite grows dull.

In short, we suffer half-health, which may soon lead to serious ills.

Therefore, it is vital that we give this region regular, intelligent care. Wastes must be cleaned away. Elimination kept complete and regular. Poisons must be prevented from forming and seeping into the system.

That is what Fleischmann's Yeast does. It clears away poison-breeding material, so that the skin clears. It fosters digestion, so that normal appetite is restored. It strengthens resistance to illness by providing fresh and constant nourishment. Thus the whole body benefits. Clear skin, clear eyes, renewed vitality.

Get at the trouble, beginning today.

You can buy Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers', restaurants, soda fountains. Just eat three cakes every day, regularly—a cake before each meal or between meals and at bedtime—plain or in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold) or any way you like. Remember, every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in three vitamins indispensable to health—vitamins B, G and D.

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully.

Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) : : : the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

DIVERS HUNT FOR SUBMARINE AND 18 TRAPPED MEN

Goes to Bottom of Ocean After Collision.

BULLETIN.

WEIHAIWEI, China, June 9.—(AP)—News came today that six men had escaped from the British submarine Poseidon after she had been sunk by the Chinese steamer Yuta. They emerged from the depths by means of the submarine's escape apparatus. The exact loss of life remained uncertain.

BULLETIN.

WEIHAIWEI, China, June 10.—(AP)—The mother ship Medway was understood today to be in communication with eight members of the crew of the sunken submarine Poseidon and hopes to be able to rescue them.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HONGKONG, June 9.—The British submarine, Poseidon, of 1,475 tons, one of the latest vessels of her type, plunged to her doom 21 miles north of Weihaiwei, on Shantung peninsula, today after a collision with a Chinese merchant steamer named Yuta. Five officers and 28 men managed to jump clear before the ill fated vessel filled and sank, taking, it is believed, 18 men with her to the bottom. Two men, however, were so badly injured in the collision that they died later.

The Poseidon, according to reports, was exercising with a number of other British warships, including the aircraft carrier Hermes and the speedy cruisers Berwick and Cumberland.

Divers Hunt for Sub.

The submarine parent ship, Medway, to which the Poseidon had been acting as tender, also was at hand, and divers immediately were sent down. It was thought that some members of the crew might have been able to close the water tight compartments against the first inrush of water and that one or two groups might still be alive, but imprisoned without chance of escape. Although the disaster occurred at 12:45 p. m local time, the divers had not been able to locate the submarine at a late hour tonight.

The Poseidon, whose length was 260 feet, with a beam of 28 feet, and which had eight torpedo tubes, was launched on June 21, 1929. Her sister ships, Pandora, Perseus, and Proteus, were all built and put into service at about the same time.

Rist of Other Mishaps.

Today's accident was the fifth of a series of British submarine disasters since the war. In 1922 the K-5 was sunk. In 1924 the L-24 sank after being rammed by the battleship Resolution, carrying 43 men to death. In 1925 the M-1 went down off Portland with 62 officers and men. The most recent accident was the loss of 21 men on the H-47, which sank after a collision with the L-12 in July, 1929.

DECRIES RADIO BALLYHOO

MATCHES RADIO AND PRINTING ON CULTURAL SCALE

British Broadcast Chief Talks on Education.

The invention of radio broadcasting is potentially as important an event in the history of man's intellectual development as the invention of the printing press, luncheon guests at the Union League club were told yesterday by Sir John C. W. Reith, director general of the British Broadcasting corporation, who is visiting Chicago in connection with the radio convention in the Stevens hotel.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university and vice chairman of the national council on radio in education, presided at the luncheon.

Mr. Reith pointed out that the adjective "educational" must be employed tactfully as people are apt to resent any open proposal to uplift them, and he said that the cultural improvement of the radio public depends upon the showmanship of the broadcasters. He declared that a broadcaster should not be treated as a publisher nor as a printer but as an editor.

"Avoid Uplift Suspicion."

"An uplift attitude, or still more, the suspicion in ordinary people's minds that it exists, is perhaps the greatest danger that radio education has to face," he said.

"Ballyhoo, as I understand it, means something more than mere advertisement or boosting. It is the cry by which the agonized listener or reader vents his opinion of the blatant thrusting of wares upon his attention. I submit that there is a risk of educational ballyhoo as well as of commercial ballyhoo. It is not so vulgar; it is quite different in motive; but is it not more or less the same fundamentally—an assertion that this brand of culture is the only culture, as this brand of soap is the only soap?

"It has been found that this is not the way to sell goods to the radio audience, whether the goods be material or spiritual.

"These factors are important enough in school broadcasting; they are vital in the adult field. In school work you cover those already organized in collective units and in the habit of receiving straight instruction. In the adult field you meet your listeners at large after the docility of the pupil has departed.

"Presentation is the specialty of the broadcaster and an inalienable part of his public responsibility.

"Now one of the chief motives of the establishment of central control in England was to secure coverage for the entire country. Complete freedom to erect commercial stations means chaos. But experience disclosed a qualitative problem. There is no one here, and few anywhere, who would dispute the incalculable responsibility put on those who control the ether in terms of political, social, intellectual, moral, and religious power."

Mr. Reith then criticised those radio advertisers who fill their time on the air with direct sales talk.

Depression at Bottom, View.

At the radio manufacturers convention Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, declared the business depression had hit the bottom last January. He said he did not care to predict when the upward swing would start but reported there "had been somewhat of a rise since January."

Walter J. Damm of Milwaukee, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, advocated a treaty instead of a gentleman's agreement between stations in Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and the United States which use the same wave lengths.

ADVANCES IN TELEVISION

Television is almost out of the experimental stage and its practical application is a matter not of years but of months. This statement was made last night during a television demonstration before radio editors who gathered in the Drake hotel at the invitation of the Short Wave and Television corporation of Boston and the Sanabria Laboratories of Chicago.

In the demonstration images six feet square were thrown upon a screen whereas in the past it was possible to produce only tiny pictures which were viewed through a lens. Moreover, last night's images were in black and white whereas formerly it was necessary to reproduce in red.

The screen was set up at the north end of the ball room and the transmitting apparatus was along the east wall. U. A. Sanabria took charge of the demonstration and the room was darkened.

Photographs of movie stars were placed before the photo electric cell of the transmitting apparatus and were reproduced upon the screen, first in two foot and then in six foot squares. Next several men and women took their places before the instrument, one at a time, and their faces were brought sharply into focus on the screen. They registered various emotions and the changes in expression were reproduced faithfully in both the two foot and six foot dimensions.

MAYOR GETS CONVENTION

Mayor Cermak turned salesman for a half hour last night, following his return from Springfield. In an address to 500 members of the National Association of Music Merchants at the Palmer House he pledged that Chicago would become by 1933 the most beautiful and best governed city in the world and invited the delegates to return here for their convention during the Century of Progress exposition.

When the mayor finished, Otto B. Heaton of Cleveland, retiring president of the association, rose and pledged the delegates to a unanimous vote to make Chicago their 1933 convention city. Mr. Cermak was introduced to the convention by his grand daughter, Miss Vivian Graham.

Officers elected by the association yesterday are: president, Edwin R. Weeks, Binghamton, N. Y., vice presidents, Jay Grinnell, Detroit; C. H. De Acres, Chicago, and Phil A. Lehman, St. Louis; secretary, C. H. Yahrling, Youngstown, O., and treasurer, Carl A. Droop, Washington, D. C. Mr. Grinnell and Parham Werlein of New Orleans were nominated directors of the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce.

SHELLS EXPLODE IN CULVER SHAM BATTLE; INJURE 2

Culver, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—Two cadets at Culver Military academy were burned today, one so seriously that he may lose his sight, when several shells for a one pounder gun which they were firing during a sham battle exploded.

The injured cadets were Carl A. Vogeler II., 2631 Clifton avenue, Cincinnati, and Herbert Weston of Beatrice, Neb. Each is 16 years old. Vogeler was burned about the face and arms and it is feared that his sight may have been affected. Weston's right index finger was torn off, and he suffered slight burns also.

Vogeler's father, Carl A. Vogeler, a wholesale druggist, and his sister, Eleanor, 19 years old, were among the 1,500 spectators viewing the sham battle which was part of commencement week events. Several women who witnessed the accident fainted. The boys were placed in an automobile, put on the Manhattan Limited of the Pennsylvania railroad, which was stopped for them at Plymouth Ind., and taken to Mercy hospital in Chicago.

DEFORMED HAND GETS GUERIN OUT OF PRISON TERM

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Eddie Guerin, notorious criminal who once escaped from the French penal colony on Devil's Island, was saved from a three year jail sentence today because he has only two fingers on his right hand.

The 71 year old ex-convict had been convicted of cashing forged checks and sentenced to three years, but he won an appeal by establishing that one of the witnesses at his trial had testified that the man for whom he cashed spurious checks had hands that were perfectly normal.

His conviction was based on the testimony of two persons who had cashed bad checks

Links World Depression to Debt Crisis.

The chancellor's first job will be to report on that conference to President von Hindenburg, who is at his summer home in East Prussia, and to the cabinet. Then he will have to listen to the chorus of complaints by leaders of the various political parties each of whom has his own solution for the nation's economic difficulties.

It is virtually certain that Bruening will refuse any demands for convocation of the reichstag, which now is out for the summer recess, but the council of elders, the reichstag's steering committee, tomorrow will consider motions by the Nationalists, the Fascists, and the communists for an early extra session.

An official denial has been issued of reports that the government was preparing to demand a moratorium, but at the same time it is agreed that the government realizes the people will demand something more tangible regarding the war debts than they have yet received, and it is expected that some action toward that end may be taken late this month or early next month.

WARNS OF GERMAN CRISIS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—A warning that financial and economic collapse of Germany would have far reaching effect on the world, and an assertion that any remission of war debts on the part of the United States "would be swallowed up like a drop in a bucket," with little if any direct effect upon existing world conditions, were voiced today by Alanson B. Houghton, former ambassador to Germany and Great Britain.

"I cannot think of anything more unfortunate for the world than the collapse of Germany at the present moment," he said, "and that collapse, unless some help is extended her, must not be regarded either as impossible or perhaps far removed."

The former ambassador spoke at commencement exercises at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. His address dealt entirely with Germany's financial condition and payment of the nation's war debts.

Status of Debt to U. S.

"When the nations are spending twelve thousand million dollars a year it is difficult to believe that the 200 odd millions coming to us stand between them and prosperity," he said. "Even if we renounced our war debt we have no possible reason to assume that such a remission would benefit in the slightest those we might be willing to relieve. Despite the depression their expenditures show no signs of decreasing."

The allied nations, he said, "are not groaning under the burden of what they owe us. They pay us nothing. They act merely as transfer agents, and pay us out of the reparation payments they have forced Germany to pay them."

Other Nations Should Help.

Relief for Germany, if it is to be afforded by remission or suspension of her reparation payments for two years or five years, or until her economic and financial situation is sufficiently improved to enable her again to take up the burden of those payments without probable collapse, he said, "must be afforded by all the nations concerned and not by America alone."

"I have tried not to paint the situation in Germany in too lurid colors," he said. "That would be merely to mislead you. But I do want you to realize how serious the situation may become and to emphasize that twelve years after the war the situation is not improving and may be changing for the worse. Germany, I am inclined to believe, has been pushed about as far as she can go."

Senator Bingham Warns U.S. Is Facing Defeatist Peril

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The abandonment of Guam as a naval base and the drive for Philippine independence, sure to be made in the next congress, are indications that the United States is facing weakened patriotism and growing defeatism, Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], chairman of the senate committee on territories and insular affairs, declared today.

HIRAM BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

It is the down swing, he said, after the nationalistic upswing of the '90s, when "people had faith in American institutions, faith in their government, and were willing to back up President Cleveland when he declared his readiness to go to war with Great Britain, then the world's most powerful nation, rather than permit her to decide the Venezuelan boundary dispute in an arbitrary fashion."

Recalls Bryan's Efforts.

Senator Bingham recalled how Bryan, hunting for an issue, had picked up the anti-imperialism cry following the acquisition of the Philippines, Porto Rico and Guam as the result of the Spanish-American war.

"Anti-imperialism found no great response throughout the nation," said the senator. "In those days people had great faith in America and in the ability of our government to make the world a better place to live in, even at the expense of carrying the big stick and sometimes rattling the saber. Theodore Roosevelt was the personification of that era. In dealing with foreign nations, he generally spoke softly, but they knew he had an efficient navy behind him. When it was necessary for him to speak sharply, as it was in the Venezuelan affair, even the German kaiser changed his plans and became less warlike.

"Any one who would have suggested that we pull down the American flag from over conquered territory in those days would have been outvoted, to say the least."

Refers to Wilson Attitude.

Then, Senator Bingham pointed out, followed a drift toward pacifism, which was sufficiently marked by the beginning of the great war to warrant President Wilson in taking the attitude that there was such a thing as being "too proud to fight." Eventually, this attitude changed, at least temporarily, but the lessons of the great war have been used by the pacifists and internationalists, he said, as an excuse for decrying nationalism.

"As one of their arguments," he went on, "they say national defense costs money. They use that as an argument for giving up the Philippine islands and Guam. Everybody knows we are spending more money on these islands than we are receiving. Nobody wants an increase in taxes. But it is worth noting that while items connected with the national defense are unpopular, the critics of such expenditures advocate spending further great sums on items to increase the centralization of government, and extend the movement toward paternalism.

"To give up the Philippines and Guam and scuttle back across the Pacific means to surrender our prestige in the orient and our influence toward maintaining peace, not only in the far east, but in the world."

Forest Commissioners Ask River Polution Be Stopped

A resolution passed yesterday by the board of forest preserve commissioners asks officials of the sanitary district to put a stop to the dumping of sewage and other refuse into the north branch of the Chicago river. According to Superintendent Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserves district, the north branch of the Desplaines river have ben so polluted that visitors to the Caldwell-Sauganash preserve are no longer able to use the streams for bathing and wading. It is estimated that about 250,000 people visit this tract of the preserves annually.

STIMSON CALLS DEFENSE FIGHT A BASIC DUTY

Good Citizen Can't Evade It, He Tells Students.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today told the graduating class of the Pennsylvania Military college that the duty of national defense is one of the basic duties which every citizen must be prepared to perform. The man who is unwilling to perform this duty, he said, "is not fully qualified for citizenship."

Mr. Stimson spoke in Washington, D. C., and his message was broadcast during the commencement exercises held at Chester, Pa. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred on Mr. Stimson.

"I am particularly proud to receive this degree, because at a period of the world's life when so many people are concentrating their attention on the privileges of citizenship, your college is emphasizing one of the sternest of its duties," Secretary Stimson said. "That is the duty to defend our country and her institutions from physical violence.

Civilization Still Imperfect

"Until our civilization has attained a much higher level than it has reached today, the duty of national defense will remain one of the basic duties which a citizen must be ready to perform. It is a noble duty—not because war is noble, for it is not; but because to the individual who offers himself and his life for the defense of others, the act involves a much greater readiness for self-sacrifice than any possible act of citizenship.

"In a democracy, like ours, where opportunities and rights are equal to all citizens, the duties should also be equal; and the man who is unwilling to undertake this duty shows that he is not fully qualified for citizenship."

Peace May Come Some Day.

Secretary Stimson predicted that eventually war will be abolished in favor of a rule of law, adding that it is the duty of every citizen to further the cause of permanent peace.

"My message to you men of the graduating class," Mr. Stimson continued, "is that these two great duties go side by side and hand in hand. So long as war and violence remain a hazard of this imperfect world, with the risk which they involve to the friends, the families, and the institutions which we love, no man can truly or fully perform the duty of American citizenship unless he stands ready and prepared to risk his all in their defense."

SHORT WEIGHT WILES SHOWN IN PAMPHLET; CITY SEALER AUTHOR

All of the wiles of short weighing tradesmen are exposed in a pamphlet which City Sealer Joe Grein has published as part of his war on merchants who cheat their customers.

Commodities should always be bought by weight, measure, or numerical count, and never by the sack, package, load, or similar indefinite measure, the pamphlet warns. Housewives are urged to learn to read scales accurately, and to watch for the seal which indicates that they have been tested and found accurate by the department of weights and measures.

AAA

REPORT

certifies to excellent lubrication by New Iso-Vis in Oldsmobile

1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.

2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, all parts of engine and chassis were lubricated effectively.

3 Consumption: Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 m. p. h.—less than 1 qt. At higher speeds, all oils showed greatly increased consumption.

4 Carbon: only 6.6 grams per cylinder at 30 miles per hour, using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy).

5 Cylinder Wear: too slight to measure.

6 Red Crown Ethyl Gasoline used—did not knock.

HERE'S your chance to see this roving Oldsmobile. Your Oldsmobile dealer will give you the details of how this car clicked off a year's average mileage on the Indianapolis Speedway in a little more than 3 weeks. That's traveling!

Then listen to the engine. Sound as a dollar! That's the way New Iso-vis keeps her humming. Now read the facts taken from the certified report of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. This unbiased organization conducted the 13-car lubrication study in which this Oldsmobile took part. See this car today.

It's no wonder New Iso-Vis keeps this engine in such fine condition—it's the only motor oil that will not thin out from dilution. When you change oil, change to New Iso-Vis—the oil that has proved itself beyond question.

HORTON ESCAPES IMPEACHMENT IN TENNESSEE

Charges Against Governor Killed by House.

Nashville, Tenn., June 9.—[Special.]—Threats to impeach Gov. Henry H. Horton as an outcome of Tennessee's financial debacle of last fall were ended here today as the lower house of the general assembly rejected seven proposals for impeachment, 53 to 45.

The articles were voted on for adoption, but failed, 40 to 56. On last Friday the first of the whole of eight proposed counts was also defeated.

The refusal to adopt these final seven counts was a foregone conclusion in political circles, as Friday's vote was the supreme test between warring Democratic factions in the state which have been gathering strength for the trial since the failure of Caldwell & Co., financial house here, last fall and subsequent bank failures that tied up nearly $7,000,000 of state money.

There was no oratory or cheers as the decision was announced by Speaker Walter M. Haynes. Congressman Ed H. Crump of Memphis, leader of the anti-administration forces over the state, was the only public figure to comment. He was unusually mild and only growled that his men on the floor had erred in agreeing to have all the seven counts voted on at once rather than separately.

JOBLESS UNREST SPREADS IN CUBA; ISSUE FREE FOOD

HAVANA, June 9.—(AP)—Unrest among Cuba's unemployed, which already has manifested itself in Manzanillo, Santiago, and San Antonio de los Banos, appeared to have spread today to Camaguey in the center of the island.

Dispatches from that city said a crowd of unemployed had filed a written protest with the municipal authorities against refusal of permission for meetings of unemployed.

To relieve the situation the department of the interior plans to establish free food kitchens in those parts of the island where they are most needed. Additional work is to be provided by extending public improvements on government contracts.

CON MAN TRAPPED BY HARDINGE TO FACE 4 CHARGES

Trapped and delivered into the hand of the police by Franklin Hardinge, wealthy oil burner manufacturer, M. K. Higginbothom, "entrepreneury" last night found himself in a detective bureau cell facing four confidence game charges. He is accused of bilking W. M. Mahoney, 9406 South Ada street, out of $5,000; of taking $4,500 in bonds from Christ Walker, 3827 North Leavitt street, under false pretenses, and of having attempted to "take" Hardinge and Detective William Drury for $50,000 each.

The latter two counts are the result of his visit to Hardinge who listened to Higginbothom's proposition and invited him to return to meet another prospect who turned out to be Drury. Other confidence game victims will be brought to the detective bureau to view Higginbothom today.

CANAL CASE SET FOR FALL TRIAL BY JUDGE DAVID

Northup and Court Clash as Hearing Opens.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Francis E. Smyth and Lester Frankel, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph B. David.

James Wilbourne, assault to rob, sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary; Charles King, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Trial of the new indictments charging conspiracy to defraud returned last week against Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, and eight other officials of his administration, will be delayed until fall and will be heard by Judge Joseph David in Criminal court.

ATTY. NORTHUP.

This agreement was reached yesterday, but not until after a clash between Judge David and First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who opposed trying the case before Judge David and went before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court in an attempt to take the case from Judge David.

Clash as Hearing opens.

The clash occurred as soon as attorneys appeared in court to arrange for trial. Northup began by saying: "The state's position is that it is a miscarriage of justice to try criminal cases in the summer, and moreover, I feel this court should not try this case, from the many remarks made during the preliminary arguments of the trial."

Judge David arose from the bench, slammed his fist on the bar, and said: "I will not listen to any such remarks from you."

"I will go to the chief justice—I will go to the bench of Cook county," Northup replied hotly.

"I wont listen to such statements," the judge repeated. "Remember, you are a member of this court," he reminded the prosecutor.

"I haven't begun to fight yet," was Northup's reply.

Northup Goes to McGoorty.

Abruptly, the judge resumed his judicial poise and inquired if there were any motions for a continuance.

"Yes," Northup spoke up. "The state would like a delay until this matter can be thrashed out with the chief justice."

"All right, go on up there at once," the judge advised him.

"Very well, I will," Northup responded, and accompanied by Attorney Albert Fink, representing the defense, he retired to Chief Justice McGoorty's chambers where, court attachés said, another heated session took place.

An agreement was reached, however, by which the trial would be delayed until fall and by which Judge David, temporarily assigned to the Criminal bench from the Superior bench, will be reassigned to the Criminal bench to hear the trial.

FIND ILLNESS CAUSED DEATH.

The death yesterday of Mrs. Agnes Leake, 59 years old, 2140 Waveland avenue, was due to organic causes and not to injuries received on April 28 when she plunged from an attic window in her home, a coroner's jury decided.

BRITISH JOBLESS JUMP 123,034 TO 2,629,971 TOTAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Great Britain's number of unemployed increased last week by 123,034, according to ministry of labor returns tonight. The total number without jobs is now 2,629,971.

222,000 Germans Find Jobs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9.—About 222,000 jobless found employment during the month of May, chiefly in farming and building projects. At the end of May Germany's jobless numbered 4,067,000.

EMMERSON GETS BEHIND REMAP; BILL MAY PASS

Leaders Optimistic as G. O. P. Holds Caucus.

[BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson took a hand today in the question of a congressional reapportionment and the proposed remap, which looked groggy last week, came out of its coma and began to hum. The house Republicans held a caucus late today and went over the tentative map, ironing out disputed spots. Leaders reported Republican membership is lining up almost solidly for the proposal.

Word from the second floor that the governor is determined to get a congressional redistricting this session appeared to have wrought considerable change among downstate members. Last week the Democratic caucus announced it would be against a reapportionment on the theory that another Democratic landslide is likely in 1931, which will give them control of the assembly and a Democratic remap then can be made in 1933.

Refers to His Message.

"We are going to try to put through a congressional reapportionment," Gov. Emmerson told members of the subcommittee. "Feeling, I think, is strong for it. In my biennial message I called attention to the fact that for thirty years there has been no reapportionment and that the general assembly should proceed at once to the reapportionment of all congressional districts of the state on the basis of population in compliance with the provisions of the constitution."

If the bill gets through the house it is expected to have plain sailing in the senate. There are 31 Republican members and 77 is the required number to pass. Republican leaders say they will have aid from some Democrats from industrial districts.

What Rainey's Friends Say.

The proposed reapportionment gives the metropolitan area—Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties—which have 57 per cent of the population, 14 of the 27 seats in congress. At present there are 25 districts, and two congressmen are elected at large due to the failure to reapportion. Cook and Lake counties with 53 per cent of the population have only 10 of the 25 districts.

In the proposed remap, friends of Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, dean of the Illinois delegation, protested that it tacked on republican territory to an extent that might give Rainey trouble. The caucus chiefs argued that if the Democrats got into power in 1932 in Washington, Garner of Texas might become speaker and Rainey would move to the post of floor leader.

Agree on Tentative Remap.

The 23d, a Democratic district, was abolished in the tentative remap as drafted at the Republican caucus late tonight and its ten counties were distributed among other districts. This throws Congressman William F. Arnold [Dem., Robinson] into the same district as Congressman William P. Holaday [Rep., Danville] and the recarved district strongly is Republican.

Adams county was taken from Congressman B. M. Chiperfield [Rep., Cannon] district and thrown into the district of Congressman Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Carrollton]. It removes a strong wet Democratic county from Chiperfield and gives it to Rainey, a dry. Bond and Logan counties were added to the Springfield district, giving it a stronger Republican trend.

The changes in the proposed remap will be reported in tomorrow and a fight made to advance the bill to third reading. Committee leaders reported that all but two or three house Republicans are lined up for the redistricting.

HELD ON WORK FRAUD CHARGE.

Walter Stillman, 70 years old, was returned to his cell yesterday when Judge Francis Borrelli continued to Friday the case in which he was charged with obtaining $13 from Morris Schott, 18 years old, of the Oak Park Arms hotel, through a promise of giving the boy work.

PASS 60 WARD BILL OF NOONAN; FIRST AND ONLY

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—The house today passed the bill to provide sixty wards in Chicago, more as a compliment to its sponsor, Representative George Garry Noonan [Dem.], than as a serious legislative act. The vote was 90 ayes and 13 nays.

This is the only bill introduced by Mr. Noonan in his seven sessions in the legislature.

"He has given all you members votes on your bills; you should help him on the one piece of legislation he has introduced," pleaded Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago].

"But this would increase the item of aldermen's salaries $50,000," protested Representative Schnackenberg. "We don't need sixty wards in Chicago."

"You were once attorney for the south park board," retorted O'Grady. "This mention of increased expenditures come with ill grace from you. Inequalities in the ward populations in Chicago are known.

Do you like Treasure Hunts?

WHAT TEN-WORD SENTENCE CAN YOU MAKE USING ONLY THE WORDS IN TODAY'S ADS?

the Chicago Tribune will pay

$1000 A WEEK IN CASH PRIZES

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

What Is a Good Time Charliegram?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice:
"Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity."
"The time to stock up is when prices are low."
"Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today."
"When business starts humming prices are bound to rise again."

Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start looking for your words now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words which appear in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

Ten little words — that's all you need to make up a Good Time Charliegram. Just pick the words out of any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and they may spell one of the big cash prizes which the Tribune is paying!

Try it. It's loads of fun—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads for the words now.

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 a week in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentance of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes for each week are as follows:

1st Prize		$250.00
2nd Prize		100.00
Next 2 Prizes	$50.00 each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes	$25.00 each	100.00
Next 23 Prizes	$10.00 each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes	$ 5.00 each	200.00
73 weekly prizes totaling		$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Third Series must be received in the Tribune office before 5 P. M. on Wednesday, June 17, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be awarded to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may use the blank that is supplied each day in the Tribune or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune will operate sheet of paper. The Tribune will be examined at any of its offices or public libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made to each tying contestant.

CHARGES SENATE ECONOMY TALK IS ALL 'BOLOGNY'

Mason Stirs Fuss Over State School Fund.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Charges that the assembly is economical with one hand and prodigal with the other stirred a controversy in the senate today over the state distributive school fund.

Senator N. M. Mason, [Rep., La Salle county], who is a school teacher, in a fight for the $2,000,000 increase in the fund voted in the house, woke the chamber up by declaring that despite all the talk of economy the state pay rolls are being overstuffed in the appropriation bills. His speech led to a free for all debate, in which Senator Tom Courtney, minority leader, remarked that the session is in such a clutter that the senators "don't know anything about what is happening except what they read in the newspapers."

Blames Prohibition.

An explosiveness of an unusual sort hit the debate when Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] said the increase in certain departments was due to prison and asylum growth due to prohibition. "We are paying for Volsteadism," he cried. Others said the assembly is simply engaged in the good old pastime of passing the buck to the governor by passing too many appropriations on the slogan "you can trim them better with vetoes."

The distributive school fund last session was 10 million a year. This time the house made it 12 million and the senate by an amendment cut it back to 10 million. Mason's motion to table the amendment was lost, 26 to 24, after Mason had declared the governor had told him a veto would be forthcoming if the $2,000,000 were added.

"Where is our boasted economy?" cried Mason, holding aloft the budget. "The department of public welfare seeks an increase of $2,226,000. Increases of salaries and wages to the governor's appointees alone amount to $3,497,000 over last biennium.

Is This Economy? He Asks.

"The state industrial commission reduced the pay of each member, making a saving of $5,000 in 1929. Since then, however, they have increased their Chicago office rent $7,000 a year by moving into more expensive offices and have increased office expense from $72,000 to $114,000. Almost all other state offices in Chicago have moved from the old building where rents were cheap into new structures where rents are high. Is a splurge like this economy?"

"When the schoo fund started years ago it had two millions," argued Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline]. "Last session it had grown to ten million. Now they ask for 12 million and we propose to cut it back to 10 million. This is no time to increase taxes."

"Ten million is a lot of money," said Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]. "It means a tax of 12½ cents per $100 valuation. To add two million would put 2½ cents on taxes. These are not times to expand expenses."

Michel Has His Say.

"The increase in department of public welfare," remarked Senator A. S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], "is due to prison and asylum growth. Ten years ago, in 1920, we had in the penitentiaries and penal institutions 3,695. Today we have 3,545—more than double."

"It's due to prohibition," cried Michel. "The great argument of the drys was that prohibition would close up the jails. But prison populations have doubled, and the taxpayers are paying for Volsteadism. The jails are taking money away from the schools."

The bill was advanced to third reading, amended to carry 10 instead of 12 million dollars.

Ganna Walska Closes Her Perfume Shop; No Business

PARIS, June 9.—(AP)—Ganna Walska, former opera singer, has closed her perfume shop in the Rue de La Paix, and the stock and fixtures have been sold at public auction by direction of the local justice of the peace. Mme. Walska, wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, opened the shop three years ago, but it was hard hit by the slump in the luxury trade in the last six months.

DEMOCRATS HALT CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION PLAN

Block Republican Move for Caucus.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders in the house of representatives today blocked concurrence in the Kessinger senate resolution for a referendum on the question of calling a constitutional convention. The resolution required two-thirds majority to pass, or 102 votes, and had acquired but 97 at the end of the roll call. The no votes were 43, and while the count was being made Republicans held a hasty conference and asked for postponement. Objections stormed out from the Democratic side, but the rising vote showed 73 for postponement and 73 against. The matter thus lies dormant.

Downstaters Lead Opposition.

Representative Truman A. Snell of Carlinville and John Devine of Dixon, downstate Democrats, led the opposition to the calling of a convention.

"This is no time to call a constitutional convention," said Devine. "I don't always agree with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE but their editorial stand on this question is absolutely right. It would be only a step towards anarchy. "We would have agitators going all over the state. The malcontents would be drafting our new constitution. Everybody against the government would have candidates for delegates to this convention.

"There is no call for a constitutional convention—no general demand. Two or three amendments can make ours a good constitution. If we in the legislature can't do that, can a convention? We had better leave well enough alone."

Mr. Snell was equally disapproving, emphasizing that it is no time—in this period of unrest—to "talk about changing the basic law of the state."

Schnackenberg Backs Plan.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] was the chief advocate of the resolution, being aided by Republican Floor Leader Little and Frederick W. Rennick of Buda.

Schnackenberg's motion was to amend the resolution by adding a paragraph which would put the legislature on record as recognizing a need for a constitutional convention.

Mr. Snell moved that this lie upon the table, which leaves the entire question open.

The amendment passed, but the resolution—after a dragging hour of debate and roll call—is not much closer to passage than it was before the action.

ASSEMBLY WILL ATTEND PEORIA'S WATERWAY FETE

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Peoria's dedication of its rail-river terminal in readiness for the completion of the Illinois waterway and the water route from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico is to be attended Monday, June 15, by an official delegation from the legislature and state officials Congressman William E. Hull of Peoria today addressed the senate on the subject and said it was a step towards giving the midwest an ocean frontage.

W. E. HULL.

"This rail-river terminal," said Mr. Hull, "is the first leg of the Illinois to the gulf waterway made possible by legislative action. The next dedication probably will mark the opening of barge service and completion of the waterway to Chicago in 1933. When that is done the opening of water transportation from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico will occur.

The assembly accepted the invitation to be present at the ceremonials. Secretary of War Patrick Hurley will be chief speaker, and Gov. Emmerson will be a guest of honor.

River Rises at La Salle; Floods Gardens of Poor

La Salle, Ill., June 9.—The Illinois river here is rising, threatening lowlands portioned out by La Salle and Peru to unemployed for gardening. Many gardens where the poor were raising food may be destroyed. The river came up six inches over night. The present stage is 14.10. Normal is eight feet.

House Votes to Hold All Executions at Menard

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Accepting the report of its prison investigating committee, the house today passed the bill to hold all executions at the southern Illinois penitentiary in Menard.

JUDGE WILKERSON GIVEN HONORARY COLLEGE DEGREE

Speaks at Commencement of Illinois Wesleyan.

Bloomington, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Illinois Wesleyan university today conferred the honorary degrees of doctor of laws upon Federal Judge James R. Wilkerson of Chicago in the annual commencement exercises held in the memorial gymnasium on the campus. Judge Wilkerson was the speaker of the day, his theme being the efficacy of modern education.

JUDGE WILKERSON.

While denying the accuracy of the sweeping accusations of incompetence frequently heard against institutions of learning in this country at the present time, Judge Wilkerson said in some instances the charge may be true. A great deal, he said, depends upon the spirit of the particular colleges, and more upon the teachers.

"Too Much Stress Is on Physical."

"We are placing too much emphasis on libraries and laboratories and physical equipment," he said. "Education is developed by the contact of mind with mind. A truly great teacher is worth more than beautiful buildings, vast endowment or a historic name. Teachers should be compensated on the same basis as members of other professions. The need is for men and women rather than mere buildings and material equipment.

"The spirit of true education cannot be developed unless thought is free. Academic freedom, the right to investigate, discuss and speak should be the spirit of every classroom. Teachers should not be propagandists. But a college is not engaged in truly educational work if it stifles investigation or shackles thought.

"Socialism, communism, pacifism, and all the other 'isms' should be approached with the spirit of honest inquiry. Acceptance or rejection should be based not on arbitrary fiat but upon investigation and reason.

"Principles Are Forgotten."

"In the mad rush for the wealth resulting from great inventions, we have forgotten, as a nation, the foundation principles of our government. We pretend to search for the cause of the present deplorable condition with its racketeers and gangs of outlaws. Learned men and women investigate, but they overlook the main cause.

"We may enact laws or repeal the ones we have. We may change our constitution. We may establish new courts and reform the procedure. We may organize crusades on crime. All these will have only a temporary effect.

"There must be a regeneration of spirit. The selfish, money seeking, wealth serving, law defying spirit must give way to that of self restraint, to the spirit of true freedom. Not until that change has come in the minds of our people can it be said that our institutions are firmly established and that our liberty is secure."

SHIP ROTARIAN'S SALVAGE WORK IS STOPPED BY ROW

Efforts to raise the Rotarian, former fish and chop house and headquarters of the Cook County Democracy club under a former city administration, yesterday were at a standstill with charges and counter charges flying between contractors.

A. J. Boulanger, joint contractor with Sebastian Schwager in the salvage, denied all charges by Schwager that Miles J. Devine, owner of the boat, has failed to cooperate.

"Mr. Devine has given up all the cooperation possible," Mr. Boulanger said. "Schwager stated he had $10,000 invested in the job. He hasn't a cent invested. Mr. Devine advanced the $300 to pay the city for the barge being used. He advanced $322.50 for gasoline. He guaranteed payment on our equipment. Our contract calls for payment when the job is completed."

A suit for $100,000 against the parties responsible for the scuttling of the craft was threatened yesterday by Devine.

"I know just how the boat was scuttled and who did it," Devine said. "When we get the boat afloat and can inspect it, I will have an announcement to make."

COURT DOCUMENT CITES COMPLETE MARRIAGE TEXT

The full text of a wedding ceremony, including the Lord's prayer, was set forth in a bill of particulars filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Mrs. Clare H. Green in her suit for $50,000 against her former husband, J. Birchard Green, 6787 South Shore drive.

Mrs. Green charges that Green, the wealthy president of the Chicago Steel and Wire company, failed to live up to his marriage vows, and asks damages for his breach of the marital contract to "love and cherish her until death did them part."

Mrs. Green obtained a divorce on Oct. 23, 1928. Green subsequently married Mrs. Patti Dumbeck, whereupon the first wife filed three suits, last October. The first was the one in which she yesterday filed the bill of particulars, the second sought damages of $75,000 from the second Mrs. Green on grounds of alienation of affections, and the third, since dismissed, sought to have the divorce set aside on the grounds that she had been coerced into getting it.

All Aboard for a Week at Sea

LAKES Huron and Superior provide a romantic and beautiful cruising ground. The big liners, "Noronic", "Hamonic" or "Huronic" afford luxurious and hospitable accommodations. Sarnia, the "Soo", Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth are interesting ports of call.

There is much dancing and a big masquerade party the last night at sea. Wonderful meals appease ravenous sea appetites. Mile marches around wide decks to music of bagpipes and drums, and community singing are features of the cruise.

Social hostesses introduce everybody and think up new things to do. There is never a dull moment aboard ship or ashore. Plan now for this refreshing cruise from Detroit to Duluth and return. It is as good as a tonic any time, and sends you back to the routine of daily life buoyant and full of health.

Hay fever sufferers find this cruise most beneficial.

PEDESTRIAN IS KILLED BY AUTO OF PROSECUTOR

Accident Halts Trial in Criminal Court.

An automobile driven by Abraham Marovitz, an assistant state's attorney, yesterday struck and fatally injured Louis Berkovitz, 77 years old, 1341 South Turner avenue, while the latter was crossing Douglas boulevard at St. Louis avenue. Marovitz took the injured man to the Mount Sinai hospital where he died.

Marovitz told west park police that he was driving to the Midwest Athletic club at 4 North Hamlin avenue where he was to be made a member of the West Side Kiwanis club. He said that Berkovitz suddenly stepped in front of his car.

Cause Delay of Trial.

The accident resulted in a delay of the trial of three gangsters for the killing of the C. & O. café at 809 North Clark street last New Year's eve. Two policemen were shot in the melee. The three, on trial in the court of Judge Joseph Burke, are Sam Hunt, 24 years old, notorious gangster; George Bousk, 25 years old, and John Wolski, 22.

Prosecutor Marovitz had started the trial this morning. After the accident he was so distraught he asked that the afternoon session be adjourned and the request was granted.

Miss Killed; Girl Hurt.

Mary Smith, 40 years old, a dance hall waitress who resided on the north side, was killed early this morning and Miss Violet Manning, 19 West Chicago avenue, was slightly injured when the automobile in which they were riding on the Willow Springs road, near Willow Springs, skidded and overturned in a ditch. Both the girl were pinned beneath the machine. When she discovered he was motionless she sounded the horn continuously for ten minutes until it caused a farmer, who called the county police. They raised the car and released Miss Manning. Smith was dead.

John Guttish, 32 years old, 11747 South Michigan avenue, a mechanic, was killed in a collision between two automobiles at 87th street and Indiana avenue. George Samuelson, 1125 South Sangamon street, who was driving the car in which Guttish was riding, and Gilbert Altman, 5510 Royce avenue, driver of the other car, were recommended held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter by a coroner's jury.

Frank Bourne, 28 years old, 7232 Rees avenue, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile in front of 7132 Cottage Grove avenue. The driver did not stop. Bourne was taken to the Jackson Park hospital, where he died shortly afterward.

Three fire deaths increased the Cook county total to 501 since Jan. 1 to 500.

Mrs. Alma Gano, 76 years old, 6432 Kenwood avenue, died in her home last night from injuries incurred in an automobile accident near Mount Vernon, Ind., May 31. She was returning from Mount Vernon with her son-in-law, Prof. O. D. Frank of the department of natural sciences, University of Chicago, and Mrs. Frank, her daughter, when their automobile collided with another car.

COLBY DEMANDS $333,333 FEE IN WAR CLAIM CASE

Firm Charges Deceit in Contract.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.] — An attempt by Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, to collect a $333,333 fee in a war claims case is being opposed by his client, the Interocean Oil company of New York, it was learned today. Suit has been filed in the District of Columbia Supreme court.

The Interocean Oil company and its subsidiary, the United States Asphalt Refining company, recovered approximately $1,000,000 from Germany in 1926 as the result of claims handled by Mr. Colby before the mixed claims commission. The claims of the companies were for damages for the loss of four ships sunk by German submarines during the world war.

According to the contention of Mr. Colby, he and his partner, Edward D. Brown of New York undertook the case on behalf of the companies under an agreement that they should receive one-third of the amount recovered.

According to the suit filed by the companies, through their attorneys, Harvey D. Jacobs and Walter M. Bastian, it is argued that, not only is the $333,333 fee excessive in view of the small amount of work Colby and Brown were required to do, but that Colby induced the Interocean company to sign the agreement by misrepresenting and concealing facts.

The Interocean company contends that Colby knew that the mixed claims commission would not allow a private attorney to appear before it and that agents of the commission would do virtually all the work connected with the American claims. Instead of informing the company of this, the suit asserts, Colby withheld that information and so induced the company to sign the fee agreement.

Mr. Colby denies the charge and declares that his fee was upheld by Chandler Anderson, American commissioner on the mixed claims commission.

LOVE BALM SUIT IS LOST ON STORY OF 4 MARRIAGES

Miss Edna Arnold, 45 years old, 142 South Scoville street, Oak Park, yesterday lost her $10,000 breach of promise suit against Billy De Witz, 6230 Greenwood avenue, a commercial artist. Miss Arnold appeared confident of winning her case until she was cross examined by counsel for De Witz. As a result of her testimony Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton instructed the jury to return a verdict in favor of De Witz.

A fluffy kitten, with which De Witz found her playing, was the means of their introduction, Miss Arnold told the jury. De Witz spoke to her, saying that he too was a lover of animals, and the acquaintanceship thus begun ripened into love and culminated in a proposal of marriage on Jan. 1, 1931, she charged.

She identified his letters, in which he addressed her as "Honey Dimples," praised her "beautiful character" and spoke of the bliss of trading his kisses for hers. But about six months ago De Witz stopped seeing her, she said.

Miss Arnold was questioned. She admitted that she had been married four times, but she was unable to prove that she had been legally divorced and was in a position to marry again. The judge then gave his instructions to the jury.

MARX'S WIFE TO FIGHT SALE OF HIS PAPER

Newport, R. I., June 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Edward B. McLean, wife of the publisher of the Washington Post, today declared herself opposed to the sale of that newspaper to David Lawrence, publisher of the United States Daily.

Mrs. McLean, commenting upon published reports she had read setting forth that Lawrence had offered $3,000,000 for the paper, said she had her own ideas of...

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overcome resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

THE MELLON LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED.

The enormous oversubscription of the government's offering of 3½ per cent bonds cannot be regarded as anything but a hopeful indication. The government wished to borrow $800,000,000 for a term of from 15 to 18 years. The interest rate offered was low, considering the length of time which the loan is to run. Nevertheless, there is so much money in the country looking for investment that the treasury could have disposed of the bonds seven times over.

Here is a plain indication of the latent power of recovery in our economic structure. For two years now the normal course of investment of the nation's savings in productive enterprises has been allowed to slow up. It is that fact which accounts in large part for the prevalent unemployment. Money which formerly flowed into expansions of plant and equipment has been lying idle because the immediate business prospect was not hopeful. The men who formerly were employed in creating capital goods have been thrown out of work, and the loss of their buying power, in turn, has thrown others out of work.

It is to be hoped that the success of the government loan will encourage private individuals who have sound plans for the future to seek banking support, and, likewise, that bankers will show a greater degree of confidence in the future than they have shown in recent months. After all, the purchaser of United States bonds has as security only the ability of the United States treasury to pay its debts; and that ability, in turn, is merely a reflection of the capacity of the American people as individuals to pay what they owe collectively. It is therefore absurd to place unlimited confidence in the treasury while regarding advances to individual enterprises as altogether too risky to consider.

The success of the government loan indicates that the fear psychosis has its limits. This may premise the restoration of a sound bond market. When long term credit again is available on reasonable terms the depression will begin to lift.

CAPONE.

Al Capone has made his fortune in outlawry, the business methods including murder, corruption, intimidation and extortion. Competitors were killed. Politicians were bribed. Capone's business has been that of purveyor to appetites and desires which have great vitality under legal prohibition. They involve liquor, prostitution and gambling. Society never has found a wholly satisfactory way of keeping them in restraint, of preventing grave offense to public decorum or safety.

Thirty years ago Chicago, without knowing it, was nearing the end of its period of laissez faire, of a frontier tolerance. Government had concerned itself very little with the private habits of citizens. Gambling touts were on the curb. Prostitutes walked the streets. The business district was spotted and fringed with off color hotels, basement saloons for women waiting for men, and gambling places with open doors. There was no interference with racing and betting and the segregated district was accepted as a part of a great city.

There was of course some political corruption attached to the shady side of life, but there were no criminal gangs. The more serious offenses to public decorum made a decisive change in public opinion, and when indulgence changed to restriction it was without much compromise. The races were stopped by raiding the gamblers. The segregated district was closed. Gambling and prostitution were driven to cover. Then came national prohibition and the lid was down on the whole thing. It was not, however, down on the impulses, desires and appetites which had supported the undesirable social structure.

The demand remained and under total repression it was aggravated. The business of catering to it became more profitable when it became wholly illicit. Then vice added violent crimes to its activities. Capone became master of the new situation created by attempts at complete repression. Except for the killings incident to the new business methods the gangsters seemed to run few risks. A distribution of profits protected them from the law and evidence of their most serious crimes never got to court.

The federal government could not enforce the Volstead act, but the gangsters made the mistake of concluding from their experience with this immunity that no laws could be enforced against them. They were likely to overreach themselves in some direction and it happens that they have done so in a most peculiar fashion. They have failed to give an accounting to the government of the profits they made in violating the law. It is not the least of the eccentricities of prohibition that the government demands its share of the money made in supplying intoxicating beverages illegal under the Volstead act. If Al Capone goes to a federal prison it will not be for crimes committed in selling liquor, but for not paying the taxes on the fortune he has taken in doing so. If he had walked into the internal revenue collector's office regularly with a schedule of his earnings and had paid the government its percentage on the gains its laws made possible by making them illegal he would have very little to worry about. Now he evidently has plenty.

His activities will be stopped if he is sent to the penitentiary for violation of the revenue laws, but the conditions which produced Capone can produce another like him, with the warning that a division of profits with the prohibition government must be made.

That's no more satisfactory to society than were the conditions of thirty years ago. American communities have been at both extremes and have found little social advantage in the jump from one to the other. They may be ready to learn that excesses are destructive in either direction. The golden mean got its reputation from experience.

A BAD MEASURE.

The protest of the Legislative Voters' league against the bill to increase the term of aldermen to four years will certainly have the emphatic support of the citizens of Chicago. The first result would of course be to give the present aldermen two years more in their seats. There are some of the aldermen whose service justifies such an extension, and they should be reelected and probably will be if the bill meets its merited defeat. But there are others that should not be automatically continued in office. The present council has been largely responsible for the deplorable conditions in which the city finds itself. To fasten it upon us for two more years would be a capital misfortune for the city. The city is in sore need of a more competent and responsible council. The mayor is making an intelligent and vigorous effort to rescue municipal administration from the bog into which the late malodorous city hall régime has plunged it deeper and deeper during its long misrule. He needs and he must have the support and coöperation of the council, and the body which contributed to the city's misrule is not a body willing or able to give him that support and coöperation.

This must be obvious to any citizen of common sense. The city, beset as it is with the worst difficulties it has met, at least since the fire, cannot afford to have this additional burden imposed upon it. It is in desperate need of help. It cannot endure new troubles.

Another objection to the bill arises from the fact that the present representation in the council no longer represents the city. A large proportion of the voters are cheated of equal representation and will not have it until a new ward map has been made. The four year bill would prolong this evil. It is the duty of the legislature to meet the just demands of the people of the city for an immediate correction of this injustice by passing the ward reapportionment measure. If the legislature listens to the selfish interests of incumbent aldermen, who wish to postpone going before constituents and to hold their jobs two years longer, it will openly and ruthlessly betray the people of Chicago.

The general desirability of making the aldermanic term four instead of two years is seriously doubtful in any case, and the people of Chicago and other cities should have a chance to consider it and be heard. It is not a change which should be suddenly imposed upon them. There is no excuse for this precipitate action. But apart from that, the city of Chicago in this emergency ought not to have its serious predicament complicated by such a misfortune.

Editorial of the Day

TAXATION, A GROWING PROBLEM.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The governors of states in annual conference at French Lick, Ind., are concentrating their attention upon the problem of taxation. Strangely enough, it is not the problem of getting more money that causes them concern, but the problem of doing with less. For the governors, in common with all sober students of governmental economics, are realizing that taxation has been overdone, that the country has been spending too much for government in proportion to its income, and that it is time to get down to serious study of the many and complicated questions that are involved in this broad subject.

Last year the public expenditures, national, state, and local, amounted to about $13,500,000,000. This is more than four times the total in 1912 and eight times the total of 1903, according to the figures of the national industrial conference board. The national income last year—that is, the income of the whole people—was about $50,000,000,000, so that approximately 17 per cent of all income was paid out directly or indirectly in taxes, and this load is now increasing at the rate of $600,000,000 a year. In the last twenty years the public expenditures have increased three times as much proportionately as the increase of the national income.

This disproportion, great as it was, did not seem so bad while the country was continually growing in wealth and prosperity. But now the situation has changed. National income has greatly declined, but public expenditures have not declined.

The question is how can governmental expenditures—and that means the expenditures of the federal, state, and municipal governments—be brought and kept within reasonable relation to the income of the people?

Tax officials representing the states of Illinois, Massachusetts, and New York called on President Hoover the other day with the suggestion that something be done to promote a coördination of taxes among our various forms of government to prevent duplication and overlapping. At the governors' conference Gov. Brucker of Michigan proposed that the state should use its power to limit, regulate, and supervise the minor subdivisions in their tax levies and expenditures. Gov. Woodring of Kansas, on the other hand, suggested the abolition of townships and the enlargement of county divisions by consolidation, reducing the number of local governments, the state imposing a limitation only upon tax levies. Obviously the plan of Gov. Brucker is opposed to our ideas of local self-government, but that of Gov. Woodring is in line with them.

These, however, are but straws that show that the wind is blowing and its general direction. Taxation is a question that the country cannot safely ignore.

PREVENTION OF COLDS.

It seems difficult for physicians to agree as to anything about the common cold except that it is the most widely prevalent disorder, and is more costly than any other to business.

A group of investigators connected with Johns Hopkins have just reported that light treatment has no power to prevent colds. Their experiment was conducted with 361 people and it lasted for thirty-five weeks. The treatments were begun the last week in September, just as the season for colds was beginning; and it was kept up until the last weeks in the following May, the end of the colds season.

One-half the number of people were given a weekly treatment with the mercury quartz lamp for thirty-five weeks. They were stripped to the waist and the treatments were alternated between the front and back. Each treatment was just severe enough to cause a very mild degree of sunburn.

A record was kept of each person, as to the number of colds he had, the number of days lost from work, and the number of days of fever. Comparing the records of the half who had been treated with that of the other half, it was found that the treatments had been without beneficial effect.

As a matter of fact, those treated had had a few more colds, a few more colds with fever, and had been incapacitated a few more days. However, the difference was trivial, and the conclusion arrived at was that radiation with a mercury quartz lamp as a preventive of colds proved of no value.

On the other hand some very good men from Cornell university have been reporting just to the contrary.

There is the same lack of agreement among those who experiment with vaccines as preventives.

In the meanwhile, the writer knows one person who had colds at intervals of, say, three months up to three years ago. At that time he had his sinuses washed out and drained, but without what is called surgical operation and who, since that time, has not had one cold. That person appears to be willing to sit on the sidelines and watch the other fellows fight it out.

Perhaps there is to be no agreement as to any phase of the cold question until the germ which causes it is found and studied in the test tube in the laboratory. Until then the great question as to whether epidemic influenza is just an epidemic cold, grown virulent and on a world spree, or is something else, cannot be settled.

IT MAY BE CURED.

M. H. T. A. writes:

1. Can exophthalmic goiter be cured?
2. If so, with what?
3. Is there danger of dropping dead when the heart flutters in exophthalmic goiter?
4. Can a person with this disease live long?
5. If such a person is underweight, how can he fatten up?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Some cases are cured with iodine and other appropriate drugs. Others need operation.
3. Practically none. The fluttering is very unpleasant. It is harmful and should be controlled by treatment, but it is not immediately dangerous.
4. Yes.
5. By controlling the disease. When the disease is active it disturbs metabolism and digestion, thus causing underweight.

HEART ASTHMA.

Mrs. H. L. F. writes: My father, aged 56, is troubled with heart asthma. He suffers severe spells of coughing and choking.

1. Is there a cure for this?
2. Does the heart cause the asthma?
3. Are herb medicines advisable?
4. Would a change of climate be of much benefit?

REPLY.

1. The cure must be directed to the heart. If compensation is established the lung symptoms clear up.
2. Yes.
3. Digitalis, the sheet anchor, is a herb. At that, your question indicates that your father's case is not getting intelligent consideration.
4. He needs treatment. Change of climate is a possible but not probable part thereof.

DEPOSITOR RESENTS EXAMINATION.

Chicago, June 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My bank is closed except for the deposit box patrons. You can take out anything there provided you let an officer at the bank examine what you take out. 1. Is it necessary to give him a signed waiver? 2. What right has the auditor to examine my private property which I have in this deposit box, the rent of which is paid up until May, 1932? C. C.

1. We cannot advise as to the reasonableness of the demand that you sign a waiver, since you do not give us the wording of the proposed waiver.
2. Presumably, the purpose is to ascertain whether any of the assets of the bank are concealed in your box. It would seem reasonable to examine your box for this purpose. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

READING WATER METERS.

Chicago, June 8.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise me where and to whom I should apply for an application for a position reading water meters?

What are the requirements physically and the age limits?

When is the next examination? J. M.

The writer's name has been placed on our mailing list for notification of the next examination called for the position of rate taker.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States more than 21 years of age who are residents of the city of Chicago for a period of at least one year immediately preceding date of examination.

JAMES S. OSBORNE, Secretary,
Chicago Civil Service Commission.

GOING INTO BUSINESS.

Chicago, June 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the age required for a person to legally operate a business of his own? R. S. M.

The law does not prohibit a minor from engaging in business, but since a minor is permitted to renounce his contracts, it is inadvisable for persons to deal with him. Males are of legal age at 21 and females at 18. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE BALLOON GOLF BALL.

One sure surcease from sorrow these days is denied us mournful few who do not play golf. It is being able to horn into the great question of the moment now being debated loudly and even raucously as to whether the new balloon golf ball is a blessing or a curse. Everywhere the battle rages—on buses, at dinners, at tea, or wherever two golfey people happen to meet. It's all very sad and humiliating to the nongolfer that he hasn't a word to say. We listened an hour to a woman golfer the other night and said, "That's so," and "Ah, indeed," and "Quite!" whenever she paused (as she seldom did) for a reply. But finally she plumped a question right at us and we had to answer. "Why, what has golf come to when you can't use your midiron?" With the adroitness of a criminal lawyer we answered, "What! No midiron?" "Yes," she went on again, pinning us to the wall, "what is golf without a midiron?" It was impossible to avoid this direct and searching inquiry. We had to answer. "A flat iron," said we. It seemed to have been the wrong answer. She gave us a dirty look, turned her shoulder, and began to talk to the man on the other side.

PLEA.

Give me back
The simple truth
Youth.

Caught by wonder,
Let me feel
Sharply every
Thrust of steel.

Every small joy
Pivoting,
Every vital,
Living thing.

Let me have
Within my veins
Pounding blood
That dripe and drains.

Life that is
A test in living
Robs the heart
Instead of giving,

Numbs the heart
That used to know
Warmth of summer,
Depth of snow.

FERRY ADAMS.

A DIVORCE WAS GRANTED every ten minutes in the Reno courts Monday. That seems quite speedy to outsiders, but it's a bit slow for the Nevada lawyers. They are now working on a slot machine where you drop in a five dollar gold piece and take out a decree of divorce. There will be a lot of knobs on the contraption and all you have to do is to pull out the knob that suits you—"Incompatibility," "Nonsupport," "Desertion," "Poor Fish," "Rotten Bridge Player," or what not. Drop in the coin and whoopee! Set 'em up in the other alley!

AND THE DIVORCE GETTER GELS out at Reno are living in tents and cooking their meals over camp fires and chasing caterpillars out of the custard pie and washing the dishes in their intense eagerness to establish a legal residence so they can be free in three weeks. And if their husbands had ever made them do those things, oh, how they would have shrieked and torn their hair. Of maybe not; maybe they would have settled down and been quite contented and happy and never gone to Reno for a divorce at all. Women are a bit hard to understand.

CAL COOLIDGE had a neat moral in his colyum yesterday. Not that the moral was expressed in so many words. Ah, nay! But it was written in very neatly between the lines. Which we think was rather shortsighted of Cal because he doesn't get paid for what is written between the lines. Cal said: "At present our national treasury is running a very large deficit. . . . Nor is there any reason for despair. There is a way out and it can be found." Now for the obvious moral that Cal wrote between the lines. The moral, as we read it, is: "The Way Out Is to Elect a Certain Party for President Who Did Not Choose to Run in 1928."

ANOTHER JUNE.

How can I bear to meet another June
When every breeze that sighs will sigh of you?
And every song will be an old love tune
Of days gone by, and hearts that proved untrue.

December snows were hard enough to bear—
(The snows that wore your footprints long had passed.)
Through April's mists I saw you everywhere,
And yet the weary days crawled by at last.

If only June were spared me, I might smile;
Yet June will come, and I must live it through,
Although its raptures break my heart the while—
Because no day or night can bring me you.

TAMARACK.

AN AUTOMOBILE is getting more like a ship every day. Now they're putting compasses up over the driver's head so he'll always know which way is north. But suppose he isn't going north? Well, anyhow, the compasses are great for those who do want to go north, and there's lots of people who want to go north now and then. And there's so many more who are always looking for a chance to go south. These auto compasses really ought to be a great help.

LAGNIAPPE.

HOW TRUE that saying that somebody said that there's a time for everything. For instance, Smedley Butler could insult Mussolini now in three banquet speeches every night and get away with it because the Duce is busier these days than a one-armed paperhanger with the itch. No matter how much any one away over here in America insulted Mussolini these days he couldn't take the slightest notice of it. Too bad Smedley doesn't know that. Or maybe he does. R. H. L.

THE REAL ANGEL OF PEACE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1915.

CHICAGO.—Possibility of a street car strike tomorrow night hinges on the action of the two union committees at a joint meeting today. Arbitration of the differences between the employés and the officials of the surface lines was offered by President Busby and the committee's meeting today will decide whether or not the unions will accept the proposition. If it is not accepted the surface lines employés' union and the elevated employés' union will call a strike as soon as the men finish their runs tomorrow.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson dispatched his uncompromising rejoinder to Germany and then began preparation of a note to Great Britain demanding the lifting of the illegal blockade of American commerce with neutral European ports. It is the hope of the President that the demands on Great Britain will relieve the German tension. Robert Lansing, counselor of the state department, who was appointed secretary of state ad interim by the President to succeed W. J. Bryan, signed the note to Germany. Officials permitted it to become known that the note is firm in tone and that its chief feature is a second summons to Germany to state its intention as to the observance of the principles of international law which this government has invoked for the protection of American life and property on the high seas.

WASHINGTON.—Former Secretary of State Bryan made public a statement of his disapproval of the note to Germany and of his "irreconcilable" difference of opinion with the President and his fellow cabinet members. Mr. Bryan says he could not sign the rejoinder because it does not offer to arbitrate the dispute with Germany and because the President is unwilling to prevent Americans from traveling on belligerent and ammunition carrying vessels.

JUNE 10, 1901.

PITTSBURGH.—Dr. William Hudson Daly, major and chief surgeon of volunteers during the Spanish war, who came into prominence by first using the term "embalmed beef" in connection with army supplies, committed suicide at his home here. He had been subject to melancholia for months, due largely, it is believed, to the filing of the report of the court of inquiry that investigated the "embalmed beef" charges. He said the report intended to make him out a liar and that he had been unfairly treated.

WASHINGTON.—Urgent cable dispatches have been sent from Cuban colonies in New York and Washington to Havana urging leaders in the constitutional convention not to trifle with the United States any longer and warning them that the independence of Cuba is at stake and will be lost entirely if there is much more delay in accepting the Platt amendment.

NEW YORK.—Edward Moran, noted marine and landscape painter, died in his apartments and studio from a complication of diseases, largely due to overwork. He was 62 years old.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 10, 1881.

QUEBEC.—Fire which broke out in a small wooden house in Olive street spread rapidly and destroyed 657 buildings, including St. John's church, and caused a total loss of about $2,500,000 before it was checked. Seven lives are known to have been lost in the conflagration and there are some persons missing, who it is feared perished in the flames. The burned quarter was inhabited by well to do people.

LONDON.—Sir William Thomson of the Glasgow university writes a letter to the Times stating that, by measurement, no appreciable loss was incurred in transmitting the box of stored electricity from Paris to Glasgow. It is stated that this solves the problem of storing electric energy in a manner and on a scale for many important practical applications.

LONDON.—The centennial of the birth of George Stephenson, the originator of the railway locomotive, is being celebrated today in various parts of England. The chief observance is at Newcastle-on-Tyne. At Stephenson's birthplace 100,000 persons participated in the celebration.

NEWTON BAKER.

Chicago, June 4.—Your editorial on Newton D. Baker in your issue of May 31 contains general assertions that have no basis in fact.

You say "Mr. Baker's chief weakness, however, will be his unpopularity with the service men." This appears to be a case of the wish being father to the thought. As a member of the American Legion, I have come in contact with many ex-service men and I have never run across the "unpopularity" that seems to worry you. May I remind you that when the American Legion went to France for its tenth annual convention Vice President Dawes, a Republican, referred to Mr. Baker as "the greatest secretary of war we ever had," and Gen. Pershing echoed the same sentiment?

In regard to Mr. Baker's record in carrying on the war, the standard of measurement should be not the impossible ideal set up by a cloistered editorial writer, but a comparison with the bungling in our previous wars, a bungling which is inherent in our form of government with its divided powers. If you want efficiency in war, establish a dictatorship and abolish the constitution. The future historian, dispassionately analyzing the management of our end of the world war, will without question give Mr. Baker credit for having made a far greater percentage of wise decisions than have any others of our war secretaries of war. Gen. Dawes will not be alone in his appraisal of Mr. Baker.

Your reference to political considerations and the policy of "preventing any candidate for President from arriving at the front" is true. However, you should have added that Mr. Baker was firm in his conviction that politics should not enter into the matter, and that no man would be given a chance to capitalize our flesh and blood for political advancement. You refer, I take it, to the Wood and Roosevelt episodes.

For your information, war office records show that Roosevelt, while President, promoted Pershing over the heads of 866 senior officers to the rank of brigadier general. In 1917 Mr. Baker appointed Gen. Pershing, a Roosevelt Republican, commander of the American expeditionary forces in France. Later, when President Wilson asked Gen. Pershing whether he wanted Roosevelt and Wood in France, Gen. Pershing, a Republican, categorically refused to give his assent. If this is "politics" on the part of Mr. Baker, make the most of it.

The latter part of your editorial would lead one to the painful conclusion that THE TRIBUNE bemoans the fact that Baker selected his commander on the basis of his military record instead of on the basis of his availability as a presidential candidate.

HOWARD F. JANOUSEK.

AN UNSUNG HERO.

Chicago, May 25.—It was quite thrilling to read of the frustrated holdup in the Jackson boulevard clothing store in Sunday's TRIBUNE, but it seems to me that the bellboy who called the police was the real hero. He showed great presence of mind as well, as heroism, but you never even gave his name in the article, and it was young folks' week, too. Is it too late to let us know who he was and have his picture in the paper? CATHERINE FAY.

US.

BOQUETE, Republic of Panama, May 10.—Many years I was occupied in this town and that gives me the right to offer you these lines to show how I, a Spaniard, and almost all of us here in the east are thinking about the people of the great nation in the north:

The Americans are a busy people. The leisured class is relatively small, as is the fact confined to a few eastern cities. The citizen has little time to think about political problems and the want of serious and sustained thinking is not confined to politics. One feels it even more as regards economical and social questions.

Their quick perception serves them well in business and in the ordinary affairs of private life that they do not feel the need for minute investigation and patient reflection on the underlying principles of things.

They are a commercial people, whose point of view is primarily that of persons accustomed to reckon profit and loss. Their impulse is to apply a direct practical test to men and measures, to assume that the men who have got on fastest are the smartest men, and that a scheme which seems to pay well deserves to be supported.

They accept nothing as practical which is not plain, downright, apprehensible by an ordinary understanding. Although openminded, so far as willingness to listen goes, they are hard to convince because they have really made up their minds on most subjects, having adopted the prevailing notions of their locality or party as truths due to their own reflection.

It may seem a contradiction to remark that they are nevertheless an impressionable people. Yet this is true. It is not their intellect, however, that is impressionable but their imagination and emotions. They are capable of an ideality surpassing that of Englishmen or Frenchmen. R. LOZEAU.

TO STIMULATE BUILDING.

Chicago, June 3.—Prospective builders are afraid to erect property only because they fear the taxes of the city, and I therefore suggest that the city should exempt all buildings to be erected valued at $20,000 or over from five years' taxes. Only lot tax should be collected. If this plan were carried out new buildings would spring up, men would work, and money would be circulating.

The city will not lose anything by the plan, for an empty lot brings them no house taxes. If the city would follow this idea it would start the ball rolling. There are thousands of vacant lots ready for occupation. P. H. GOLDSMITH.

YES, IF HE HAD A LOIN CLOTH.

Chicago, June 8.—If the son of a distinguished Chicagoan and diplomat does knee pants in which to greet the Inbred Hannover, would it be proper to remove his breeches completely if he met up with Mahatma Gandhi? C. URUS.

MAC CARTY'S BACK.

Chicago, June 8.—During my absence from Chicago in the old country you have been printing some rather feeble letters about the ancestry of George Washington.

I know fifteen or twenty George Washingtons and all but one of them is of Afro-American descent. Is it not therefore logical to suppose that the original George was the same? MACCARTY.

COURT PONDERS TEST CASE IN U. S. TAX FRAUD DRIVE

O'Brien Appeal Is Taken Under Advisement.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday took under advisement the appeal of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. The outcome of which is awaited as a test of the government's income tax campaign against politicians and gangsters.

Pleas of guilty by Tony Dragna and Frankie Lake, beer barons, are continued as to sentence pending the trial of O'Brien, it is stated. The conviction of Ralph Capone, which also has been taken under advisement is another case involved. The decision will not only affect these cases, but all others that may or have been tried. Counsel for O'Brien, Attorney James A. O'Callaghan, was aided in his argument by Attorneys George F. Barrett and William C. Wermuth, who filed a brief amici curiae.

Attorneys for Paschen.

The "friends of the court," according to federal prosecutors, concerned in the appeal because they are to be counsel for Christian P. Paschen, former county commissioner, and William A. Pickett, alleged fixer for Paschen, both of whom are under indictment on charges of tax fraud. Nichols also figured as an alleged fixer in the trial of County Assessor Gene Oliver, who was convicted of tax fraud.

The principal contention of defense counsel and the "friends of the court" was that a man cannot be convicted of a misdemeanor for failure to file income tax returns and also of a felony for attempts to defeat and evade income tax through the failure to file returns.

Both Actions Essential, Claim.

Federal Prosecutors Jacob Grossman and Dwight H. Green argued that if only the misdemeanor action could lie in the case of failure to file returns, then there would be no punishment for the filing of false returns, and the statutes making it a felony to attempt to evade and defeat income taxes would have no effect.

O'Brien also contended that he believed his income exempt from taxation because he drew salary as a state official, but the government showed that he had an income of $435,000 during three years from his teaming business. Many of his contracts were with the sanitary district.

DETROIT MAN IS HELD FOR $213,000 THEFT FROM WELFARE FUND

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—Discovery was today made that about $213,000 in city welfare funds had been stolen through forgery of grocery certificates by a former petty clerk in the department.

The man arrested is Alex F. Lewis, 35 years old, who with his stolen thousands became almost over night a playboy philanthropist.

Late tonight Prosecutor Munro announced Lewis had made a full confession. The clerk said half could be recovered.

RALPH CAPONE ASKS INCOME TAX PENALTY RELIEF

Suit Says Bank Deposits Were Misleading.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Contending that his bank deposits are not representative of his income, Ralph Capone, Chicago gambler and brother of Al, yesterday filed a petition with the United States board of tax appeals asking that his conviction for evasion of federal income taxes be lifted, it was learned at the board today.

RALPH CAPONE.

The government claims that the Chicago racketeer owes it a total of $311,282.53 in taxes and penalties imposed for his attempted evasions in 1926, 1927, and 1928.

The petition, which was filed by Capone's attorney, George N. Murdock of Chicago, sets forth four errors in the deficiency letter upon which the original conviction was based. It contends the tax is based on bank deposits carried in Capone's name and not upon his net income, and that the bank accounts were not the sole property of Capone.

His Losses Ignored.

It declares that no deductions were made for gambling losses and says the alleged deficiency includes double penalty not allowed by law.

According to the petition, Capone, as cashier of a syndicate engaged in an illegal business, found it necessary to deposit and withdraw large sums from the accounts. He was merely connected with the syndicate, the petition adds, as cashier, for which service he received a salary of $100 a week. It is also stated in the petition that Capone suffered through personal bets on race horses and the like, which brought his losses to more than like brought his losses to more than his gains in 1926 and 1927.

Relied on Court Ruling.

However, no returns were filed in 1926 and 1927, according to the petition, because Capone was relying on a court decision holding that no returns need be made for income from illegal sources.

At the board of tax appeals today it was stated that if Commissioner David Burnet holds the facts listed in the petition to be sufficient grounds for a hearing, action on the case may be delayed for a year. However, if he finds the petition to contain insufficient grounds, he will recommend a dismissal, and a hearing to approve his recommendation will be held immediately.

MEDICAL SOCIETY TO MAIL BALLOTS TODAY; VOTE FIGHT IS HOT

Ballots for the annual election of the Chicago Medical society next Tuesday will be mailed today to all eligible voters among the 4,500 members of the society. The election will climax a strenuous campaign between supporters of the council ticket, headed by Dr. E. H. Ochsner, and the followers of the "anti-gag rule" slate, headed by Dr. Herman L. Kretshmer, the opposing candidates for president-elect.

Polling places will be located in each of the 15 neighborhood branches of the society. The ballots may be cast either in person or by mail. In addition to the president-elect, a secretary, five councilors at large and five alternate councilors will be chosen.

Officers in each of the branches also will be elected next Tuesday, but there has been no contest for most of these posts and interest has centered in the campaign for president-elect.

AGENTS SEIZE 4,000 GALLONS OF BEER IN BREWING

Federal prohibition agents last night raided a brewery in a purported factory building at 5811 West 66th street, seizing a truck containing 40 barrels of beer, and 4,000 gallons of beer about to be barrelled. The brewery was believed to have been operated by members of the Edward [Spike] O'Donnell gang.

The raid was led by Deputy Prohibition Administrators A. E. Hamilton and A. E. Aman. The brewery was deserted when the raiders arrived. Agents estimated the capacity of the brewery to be more than 300 barrels of beer a week. The apparatus was destroyed.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE FROM JAN CHIAPUSSO

Mrs. Jan Joseph Chiapusso, wife of the concert pianist and his assistant on the faculty of the Bush Conservatory of Music, was granted a divorce yesterday on grounds of cruelty by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan. Attorneys for the litigants announced that a property settlement had been arranged out of court.

Before their marriage in June, 1928, in Marshalltown, Ia., Mrs. Chiapusso had concluded a concert tour of Europe. She appeared under her maiden name, Lois Lynn Rogers, which she retained professionally after her marriage. On her return to this country she enrolled for further work under Chiapusso and was married to him while still his pupil.

Mrs. Chiapusso has been living at 729 Briar place and Chiapusso at 173 Margaret place, Elmhurst. Mrs. Chiapusso was represented in court by her cousin, Attorney Alfred Rogers of the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt.

AIM BODY BLOW TODAY AT "I GOT A DRAG" STARS

Council Bill to Forbid Auto Emblems.

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] said last night that he would ask unanimous consent of the city council today for immediate passage of his ordinance prohibiting the display of so-called "official" stars on automobiles.

ALD. HODES.

The ordinance which he has drafted would prohibit any person, whether an official or not, from displaying on his car a star purporting to represent the authority of any local government or of any state or federal department. It also would bar emblems of any sort made in the shape of a star. The only exception is police cars on official service. The ordinance provides a fine of from $5 to $50 as a penalty.

Sexton to Be Appointed.

Mayor Cermak will transmit to the council today the appointment of William H. Sexton, former corporations counsel in the Harrison administration, to fill that office again. The two month period for which Corporation Counsel Busch accepted the mayor's appointment has expired. Mr. Sexton has informed the mayor that he will accept the position if the council approves the appointment.

The mayor will also recommend that the council amend the zoning ordinance to abolish the zoning board of appeals, as now constituted. In place of the chairman and four members at salaries totaling $27,000 a year, as provided in the present ordinance, the mayor suggests that he be given the power to appoint other city officials to sit on the board at no advance in their regular salaries.

Posts Are Now Vacant.

Mayor Cermak has made no appointments to the board. He obtained the resignation of Mrs. Eva Hamilton, chairman, and other members appointed by the previous administration by threats of ouster proceedings before the civil service commission, and has since allowed their posts to stand vacant.

Allan J. Hruby, secretary of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, will recommend to the council the abolition of another job as an economy measure. That is the post of director of social welfare and outdoor relief, now held by Margaret Mivelaz at a salary of $4,500 a year.

Another petition to be presented to the council comes from the Rogers Park Civic league, of which Charles West is president, asking the aldermen to join in asking Gov. Emmerson for legislation enforcing further safeguards on savings deposits in banks.

COAST GUARD MOVES FROM EVANSTON TO NEW HARBOR HOME

Members of the Evanston coast
mette yacht harbor.

The old building, erected in 1872, was the starting point of many a hazardous trip into the stormy waters of Lake Michigan by the crew which was composed originally of students of Northwestern university.

The crew saw its first service on the night of Dec. 5, 1860, when the steamer Lady Elgin burned with a loss of many lives. The student crew was supplanted by regular coast guardsmen in 1915. Since that time the station has been under the command of Capt. Otto E. Fricke.

Jail Diet Will Be Rest from Fried Chicken Week

Because her brother, Joseph Pokower, lost his temper last week during a family quarrel, Mrs. Anna Frys, 630 North May street, and all of her neighbors have eaten fried chicken and rabbit stew until those ordinarily savory dishes have become a drug on the market, she complained yesterday in the Shakespeare avenue court. Judge Alfred O. Erickson sent Joseph, who had twisted the necks of thirty chickens and eleven rabbits belonging to his sister, to the Bridewell for a week.

2 Saskatoon Brothers Marry Chicago Sisters

A long distance romance between two brothers from Saskatoon, Canada, and two sisters living in Chicago, was disclosed yesterday when the four purchased marriage licenses at the county building. Hyman Cyprus, 28 years old, will marry Gertrude Zeidman, 21 years old, 1436 Thorndale avenue, and his brother Nathan, 30 years old, will marry Gertrude's sister, Verna, 20 years old.

STATE SUDDENLY RESTS CASE AT PANTAGES TRIAL

Miss Nitto on Stand Again; Grilled on Birth.

San Diego, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—The state abruptly rested its case against Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, and three co-defendants on trial on conspiracy and morals charges late today.

The state rested shortly after Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine sustained objections to the admission into evidence of a document in Italian which District Attorney Thomas Whelan said was purported to be a copy of the birth certificate of Lydia Nitto.

Grill Girl on Birth.

Previously the girl had testified she was born in Italy, Feb. 24, 1914. On cross-examination she admitted to defense attorneys that she had once signed an affidavit in which she gave her age as 22, and her birthplace as New York.

Marguerite de Luce, Italian interpreter, testified she had translated the mysterious document.

The English translation was turned over to defense attorneys for study.

May Ask Dismissal.

The defense attorneys said if Miss Nitto was 22 years old, as she attested in the affidavit, she was above the age limit of jurisdiction of the juvenile law. They said they planned to move later for a dismissal on the grounds the girl was not a minor.

Up to the time the mysterious document made its appearance the prosecution had made no attempt to corroborate the girl's statement that she was born in Italy in 1914.

WORKER DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

John Nelson, 54 years old, member of a section crew of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad, working near Bellwood, died of heart disease while at work yesterday.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma notified the state department today that every effort is being made to discover the facts in the shooting of two Mexican students early yesterday by two deputy sheriffs at Ardmore. The men shot were Manuel Gomez and Emilio Cortes Rubio, a cousin of the president of Mexico. The deputy sheriffs are under arrest and charged with murder.

Gov. Murray has commissioned Col. Charles Clowe to accompany the bodies to Mexico City.

The communication was sent after the state department had called upon Gov. Murray for a prompt investigation of the killings.

"In view of the possible international complication in this affair," Mr. Stimson said in his message about the shootings, "it will be greatly appreciated if you will direct a minute investigation with a view to determining the circumstances and responsibility."

State department officials telephoned the American ambassador at Mexico City and directed him to inform the Mexican government that this country was making an investigation and to express regret that such an incident had occurred.

WILLIE DRUGGAN TO BE TRIED FOR BEATING WOMAN

Charged this time with beating a woman, Willie Druggan, brother of the public enemy, Terry Druggan, was scheduled to appear today in Fillmore street court. He was arrested yesterday by Policeman Cornelius Riley of the Fillmore district in a garage at 3226 West Harison street, said to be owned by him.

The warrant was obtained by Mrs. Arlene Fazier, 19 years old, 3544 Van Buren street, who charges that Druggan, with a man known as "George," several days ago offered to drive her and her sister, Miss Myrtle Gates, 18 years old, to their home, but instead drove them to the Harrison street garage. There, Mrs. Fazier charges, Willie hit her on the head with a black jack, but failed in an attempt to attack her.

Charges of assault and battery, assault with a deadly weapon, attempted rape, and disorderly conduct were placed against Druggan. He was released last night under bonds totaling $4,900.

After three trials and 20 continuances, Druggan was acquitted in 1928 of beating an old man with a baseball bat.

"Our Open Sesame to Sales"

"WE are confident that newspaper advertising is the most valued force we know.

"Our reputation; our merchandise; our service; all naturally play an important part in our growth and success.

"But, the vital tie, the magic power, the something that brings people in to buy—that force is the newspaper.

"With it we build volume sales—economically.

"With it we impress our ideals of serving well. We cover great areas easily—adequately. And, at a cost unparalleled in any other way."

Thus, one of the outstanding merchants of New York sums up the vital value of newspaper advertising in creating sales.

Perhaps no newspaper in America understands the direct approach to the productive part of its market as does the New York Herald Tribune.

Certainly the Herald Tribune is unique in its clear-cut appeal to the New Yorker of means. For, those who really count in Greater New York, both in buying power and in commercial or social leadership, make up fully 90 per cent of the New York Herald Tribune's home circulation.

The quality market of the world's greatest quantity Metropolis is yours to reach and sell through one great newspaper. A newspaper that dominates the buying response of the city itself as well as the rich, growing suburbs that surround it, a territory in which live over 2,420,000 families.

It is not accidental that the New York Herald Tribune market is "a city without slums". The editorial and business management of this paper has held steadfastly to those things which would keep it entrenched with the New Yorkers who are able to secure the better things of life.

Since there are more than a million New Yorkers with incomes well above the average in New York and its suburbs, and against this group the New York Herald Tribune has applied its tremendous selling power with economical effectiveness, it can do a major selling job for you at minor cost.

In this year of selling necessity, be sure you know how quickly the New York Herald Tribune will give you the New York business entree you seek to secure. Simply write or wire.

JOSEPH ROBERTS DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN FALL

Joseph Samuel Roberts, vice president and Chicago manager of the Continental Casualty company, died yesterday in his home, 1204 Chase avenue, of injuries sustained on Monday when he fell down a flight of stairs there. Mr. Roberts was 36 years old. For the last two months he had been absent from his business due to nervous trouble, and was under the care of a physician. He served as an ambulance driver with the French army and later with the American army during the world war, leaving the service with the rank of captain.

Mr. Roberts is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Neale Roberts, and two children, Neale, 6 years old, and Mary Louise, 10 years old. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the home. The services will be in charge of the South Shore Masonic lodge.

OBITUARY.

ALBERT HINDS, 83 years old, retired manufacturer of pipe organ pumps, died yesterday of heart disease in his home, 1163 North Dearborn street.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

$750,000 ESTATE TO CARE FOR OLD MARRIED FOLKS

Fortune Is Willed by Aurora Widow.

A fund estimated at between $750,000 and $1,000,000, for the establishment and maintenance of a home for old people, "preferably husbands and wives," is created under the will of Mrs. Fannie Bishop Henderson, 77 year old eccentric widow of Aurora. The will was filed yesterday in the Kane county court at Geneva.

Mrs. Henderson, the widow of the late W. W. Henderson, pioneer resident of Kane county, died June 5. She was the daughter of the late William Ward Bishop, wealthy land owner.

Bulk of Fortune for Home.

Under the will the entire estate, save for two minor bequests, is to go to the creation of the home to be known as the Bishop Home for the Aged. The money is left in accordance with the desire of her father, the will explains. The home is to be erected and maintained on the 260 acre Bishop farm just north of the city of Aurora.

"It was the wish of my father to build a home for the aged, preferably husbands and wives, where they might spend their declining years in peace and happiness," the will reads. "I respect the wish of my father."

Banker Is Trustee.

William George, president of the Second National bank of Aurora, is named executor and sole trustee of the estate. Mr. George said he would announce plans in accordance with the will after studying the best means of carrying out its provisions.

The minor bequests were an annuity of $1,000 to a cousin, Mrs. Nellie Bishop King of Berwyn, and another of $500 to a second cousin, Mrs. Glora Gould of Webster, Mass.

Mrs. Henderson lived in seclusion in the family home. She was known to her neighbors as a strong-willed self-assertive woman. Though she was known to possess a fortune she lived modestly. In her visits to Aurora she drove an electric automobile which had been in the family for many years. The Hendersons had no children.

Fine Editions Are Theme of This Review

From Bible to Norris, Dreiser on List.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

FOR some time I have been wanting to tell you about some of the special de luxe volumes which have been published lately, but every day has been some other book's birthday. Today I'm just going to disregard all the debutantes and concentrate on de luxe editions.

One item is "An Original Leaf from the Bible of the Revolution," published by John Howell of San Francisco. A few years ago Gabriel Wells had a copy of the Gutenberg Bible separated into pages and bound handsomely as individual collector's items. It created a great deal of interested discussion. The Bible of the Revolution, which was printed in 1782 to fill the colonists' need for Bibles, is one of the rarest items of Americana, and is said to be even scarcer than the Gutenberg Bible. In the volume published by Mr. Howell in an edition of 500 copies there is an original leaf from the Revolutionary Bible, an essay concerning it by Robert R. Dearden Jr. and Douglas Watson, some comments on Aitken's printing, and a reproduction of a letter of George Washington's having to do with the item, bound and reproduced from the private collection of A Edward Newton, the famous "The Amenities of Book Collecting" man.

"Homer's Iliad" in the Alexander Pope translation, beautifully printed, with the Greek text on one side and the English opposite it, was issued in England by the famous Nonesuch Press and brought to America by Random House. The paper used for the book has a rich and rare color, like really old paper, and the volume is bound in a heavenly rosy red pigskin. America's allotment of this joy, is 500 copies. There is a useful, amusing sheet tucked between the first two pages titled "On First Looking Into Pope's Homer," and it tells the proper way of opening a fine book. "Open the book at about page 20," it reads, "and press the front cover and these first eighty or so pages gently and really back as far as they will go. They will groan and crackle slightly, but never mind. Next do this with the back cover and the last eighty or so pages. Gently. Repeat at intervals of about eighty pages, going from end to end of the book and so approaching the middle from both ends. Firmly. The two covers can now be made to lie flat against each other without strain when the book is wide open. On the pages only after the book has been opened in the manner described above." That is important and excellent advice about any book!

"The Grand National, 1839-1930," by David Headley Munroe [Huntington Press], is a handsome volume for racing fans. It is published in an edition of 101 copies. The illustrations are copious and are full page reproductions in black and white of famous prints and, of the more modern racers, photographs.

"Prose Quartos" [Random House] is a box of six varicolored folios, all first editions of short stories by famous Americans. They are: "The Litter of Rose Leaves," by Stephen Vincent Benet; "Tabloid News," by Louis Bromfield; "Gehenna," by Conrad Aiken; "Feathers," by Carl Van Vechten; "American County Fair," by Sherwood Anderson, and "Fine Furniture," by Theodore Dreiser. They are items of great interest to collectors of modern American first editions. The edition is limited to 875 sets.

"The Mirror of the Parisian Bibliophile" [Lakeside Press], is a new translation by Theodore W. Koch of Northwestern university of a delightful, gay, extravagant tale of rivalry between two Parisian book collectors of the first half of the nineteenth century. The edition consists of 500 copies signed by the translator.

Only five hundred copies were also issued of "The Leap of the Roushan Bug," by Henry W. Longfellow [Grabhorn Press], a complete facsimile of the manuscript, with the text printed below. It shows Longfellow in an unusually light—that of a writer of the verse.

"Frank Norris of the Wave" [The Talisman Press] is an interesting item of Americana. In it there are collected for the first time in book form a group of short stories, articles, interviews, sketches, and parodies selected from the now extremely rare files of the San Francisco Wave during the late 90's, when Frank Norris was assistant editor of that weekly. Those days immediately preceded his abrupt rise to fame, with "McTeague," "The Octopus," and "The Pit." There is a foreword by Charles G. Norris, brother of Frank Norris. The edition consists of 500 copies.

"The Writings of Alfred Edgar Coppard" [Ulysses Bookshop, London] is a bibliography by Jacob Schwartz of Coppard's work, much of which has been printed by famous private presses in England. It has an interesting and amusing foreword by Coppard himself and is signed by him—a real Coppard first edition. Some of the prices which Coppard firsts have brought are extremely interesting. For instance, for Christmas, 1929, Earl and Florence Fiske of Green Bay, Wis., who always have an unusual Christmas card, sent their friends "The Gollan" by Coppard, with a design by Lovat Fraser adorning it. It never had any stated value, other than its sentimental one as a rarity and a Christmas greeting. But some hard-up recipient must have sold his copy, for it is quoted in a London catalogue for the surprising figure of six guineas [about $31]. The edition was 650 copies of the Coppard bibliography.

Earl E. Fisk was the editor of that delightful volume "Advice to Young Men and [incidentally] to Young Women," by William Cobbett, reprinted from the first edition of 1829 with the original Gilliray illustrations reproduced in colors, which was published by Alfred A. Knopf with 475 copies allotted to Americans out of 1,000 published.

Two volumes in the new fine book series published by Random House are "The Way to Wealth," the preface to Benjamin Franklin's Poor Richard's Almanack for the year 1758, written under the name of Richard Saunders, with an essay on Poor Richard's philosophy by Phillips Russell, and "Salut au Monde," by Walt Whitman. They are designed by Vojtech Preisig of New York and printed in Czecho-Slovakia. The edition consists in each case of 390 copies signed by the designer. "American First Editions and Their Prices, 1931," by William Targ [Black Archer Press] is a revision of Mr. Targ's rather inexact volume of 1930, with the glaring errors corrected and a graceful apology for them as a foreword. Four hundred and forty-five copies comprise the edition.

I JUST KNOW HE WILL LIKE THE IDEA BUT OF COURSE NOT TO BEGIN WITH. I'LL HAVE TO START AN AGITATION IN FAVOR OF IT.
THE ONLY THING AGAINST IT IS THAT THE CHILDREN CAN'T BE IN ON IT. AND I DON'T KNOW HOW I CAN EXIST THAT LONG WITHOUT THEM.

TEXAS GUINAN BACK; TELLS WORLD FRANCE OWES HER ACT $50,000

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Texas Guinan brought her "little girls" back to America today vowing vengeance on the French government for not letting her into France to run a Paris night club.

"I'll sue them. I'll make them pay the $50,000 the trip cost me," said the blond entertainer, prodding a reporter with a carmine tipped forefinger. "What court? I don't know yet, but I'll sue them anyway.

"You suckers haven't any idea how humiliating it was," added La Guinan, in whose vocabulary "sucker" is sometimes a term of comraderie. "Here I traveled all the way across the Atlantic to get into jail, when any old jail in the world would be glad to have me."

The "jail" was the detention place at Le Havre. There the French held Texas, her thirty-three show girls, cowboys, and musicians for five days and then shipped them back because they had no labor permit.

As she told reporters all about her troubles the cabaret queen wore her latest idea in cowgirl costumes.

Veteran Army Leaders to Rule During Day.

West Point, N. Y., June 9.—[Special.]—With the entire corps of cadets and visiting alumni gathered around the statue of Col. Sylvanus Thayer, the father of the military academy, Alumni day will be celebrated here tomorrow morning. A feature of the ceremony will be singing by the cadet choir of 170.

Prior to the exercises, the visiting alumni will form in front of Cullum hall and headed by the band march to the Thayer monument. The column will be led by Maj. Generals Charles E. King, '66; E. S. Godfrey, '67; and John Pitman, '67. Gen. King is the author of a number of books on frontier life in the army during the Indian days and Gen. Godfrey wears the Medal of Honor, as does Gen. James J. Parker, class of 1876, who also will be present.

Other graduates who will be in line will include Brig. Gen. S. E. Tillman, '69; Brig. Gen. E. A. Garlington, '76; Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, '76; Maj. Gen. Eben Swift, '76; Brig. Gen. W. C. ALGONQUIN CAMP TO OPEN TUESDAY FOR CHICAGO POOR

Camp Algonquin will be at home to the mothers and children of needy Chicago families for the twenty-second season on next Tuesday.

To TRIBUNE readers acquainted with the history of the camp and its activities, supported in part by their contributions, announcement of the annual opening may bring only a mental notation to slip the annual check into the mail some time before the summer is over.

To social workers close to the hardships wrought by the past winter of depression and unemployment announcement of the camp's opening brings the hope that even in times when gifts to charity decrease friends of Algonquin will somehow supply the fund which will mean the reconstruction of 1,700 individuals.

In normal times these needy families were in straitened enough circumstances. But last winter brought sickness and malnutrition, which, coupled with the added mental worry over jobless husbands and brothers and hungry children, have left their mark. The task of the summer, all social workers contend, is the great one of paying the bill for the disaster of last winter—paying it in good food, vacations in the country, and a new mental outlook toward the future.

The United Charities of Chicago administers the camp which is located on the Fox river, 45 miles northwest of Chicago. Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the charities, has announced that the camp hopes to care for 500 more mothers and children than in normal times. In order to do this, the allotment of 200 undernourished children who ordinarily spend the whole summer in camp, will be cut in half. The spare space will be available for more mothers and children for the two weeks' vacation periods.

The first delegation of campers will leave next Tuesday afternoon, their transportation being provided free as in former years by the Chicago and North Western railroad. A second group will leave the following Tuesday.

The fund which THE TRIBUNE readers raise annually by their voluntary gifts to make possible these outings, opens the season without enough money to finance the cost of the first 90 vacations. It is imperative that in order to maintain the camp this summer every friend who has contributed in the past do so again this year. All gifts should be made payable to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, and will be acceptable immediately.

Germans Dedicate Hall at Heidelberg; Built by Americans

HEIDELBERG, June 9.—(AP)—Jacob Gould Schurman, former American ambassador to Germany, spoke today at the dedication of Schurman hall, a new addition to the Heidelberg university building made possible by contributions of himself and several other Americans. The Baden governmen conferred upon him the gold state medal, its highest distinction.

For the first time, Mr. Schurman disclosed the names of three Americans who contributed the last $100,000 to the $500,000 building fund. They were Ferdinand Thun, Henry Janssen, and Gustav Oberlaender, all of Reading, Pa.

It was Mr. Oberlaender, Mr. Schurman recalled, who recently established a fund of $1,000,000 to enable Americans in all walks of life to come to Germany for a sojourn of a year of longer. It is significant, said Mr. Schurman, that the donor stipulated that that sum be expended within one generation.

That stipulation, he said, illustrates Mr. Oberlaender's certainty that the two peoples will have reëstablished their firm friendship on a natural basis within a generation and that afterwards no artificial aid will be needed to maintain that friendship.

100 Jobless Families May Grow Own Food

Charities to Supply Free Space for Gardens.

More than 100 acres of vacant lots near Morgan Park, usually the habitat of weeds, ashes and old tin cans, will be turned into thriving vegetable gardens this summer. The products will feed a hundred families of Chicago's unemployed.

The United Charities of Chicago announced yesterday that land loaned by citizens of the neighborhood has been turned over to unemployed for use as free gardens. The principal gardens will be between 113th and 114th street, Hamlet avenue and the Rock Island tracks, with a few scattered lots in the Morgan Park district. The Ridge Relief council and the Unietd Charities have started assigning garden plots to needy families who are supplied with free seed and plants.

"On each acre plot assigned to a family, an assortment of seeds will be planted," Edwin C. Jones of the United Charities explained. "The crops will include corn, beans, peas, turnips, carrots, mustard greens, tomatoes, and lettuce."

Mr. Jones said that the United Charities hopes to inaugurate free gardens in their far south, north, and northwest districts soon.

Each plot, Max Evans believes, will produce enough food to maintain a family during the summer, with some vegetables left for canning, to be used during the coming winter. Much of the land has already been plowed by an unemployed teamster, Mr. Jones said, and is ready for planting.

The Morgan Park office of the United Charities is headed by Mrs. Evelyn Wilson. The district office was organized last winter following a request from the Ridge Relief council.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—[Special.]—Fox has signed nearly the whole University of Southern California football team, including All-American Ernie Pickert, as well as Fay Coleman, ex-golf champ of these parts, and a sprinkling of other burlies to play policemen in Victor McLaglen's new picture, "Wicked." No, Eddie Lowe will not be in this one; McLaglen's employers evidently concluded he was tough enough to play one by himself. They have signed Mae Busch, Alice Lake, and Aileen Percy, all of them matured vamps, as well as Louise Fazenda, that sure fire cutup, to give the film the typical curves that standardize a McLaglen vehicle. Allan Dwan directs it, starting today.

From the grim drama of "Cheri Bibi" John Gilbert goes back to light sophistication in "Candlelight," his next. Harry Beaumont directs.

As soon as Law Ayres finishes in Universal's "Heaven on Earth," Mississippi river story now being made on and about the Sacramento river steamboat region, Law will do "The Spirit of Notre Dame." It's an original story by Richard Schayer and Dale Van Every.

Director Edward Sedgwick and Producer Howard Hughes hit an impasse in the filming of "Sky Devils," with the result that Sedgwick was relieved of his post this morning. But Hughes says:

"Mr. Sedgwick is not completing 'Sky Devils' simply because we disagreed on several major points in the story. I have the highest regard for his ability and am now dealing with him to direct another picture for me. It is not fair to force any director to work on something he does not believe in."

Which shows that they are not all "yes men" in the movies.

Marjorie Rambeau and Max Marcin aren't mad at each other any more. They buried the hatchet when they met today on a stage at Paramount, where Marjorie is cast in a talkie version of one of Marcin's plays. The two quarreled in 1917, when Miss Rambeau was appearing on the stage in Marcin's "Eyes of Youth," and spent the intervening fourteen years at outs.

Jocelyn Lee, who vanished ten days ago when a bench warrant was issued for her, was located yesterday in Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where she had spent more than a week under an assumed name. Her surgeon said she was successfully rallying from an operation for appendicitis.

Meanwhile, the warrant remain unserved. It was sworn out by Ivan [Ike] St. John, her ex-husbands' friends and landlord, after St. John asserted that Miss Lee appeared at his home, clawed his face, hurled epithets at his dinner guests and broke twelve windows.

C. D. Wilbur to Speak as "Old Ironsides" Is Revived

Washington, Mass., June 9.—Secretary Adams announced yesterday that Curtis D. Wilbur of San Francisco, secretary of the navy from 1924 to 1929, had accepted an invitation to represent the navy as the principal speaker at the ceremonies of recommissioning the frigate Constitution July 1 at Boston. Secretary Adams in his invitation recalled that Mr. Wilbur as secretary of the navy actively promoted the restoration of the famous old frigate.

Americans Find City That Alexander's Father Ruined

ATHENS, June 9.—(AP)—David Moore Robinson, archeologist of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, today informed the Greek government of successful excavations by Americans at Olynthos in Chaldkidike, which was destroyed by Philip of Macedon, father of Alexander the Great, in 348 B. C. and was a subject of Demosthenes' orations. Several houses and a portion of the ancient city were discovered.

Senator Walsh, Other Notables Given Degrees

Plans in Chicago Area; Purdue Ceremonies.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Bourbonnais, Ill. There he delivered the commencement address at St. Viator college and was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

This afternoon four honorary degrees will be awarded at the annual commencement of Loyola university. The recipients will be the Rev. Patrick J. Mahan, president of Creighton university at Omaha; Mrs. John MacMahon of Chicago, social worker; Dr. Georges Villain of Paris, France, internationally noted as an authority on dentistry, and James M. Beck, representative in congress from Pennsylvania and former solicitor general of the United States. Mr. Beck will deliver the commencement address.

President Walter Dill Scott and Dr. E. Walter Edlund of Chicago, president of the dental school of Northwestern university, will talk tonight at the dinner dance of the dental school at the Hotel La Salle. Approximately fifty members of the graduating class of a quarter of a century ago are expected to attend.

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, director of the Chicago Crime commission, was reflected president of the Alumni Association of the Northwestern University School of Law at the annual meeting of that association in the Hotel La Salle. Other officers are Charles O. Rundall, first vice president; Frederic B. Crossley, second vice president; Bertram J. Cahn, third vice president; Rudolph F. Bostelman, secretary, and Harold J. Clark, treasurer. Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania addressed the meeting.

Ross L. Bryson, 7621 Colfax avenue, was one of three Chicagoans to receive degrees yesterday at Pittsburgh from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and was also one of thirty-four students mentioned for honors. He was made a bachelor of science in metallurgical engineering. Lester Cohn, 618 Sheridan road, was awarded the degree of bachelor of architecture from the college of fine arts, and James S. Gerber, 6344 South Throop street, that of bachelor of science in chemical engineering.

At Wells college, Aurora, N. Y., Miss Charlotte Parks, 7712 North Asland avenue, and Miss Virginia Miller of Naperville were among the forty-six young women to receive diplomas in the sixty-third annual commencement of that institution yesterday. Both have been active in campus affairs. Miss Parks received the degree of bachelor of arts and divided the class poetry prize with Miss Mary Humphreys of New Rochelle, N. Y.

Lake Forest college will hold its fifty-third annual commencement on Saturday. Degrees will be awarded to eight Chicagoans among the sixty-six seniors. The Chicago students are Rhoda Ahlahat, 1415 Sherwood street; Henry C. Becker, 7936 South Peoria street; Martin Burk, 6821 Wentworth avenue; Harold J. P. Gall, 1427 Belle Plaine avenue; Carolyn Knoeppel, 2555 Smalley street; John A. Komar, 9129 Exchange avenue; Dorothy Nissen, 531 North Central avenue, and Ethel Wilson, 7620 Phillips avenue.

James Weber Linn, professor of English at the University of Chicago, will deliver the commencement address. Five honorary degrees will be conferred.

Scientists and Publisher Are Honored at Purdue.

Lafayette, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—Purdue university conferred 586 degrees at its fifty-seventh annual commencement today. The list included four honorary degrees awarded to distinguished citizens. Doctor of science degrees were conferred on Dr. Stanley Coultar, chairman of the state conservation commission, and former dean of men and of science at Purdue; Dr. Henry A. Huston of New York City, noted scientist and former director of the Purdue agricultural station, and Dr. J. C. Arthur, professor emeritus of botany at Purdue, world famous for his studies of plant rusts. Henry W. Marshall, Lafayette newspaper publisher and former president of the board of trustees, was awarded a degree of doctor of laws.

George Van Bibber of Terre Haute, Ind., outstanding Purdue football star for the last three years, was awarded the Big Ten medal for combined proficiency in scholarship and athletics. Van Bibber also received his degree as bachelor of science.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously from her home in a remote section of Paris. Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel, a man of great charm but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou.

Iris planned to divorce Marcel and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood, about to depart for Africa, postponed his trip to look for Clare, assisted by Tommy Bostetter, a journalist.

Iris moves to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. Alan meets Marcel at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working, and learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. He recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily and hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. That night Alan sees Marcel entering the home of Suzanne Marly, an actress.

A letter is sent to Iris, stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled. Marcel meets Iris and Alan at Helen's and drives them home. He accompanies Alan to his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to asphyxiate Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Marcel sent flowers to Iris the night Clare vanished. From Iris' description of the man who delivered them Alan recognizes him as De Bertincourt's companion in Le Touquet, thereby involving Marcel as the suspected instigator of the kidnaping, with the couple Yetta and Pietro, his partners in crime, the motive being to collect the ransom money. Alan and Tommy set out in search of the couple and learn that they have a half witted son. Alan decides to hide at the spot in a forest in the outskirts of Paris where Marcel is to deliver the ransom.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

A THREATENING LETTER.

"First of all, Tommy, we must make sure De Betincourt puts the money there."

"You're right, Alan, he may not, of course. But you don't mean to undertake this alone?"

"Yes, because there's something else I want you to be doing at the same time. I suggest your waiting with the car to pick up de Bertincourt outside the Porte d'Orleans, and trail him discreetly. If he doesn't intend to carry out the instructions, it's devilish important to know what he does do."

Tommy took a meditative pull before answering.

"I can't say I'm exactly mandlin with enthusiasm over this plan of yours," he declared bluntly. "I should very much doubt if either of us netted the fish we're after, and you, for one, stand a good chance of getting a bullet between your ribs. A surprise raid on the Lepin establishment would serve us far better."

"I daresay, but if we haven't the least clue to its whereabouts? Today's experience hasn't been altogether cheering."

"No," agreed Tommy slowly. "But I'm thinking about that railway ticket. Where in hell is Nogent-le-Roi? I ought to know. Wait, let me find it." After a brief search, he gave a disgusted cry. "Lord, I'm a prize donkey! Look at this, will you?" He pointed to the dot marked "Nogent-le-Roi," situated a little to the north and west of Rambouillet. "Here, here is our hunting ground. Why did we waste all the precious afternoon scouting round the opposite side of Paris? Didn't I say at the time that Yetta was trying to throw dust in our eyes? Nogent's her station; she and Pietro are hiding in that neighborhood, conveniently close to the place where the ransom is to be hidden."

He jumped as the telephone at his elbow broke into a violent clamor.

Tommy engaged in a conversation so rapid and rich in the vernacular that Charnwood was scarcely able to catch one word in few.

"It's you? Listen—I've only a moment. A second letter has just come. I will read you what it says. Can you hear me?"

"Yes, yes. Go on!"

"It is very short: 'Madame—we have reason to know that you are being indiscreet. From now on till your daughter returns you are forbidden to leave the house or to receive any visitor whatsoever. Disobey this order and the prisoner in our keeping will reap punishment in the shape of a serious disfigurement. We mean this, every word.' That is all. Like the other, it was posted at the central office, rue de Rivoli." Her voice shook.

Rage swept over Charnwood. Was this vile threat de Bertincourt's doing?

"Iris, tell me—is the writing the same?"

"I think so—I've hardly had time to think. It——"

"Who besides yourself has seen it?"

"No one but——" She ceased abruptly.

"But whom? Iris! Answer me! Who has seen it?"

A singing over the wire told him the connection had been severed.

Whether the telephone was at fault or whether the speaker had taken fright from some interruption Charnwood could not tell. Shaken with anger and apprehension he repeated to his friend what Iris had said.

"What incredible cruelty! Now, at the eleventh hour, to turn her into a prisoner and make her imagine every sort of horror! And for what purpose? Is it to prevent her seeing me?"

"Either that or a trap to catch her communicating with you, in order to find out if you are still about."

Charnwood, struck by the suggestion, wondered uneasily as to the cause of the sudden breaking off. The vision of her augmented distress tortured him.

"Damn this theory of ours, Tommy!" he cried abruptly. "If de Bertincourt is responsible he must be a monster, and I can't believe him that. I've studied his attitude toward his wife, and it's simply impossible to credit him with such vileness."

"Don't forget he has attempted murder," Tommy reminded him.

"I'm not even sure of that. We may be making a ghastly mistake."

"Mistake be blowed. Have your gun ready. There may be a fresh attack waiting for you. Alone in those woods at night you won't have a dog's chance against criminals who have to choose between your life and a long term of imprisonment."

Charnwood said nothing, but when Tommy had retired into the bedroom he took out the revolver which had served him in the trenches, oiled it carefully, and loaded it.

He turned in early, but got little sleep. The idea that the unseen peril overshadowing Clare might be real kept him from closing his eyes, and he had only just sunk into restless dreams when a vicious alarm pealed forth.

Seven o'clock saw them speeding along clean boulevards towards the Porte d'Orleans. They threaded the sordid streets of Montrouge, passed tenements and factories, and debouched into brown fields and patches of sparse woodland over which a pale sun shone.

Presently in a town full of market bustle they drew up before an unassuming tavern surrounded by a garden, and were rapturously hailed by the potbellied host, whose own hands set before them coffee, rolls, and oeufs sur le plat. Soon the whole personnel of the establishment grouped round to watch them eat, and Tommy engaged in a conversation so rapid and so rich in the vernacular that Charnwood was scarcely able to catch one word in ten. Not until they were back in the car, the inner man well fortified, did the disclosures obtained come out in plain English.

"That oldest waiter told me what I wanted to know," said Tommy, searching for the Rambouillet road. "De Bertincourt is a favored client, his habits well known. As a rule he dines discriminately and drinks little, but on Tuesday of last week he ate hardly anything, consumed three double Manhattan cocktails, the major portion of a bottle of champagne, and brandy after brandy, smoking incessantly and evidently agitated. The lady with him—it was certainly Helen Roderick—tried to calm him, but he talked on wildly and with a violence so unusual that François mentioned it to the patron. Once he heard de Bertincourt say, 'She hates me like poison, and I can't blame her. But I swear to you I would do anything in my power to be given another chance!'"

"He actually said that?" exclaimed Charnwood, transfixed.

"He did. But wait! Later on—François thinks about 11:30—a man called by in a car, which he left some distance from the gate, and asked for de Bertincourt, who got up quickly and went into the garden. He was gone about three minutes, then came back, surprisingly quiet and collected after all he'd drunk, paid the bill, and took his companion away."

"Did he offer any explanation?"

"François couldn't say. But he caught sight of the stranger who called. He says he was tall, clean shaven, and wore a shabby fawn raincoat and a beret."

"That doesn't quite tally with Iris's description of the messenger, Lepin or otherwise. He had no raincoat, and wore a wide brimmed hat."

"Yes, when she saw him, but the man in the Renault as described by the Webers' chauffeur, had on a beret, didn't he? It suggests a quick and easy change. My idea is that de Bertincourt left Paris that night to establish an alibi, but chose a place along the route the kidnapers would follow so that they could stop by and apprise him of results. When you think how the whole scheme must have hung by a hair it's not hard to understand his nervousness. Until he heard that the girl had been safely collared he was probably going through hell."

Weather Favors Horse Show at Country Club

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

[Results of contests on page 28.]

The 22d annual horse show of the South Shore Country club got off to a good start last evening with an opening performance blessed by good weather and a larger attendance than it has had in years. The show opened with a fanfare of bugles just at dusk, when the gray sky and lake in the background of the ring began to deepen into a sapphire blue. The boxes on three sides of the tiny tanbark ring were filled, mostly with women, and the rail and bleachers on the east side of the arena were lined with male spectators. The women observed no set rule in their attire. Some were hatless and in evening dress and others were in sports clothes. Almost every one, however, remembering other years when rain and chill winds spoiled the opening night, carried or wore a warm wrap or jacket.

The dinner which preceded the show was the first of many sociabilities which will enhance it all week until the closing horse show ball on Saturday night. Food was served from buffets in both dining rooms, while a style show progressed in the lounge. There was dancing after the show.

Among the dinner hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Freund, who had 21 guests; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown, whose party numbered 18; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McCoy, who were hosts to 10 people, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKee.

Joseph E. Hitt, chairman of the show, and Mrs. Hitt were hosts to Col. and Mrs. A. C. Gillem, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Donahue, and Mrs. Jennie F. Gillem of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wilsons' box guests were Mrs. A. E. Foss, Edward Foss Wilson, and George Harcour of London, England.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Groverman Ellis had as their guests Mrs. L. O. Starbuck of Augusta, Mich.; Mrs. C. F. Tenny of New York, Mrs. W. Brock Fuller, and Miss M. S. Kearns of Hove, Brighton, England, who came to this country to judge the Morris Essex Irish wolfhound show held last week in Madison, N. J.

Arthur G. Leonard's guests included Mrs. John Clay, Miss Louise Gillanders, Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard Jr., and Kenneth Gillanders. Mrs. A. C. Thompson, who exhibits and rides annually in the show, was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. William Hanley, Bert Laudermilk, and Miss Dorothy Clausen. Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Stevens, the latter in a printed chiffon gown and a wide brimmed brown horsehair hat, were hosts to Mrs. Julius Butler, in a cream lace dress and leghorn hat, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stiger Jr.

Mrs. Harry J. Burkhart, who brought her horses from St. Louis for the show, was hostess in her box to Miss Norma Engel, Miss Ellen Jennings, and Mrs. O. E. Jennings, all of St. Louis, and Mrs. Caroline Drew of Fayette, Mo. Mrs. W. P. Roth of San Francisco, Cal., another out of town exhibitor, had Mrs. Marvin Summers and Harland Judkins of New York as her box guests.

Other box hosts included Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Alcorn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Sheehy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. North, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Alexander, exhibitors from Bloomington, Ill.

Mrs. Malcolm Anderson, chairman of the women's committee, and Mrs. Henry Conkey, an active member of the committee, were too busy with their social responsibilities to entertain parties of their own, and occupied the Conkey box only at intervals. Mrs. Anderson wore a printed chiffon gown and wine colored velvet wrap, and Mrs. Conkey was in a black and white gown and black wrap.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Desires Bathing Suit.

"I have been out of work for over eight months and am only able to get two days' work a week now. It takes all my earnings to pay rent and to buy food. Do you think it possible that one of your readers has a man's bathing suit to give away? I wear size 33 waist measure. I need a pair of shoes, size 10, also. L. D."

Perhaps you took last year's bathing suit from the trunk and decided it wouldn't do this summer. If so, here's an applicant for it who would get much enjoyment out of it.

Middle Aged Woman Finds It Difficult to Adopt Modernism

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's true, isn't it, as "Mrs. F. M." remarks, that it is the mature woman, not the young ones today, upon whom falls the greater difficulty of adjusting the age long relation between men and women? Nature provides that the young shall keep on believing and loving and choosing, according to the age old way of youth.

But the older woman is up against a marriage situation that has had no parallel in history. "Mrs. F. M." is speaking of the complete laxity about marriage duties; of the easy divorce grabbing that is going on. The generation that married twenty or twenty-five years ago started out believing that it would be married for life.

"But," says Mrs. F. M., "look around in this group, now, and note the thousands of broken homes.

"Yes," she continues, "we've had the hardest rôle of all. We were born just a little too late to be modern, yet modernism has been thrust upon us, nevertheless. When I married the thought of a divorce was horrible. It would have meant social ostracism. But here I am looking on at many, many wives of my generation who have not been equal to the changed attitude toward marriage as a sacrament and a sacred duty—and it's all most disconcerting, no matter how up to date and broad minded we try to be.

"Let's hope," she adds, "that the future will bring about a better deal for women who take life seriously, who have ideals about married companionship and family life. In my own case, this includes enjoyment and pleasure, together with duty and thrift.

"Somewhere I have fallen down, or my mate would not have sought happiness with another. With my old fashioned ideas I cannot adjust myself to the generosity of spirit necessary to recognise this modern need of another woman in his life. He's good to me. He professes to love me—but I am not quite enough, according to those modern precepts that we older women are not well qualified to adopt. I'll stick, of course, as he wants me to. But I do insist that the women of my generation are hard put to understand the ways of the current world."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Difference in Ages.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 24 and go with a girl who is 17. Do you think she is too young for me?

"FRANK."

Yes, because at your age a young man is quite settled in his ways and tastes. A girl of 17 is just commencing to have good times and she wants the attentions of different boys that she may feel the enjoyment of popularity.

Stop Listening!

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a girl who continually tells me about other fellows she likes and goes out with. She will not go out with me, but tells me about the others in a jesting way.

"WONDERING."

If she refuses to go out with you, why listen to her experiences with others? They can't be interesting to you, Wondering.

FARM and GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

IMPROVING FARMSTEADS.

Those who have had occasion to drive through the scenic rural spots of Indiana cannot help but have noted the renewed interest in improving the home grounds of many farms and small towns. Purdue university, through its landscape gardening specialist, Prof. H. B. Hull, seems to be the cause of it all, having enrolled 5,000 Hoosier families in a home improvement project.

In fifteen different counties, through the cooperation of farm bureaus, home economics clubs, and other organizations, home owners have been organized and given suggestions in improving their home grounds. Much of this takes the form of classes in landscaping, with each "pupil" drawing a plan of his home ground and landscaping it.

Prof. Hull reports a great deal of activity over the state in yard and garden contests, school ground improvement, and street planting. A number of flower shows are being planned for different communities this year as a result of an increased interest in flower growing.

Kentland, in Newton county, has a street planting program which is cited by Prof. Hull as outstanding, with new tree plantings and parking of several street intersections, and a yard and garden contest. In Columbia City the telephone company has started removing pole lines and putting the wires in underground conduits, adding materially to the appearance of the city.

The state highway commission has planted vining honeysuckle on bare banks where cuts have been made, and has made extensive grass seedings along roadsides in southern Indiana.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Pell gave a luncheon in the Japanese garden of the Ritz-Carlton for Mrs. Livingston French, Mrs. Gustave J. S. White and Mrs. Donald O. MacRae.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Billings and Miss Pauline Billings will give a dinner on June 23 for Miss Rhoda Walker and John French Jr., whose marriage is to take place on the following day.

Mrs. W. Lanman Bull has left for her country residence at Bennington, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ryle have taken up residence in their house at Locust Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fits Hugh Whitehouse and William F. Whitehouse III, have come down from Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright Harriman are at Briarcliff lodge for the summer.

To Remove Your Makeup

A little Calonite powder sprinkled on a hot, wet cloth and rubbed gently over the face each night removes the day's accumulation of makeup, cleanses the pores of all dust and dirt, prevents blackheads, corrects shiny nose and oily skin. Calonite powder does for the skin what nothing else can do—simply dissolves away all skin pore accumulations. You'll simply be delighted with the results. Try it tonight. Calonite powder can be obtained at any toilet goods counter.

Arts, Letters Plan Sports in Wisconsin

BY THALIA

THE CLIFF DWELLERS, whose occasional sociabilities are of that order of events known as GOOD parties, are anticipating a nice one for a week from Saturday. The affair is to be a barbecue, and the locale is the Garnett W. Mc-Roberts place at Lake Geneva.

The program and the possibilities of a repetition of the "movie" that was filmed and shot in the dunes last year above this time have not been divulged. Most of the north shore Cliff Dwellers will motor to the lake in their own cars, and two comfortable buses are to be provided for the town members. The buses will leave the club downtown at about 9 o'clock in the morning and will arrive at the lake in ample time for a long session of outdoor diversions.

Indians to Help Celebrate Discovery of Lake Geneva.

It is an engaging vision to contemplate that of Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, the Kellogg Fairbanks, the Rodnel Carpenters, the Henry Hollingsworths, the Phillip and the Wil-liam Wrigleys, the Martin Ryersons and all the rest of the Lake Geneva summer colony done out in feathers and paint and going into a pow-wow to celebrate fittingly the 100th anniversary of the discovery of the lake. But it is not to be. A band of 50 Indians, including Chief Waubansee, is to be imported from Aurora, Wis., to provide the atmospheric touch for the historical pageant which will mark the arrival of the Kinzie party from Chicago in 1831, and their discovery of the lake, then known as Big Foot lake, and the Pottawatamie Indian village in Fontana will be de-serted.

The celebration will be a 2 day affair, the 26th and 27th of this month, and will be started off with a parade by Gen. Philip LaFollette on Friday afternoon. In the evening all the illuminated sailing craft will parade on the lake.

Nobody is surprised if you hear some of the Cliffites refer to Mrs. Charles Gates as Doctor Swift or "Doc" Gates. She sang some new music added to the University of South-ern California by Liebling last Fri-day at the university, and on Satur-day at the institution conferred on her the degree of Doctor of Music. She arrived in Chicago yesterday after her concert trip.

Lake Forest Leaves in the Berkshire Hills.

Addition to the Berkshires—Mr. and Mrs. Eleanor Coonley gave a pic-nic supper at the Coonley place, Lake Forest, at Great Barrington a few evenings ago for Edward Brewster Jr. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Holloway gave a dinner party, followed by dancing, at the Berkshire Hunt and Country club in Lenox for Miss Ruth Holloway and John Holloway on Monday eve-ning . . . Will D. Walker is visiting friends, the James Ransom Walk-ers at Fair Acres in Stockbridge . . . Mrs. Alan Buckingham has arrived at her home at Lenox for the summer . . . Mrs. Thomas S. McClelland of Philadelphia, the automobile heiress, has engaged an apartment at Heaton Hall in Stock-bridge for the season . . . the George A. Moores of Highland Park are to be at the Greylock hotel in Wil-liamstown on Friday, and Mr. Mason is to attend the 60th reunion of his class at Williams college . . . the last club ball is to have a series of 3 subscription dances on July 5, Sept. 5, and Sept. 10th, and Mrs. John H. P. Scott is on a special committee for the series.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gallienne, who lived in Chicago several years ago while Mr. Gallienne was British vice consul, will be going through Chicago in a week or so on their way to Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. Gallienne's next post, from last fall, when they de-parted from San Domingo after har-rowing experiences during the hurri-cane, they have been having a much needed leave in London. They are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massey while they're here.

Parents Going East for Reunions at the Colleges.

Quite a bit—Among the numer-ous summer and papas going east to see their sons and daughters graduated from their respective col-leges and schools this week are Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, whose daughter, Katherine, is to receive her degree at Smith. Their younger daughter, Ann, is one of the two jun-iors chosen to be leaders of the ivy next year . . . Rhea Munroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munroe, whose marriage to Charles Deering Jr. is to take place on Saturday afternoon, is having lots of pre-nuptial fun for her this week, con-sisting of the rehearsal and a din-ner for the bridal party that Mr. and Mrs. Munroe are to give on Fri-day night . . . Mrs. F. T. A. Hamlin is motoring to Chicago from Washington, D. C., where she has been for April and May, and will be at the apartment in the Drake Towers until shortly before she sails for Eu-rope on July 18. Miss Rosalie Holly-wood of Baltimore accompanies her . . .

Mr. George A. Ranney Jr. is one of the three Yale men elect-ed to the 1934 editorial board of the Yale News . . . Mrs. Fred-erick L. Morton is to give a tea this week at the Yacht club at Bel-vedere for Mrs. Samuel Dauchy 3d, president of the occupational therapy committee of the Chicago women's club, of which Mrs. Dauchy is a member . . . the Orville E. Zimmermans have leased the George Wat-son "Pinehurst" house, Casa de Mari-posa, at Santa Barbara, and will go there for the latter part of this month for the first of next to remain until fall.

Only 150 of Indiana G.A.R. at the State Encampment

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 9.—"As long as there are veterans left there will be encampments," so declared Gen. Theodore Jewel, national com-mander of the Grand Army of the Re-public, at the 63d annual Indiana de-partment encampment here. Only 150 Civil war veterans were able to attend the encampment. Gov. Harry E. Les-ter and Senator James E. Watson will be in the reviewing stand for the pa-rade tomorrow. F. M. McNair of Terre Haute has been mentioned as a candidate to succeed James Kilmar-tin of Princeton as state commander.

Michigan to Pick Cherry Queen from Among Its 14 Beauties

Traverse City, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—Fourteen northern Michigan communities will compete tomorrow night for the honor of furnishing the queen of the national cherry festival here June 15, 16, and 17. The queen will be chosen from among 14 beauties on the stage of a local theater.

For weeks, communities within a radius of 75 miles of Traverse City have been holding beauty contests. It is estimated 150 girls competed. The 14 finalists include school teachers, university graduates, students and working girls.

Enthusiasm for some of the candi-dates is running so high that local delegations have planned to accom-pany them to Traverse City with bands. Northport is so strongly be-hind its high school teacher candi-date, Miss Clare Ozanne, that it is sending a 60 piece high school band, and an American Legion bugle corps as her escort.

KING GEORGE LIKES PAINTINGS, SUBJECTS WHICH HE CAN NAME

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—King George does not like "jazzy art." He said so today when he went with the queen and his sister, Princess Victo-ria, to visit the London exhibition of paintings of Prince Nicholas of Greece, whose art isn't "jazzy."

Anyway, the king had no difficulty recognizing a painting of the Place de la Concorde, Paris, for what it was and remarked that he had often driv-en there. He finally bought a picture of the Trocadero bridge in Paris.

The queen bought a still life.

Saxaphone Holds Own Despite Trade Depression

"Although the sale of all musical instruments has decreased somewhat because of the depression, the saxo-phone is holding its own. That was the opinion expressed yesterday by Delbert L. Loomis of New York, sec-retary, at an open forum of the Na-tional Association of Music Merchants. The organization was one of several attending the music industries con-vention at the Palmer house.

"The piano accordion is the instru-ment that has increased most in popu-larity," Mr. Loomis added. "It has become a great fad everywhere."

Mr. Loomis said the advent of the radio has helped the musical instru-ment business.

Complete Wardrobe in Single Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Assembling her vacation wardrobe is a task that draws new lines in the brow of the busy business girl. What to take and what to leave at home, how to get everything going together and how to get the time to get it together, anyhow, are knotty points that keep her brain working after business hours.

Or maybe you are not a business girl and your problem is one of pocketbook and packing. In any case, Fauvety has stepped into the breach with an ensemble that is a whole vacation wardrobe in itself.

Our artist has sketched it for you today. Let's start at the outside layer that is shown in the lower left hand corner. There's a double breasted jacket of royal blue slicker cloth, ab-solutely rainproof, that is fastened by two smoked pearl buttons and a royal blue slicker cloth belt. The skirt is in one of Rodier's new fine white silk and wool fabrics. Its side plaits are stitched nearly to the knees and it buttons up the left side with white pearl buttons.

Take off that jacket and you find a blouse of the fine white silk and wool trimmed with an imitation sailor collar and bow done right in the blouse in double hemstitching. This blouse buttons up under the arm with smaller pearl buttons.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Made a Hurried Exit.

It is not unusual for me to feel drowsy and finally fall asleep while riding the "L" home from work, as I am accompanied by my fiancé and find his shoulder a comfortable resting place for my heavy head. The other evening, however, I had to work late and therefore came home alone. Nevertheless, I felt drowsy and fell asleep. Imagine my embarrassment when, in a few moments, I awoke and found my head resting comfortably on a strange gentleman's shoulder. If I only could have done the vanish-ing act! However, I did the next thing, and that was to make a hurried exit. H. K.

Skin Beauty Can Be Acquired

A skin of petal-smoothness, flawless and beautiful for you by using pure Mercolised Wax. Put it on your face, neck and arms each night before re-tiring. Mercolised Wax gently absorbs the thin outer skin removing such de-fects as freckles, sallowness, black-heads or dry, flaky skin. It brings the under skin into view, exquisitely fine and smooth, glowing radiantly with health and youth. Mercolised Wax brings out the hidden beauty. Powdered Saxolite reduces wrinkles and other age signs. Simply dissolve 1 ounce Pow-dered Saxolite in 1 half pint witch hazel, and use daily as a face lotion.

Wife of Envoy Sponsors Group at British Court

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—The third court of the season was held tonight in Buckingham palace. Mrs. Dawes, wife of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who is on vacation in the United States, presented to their majesties eight American women, of whom only two were debutantes.

They are Miss Barbara Childs of Norfolk, Conn., and Miss Helena Mc-Cann of New York City, who received a royal command to attend the first court, but were unable to on account of illness.

The others were Mrs. Lester Grant of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Frederick Whi-ley Hillies of New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Henry Aymes Lehr of Philadelphia; Mrs. C. R. St. Aubyns, San Francisco; Mrs. Charles van Vleck Jr., New York City, and Mrs. George Mesta, Wash-ington, D. C.

Mrs. Dawes, whose wardrobe of court gowns is beginning to reach appreciable dimensions, made her presentation in a most becoming gown of green and silver brocade with train to match. She carried a green feather fan.

Miss Barbara Childs wore an all white ensemble. The gown was white tulle and the train was of the same material. Her slippers, evening cloak, and feather fan were all white, em-phasizing her brunette beauty.

Mrs. Lester Grant is a member of a mining family of that name and her husband is the son of the late govern-or of Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Grant for 17 years were residents of Santia-go, Chile.

Few people wore a more gorgeous display of jewels than Mrs. Lehr. Her crown of diamonds was a creation of Cartier, an exact copy of the crown worn by the Empress Josephine. She also wore a chain of diamonds which hung to her waist, ending in two jewel tassels. On her arms were diamond bracelets.

The home of Mrs. St. Aubyns is in San Francisco, but she spends most of her time between New York and London.

Mrs. Charles van Vleck Jr. is one of the more recent American hostesses in London and her parties have al-ways been original and memorable. She was formerly Miss Natalie Johns-son of New York City.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Alice Colby Judson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh Judson of Evanston, to Gordon Canning of Hubbard Woods was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock last night at the First Baptist church of Evanston. The ceremony was fol-lowed by a small reception at the Evanston Country club.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with rose pointed lace and a veil of tulle that fell from a cape of the same lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The bride's sister, Mrs. Kingsley Loring Rice, attended her as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. Don-ald Rogers, and Mrs. Roland Wehr. Janet Ingram was flower girl. Kings-ley Loring Rice was best man for the groom. Mr. Canning and his bride will reside in Evanston on their re-turn from a wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Goldberg of 4420 Ellis avenue announce the approach-ing marriage of their daughter, Sally, to Dr. Ben Z. Rappaport, to take place on June 28. Miss Goldberg is a graduate of the University of Chicago. Dr. Rappaport is a graduate of North-western and of the University of Illi-nois. He is now in charge of the hay fever and asthma clinic at the Uni-versity of Illinois.

Solve Behavior Woes by Preventing Them, Says a Wise Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Destructiveness, "getting into" everything, are utterly unnecessary misbehavior on the part of little chil-dren, if their mother knows what she is about.

The sense of touch must be satis-fied, new muscles exercised, and the constant "Don't touch" and slapped hands are not the answer to these needs. In case you don't know how, just see how it can be done when you do.

"I want to thank you for your nice letter in reply to mine about teaching my baby girl to be careful of books and also for the honor of publishing it in your column. I am so glad that you considered it worthy of passing on to other mothers.

"Sometimes when I see small chil-dren tearing everything in sight I think that my child must have been born a 'model' (in this respect, at least), but then I realise that most of our difficulties are solved by preven-tion.

"Jane is a year and nine months now and growing more interesting every day. She plays on the kitchen floor while I do the dishes, and I love to observe her. Usually all my pots and pans begin to clamor, the con-tents of the wastebasket are strewn all over, and presently she discovers the ice cream freezer and tries to imi-tate daddy in assembling the parts.

"I watch her out of the corner of my eye without saying a word to break her complete absorption. Then, when the dishes are done, we 'put things back.' She knows that papers belong in the basket, bits of toast, etc., in the garbage pail by the sink, and 'back' means putting everything where she found it.

"I have seen her play with things for half an hour, at least, and then restore them to the exact corner of the house in which they belong—rub-bers in the closet, her clothes in the drawer, her toys in a big box in the hall, where she has to open a door, put them in and close the door. I am often tempted to ask her to put things back just for the secret fun of seeing her do it and watching how she remembers. She is a little dear."

W. C. T. U. Wants Own Newspaper in New York

TORONTO, Ont., June 9.—(AP)—A resolution urging the publication of a newspaper in New York supporting prohibition was adopted at the closing session of the Woman's Christian Temperance union today. The resolu-tion urged the publication of "a daily newspaper of high standards and large circulation which will represent lofty ideals and noble purposes and support civic righteousness."

Bright Sayings of the Children

I found Ann sitting in a little chair in the garden before a clump of bleeding hearts and asked her what she was doing.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S FROCK.

The neckline of this pretty frock slopes to meet the upward line of the front of the bodice in an adorable manner. The bodice slopes down to the waistline at the underarms, and is straight across the bottom in the back. To this the gathered skirt is sewed, the armholes are faced or bound, and the bow is tacked in place. If a printed material is used, it will be pretty to use a plain color for an attached hem at the bottom of the skirt. Pink and white gingham with plain pink is lovely, or French blue dotted swiss with white organdy might be used.

The pattern, 3113, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. Size 8 requires 1⅝ yards of 35 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Hair Styles Take on Individuality and Glorify Every Type

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I noted a fascinating hair style on a tall blond, who was wearing an ex-tremely plain black chiffon evening frock, the other night at the theater. Her hair had just a glint of gold in it and her neck was one of those swanlike things that earn poets so many tributes. One side of the hair in front was done down in a flat-over-the-ear, conventional loose marcel wave or two. The other side, about temple height, began to take on the shape of a regular nursery curl, the curl blossoming full bloom just below the jaw bone. The hair was perfectly flat on top and parted well over on one side.

The back was just a simple bobbed-haired back, lower by an inch, per-haps, than last year's bobbed back hairs. That curl on the particular type of girl gave just the one soft touch necessary to a plain chiffon frock. The dress was sophisticated in its décolletté and in its plainness. The fetching curl did just what was neces-sary.

There was something about it quite reminiscent, too, of the old fashioned single shoulder length curl that you may find pictured in the family album. Only it was more a sub-deb child in length.

The flat dressing on top and the whole arrangement gave a stunning outline of the head proper. And that is the nicest thing you can do for your head, these days, if you have a well shaped cranium. Don't drown it under a mop of hair, or a shapelessly arranged coiff.

A certain gray haired woman of my acquaintance came out from under the hands of a real coiffure artist the other day minus the "queue" she'd been struggling for the last six months to raise. This hair-arranging artist said to her: "Why do women like you let your hair grow? You have a beautifully shaped head, yet you don't seem proud of it."

The woman protested that she was letting her hair grow because every one else was doing it. And the man said, "Do you wear what every one else wears in clothes? Do you do what every one else does?" Then why let the mob dictate?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Spe-cial.]—Mrs. Hoover had as her lunch-eon guests today Miss Carrie Wiley of New York and her brother, Louis Wiley.

Secretary Mellon was in Canton, N. Y., yesterday with his brother, Richard Mellon. They both received degrees at St. Lawrence university. Secretary Mellon is in New York today and will sail tomorrow for England to see his son, Paul, graduate from Cambridge university. They then will go to visit the secretary's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, at the place they have taken on the Riviera for the summer.

The Polish ambassador, Tytus Filipowicz, gave a luncheon today preced-ing the ceremony of the presentation to Henry Cabot Lodge II., grandson of the late senator from Massachusetts, of the Cross of Chevalier of the Order of Polonia Restituta, given in recogni-tion of his services in promoting friend-ship between Poland and this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Belknap of Chicago are spending this week at the Mayflower. They will sail the first of July for Europe and will spend the remainder of the summer at Karlsbad.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Bunting and the latter's mother, Mrs. M. E. Van Asmus of Lake Forest, Ill., are at the Mayflower this week en route to Virginia Beach for the summer.

MUSSOLINI SAYS HE'S SORRY, BUT ACCUSES VATICAN

Charges Pope Violated Lateran Treaty.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 9.—The Italian government's reply to the two notes and a memorandum which the Vatican sent protesting against alleged Fascist insults and acts of violence against the Catholic church, was delivered today to Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, by Count de Vecchi, Italian ambassador to the holy see.

COUNT DE VECCHI. [Acme Photo.]

The note which is described in official quarters as conciliatory, is outstanding in importance because it inaugurates a new phase of the official negotiations and is believed to have eliminated the danger of a rupture of relations. Although it is expected that the Vatican will reply with another note to some of the statements made in the Italian document, it is believed that negotiations will now be continued without a break.

Gives Italy's Version.

The Italian note begins by giving the Italian version of the alleged political anti-Fascist activities of the Catholic Action society and the violences which occurred in Rome and elsewhere. This version in some particulars flatly contradicts the Vatican, which the note accuses of considerably exaggerating the importance of some minor incidents.

While proffering no formal apology, which the Vatican demanded, the Italian government expresses regret at the incidents, which, it says, were caused by the Fascist reaction to news that Catholic Action was plotting against the Fascist regime. The police, the note adds, are carefully investigating all those events, and any one proved to have fomented or led them will be severely punished. The government, however, adds that no responsibility attaches to it for these violent incidents, as all possible measures were taken to prevent them.

Makes Two New Protests.

Having thus dealt with the Vatican protest, the Italian government then proceeds to make two protests of its own. One is against the alleged political anti-Fascist activity of Catholic Action. It says that by allowing some parts of Catholic Action to develop in a way which tended to permit church authorities to exercise an illicit influence on internal Italian politics the Vatican was guilty of a violation of Article 43 of the Italo-Vatican concordat. Upon the Vatican, therefore, devolves the responsibility for everything that followed.

Second—The Italian notes protests against the Vatican's efforts to enlist the sympathy of the whole world in its cause, charging that this can be interpreted as an attempt to induce some foreign power to intervene in what quite plainly must remain purely a bilateral controversy between the holy see and the Italian government. This is considered a reference to the pope's almost daily speeches, in which he referred to the tribulation which afflicted him.

See Hope for Peace.

The Italian note, while not giving the Vatican the formal apology which it had peremptorily demanded, expresses regret for the event which followed the Fascist denunciation of the political activities of Catholic Action, and it is believed that the Vatican will rest content with this. In any case, since the Vatican hitherto has refused to undertake any official negotiations until its demand for an apology and reparations had been granted, it is believed in Italian quarters that this request has been complied with sufficiently to permit an official contact between the two sides.

According to the Italian view, the note has served, if nothing else, to clarify the situation. It has started negotiations going again and brought the two sides closer together for discussions of actual fact. However, the Vatican's answer, if any, is not expected for some time. The pope, it is explained, is strongly attached to Catholic Action, since he appreciates its important work in preparing priests for the ecclesiastical life, and any one who proposes to induce him willingly to agree to a curtailment of its activities and privileges is undertaking an extremely difficult task.

HOARDING IS CAUSE OF SLUMP: KAVANAGH; HE HAS A REMEDY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—The hoarding of wealth was given as the cause of the country's depression by Judge Marcus Kavanagh of Chicago in an address to the graduates of Niagara university today.

Judge Kavanagh said there was more money in the country today than ever before and more food than the people can consume. Statistics show, he said, that in the savings banks of the country there are now ten billions of dollars, while a few years ago there were but three billions. The release of seven billions for distribution would relieve conditions, he claimed.

Millionaires who hoard their wealth were criticized by the jurist. He said he believed that no man at his death should have more than $1,000,000 for distribution. Anything over that should be placed in a governmental fund to be distributed for the relief of the needy and for economic purposes.

CATALONIA OPENS ASSEMBLY AFTER 400 YEAR LAPSE

46 Delegates Meet; Will Draft Constitution.

BARCELONA, Spain, June 9.—(AP)—The Catalonian general assembly held its first meeting in four centuries today, preparatory to drafting a proposed state constitution and outlining the province's desired relationship with the new Spanish republic.

Today's gathering was in the nature of a celebration and the newly elected body will get down to actual work tomorrow. After completion of the political statute, which is expected to attempt to realize the desire of many Catalonians for a sovereign state within the Spanish republic, is completed, a referendum vote will be held. The constitution draft will then be placed before the forthcoming national constitutent assembly for approval.

Pleads for Spanish Unity.

Serra Clara, a lawyer and friend of the Catalonian provisional president, Col. Francisco Macia, presided over today's session as the oldest provincial deputy, pending election of officers. He asked the other 45 delegates to preserve the cordiality of relations between Catalonia and the remainder of Spain.

"The principal work of our assembly is to restore Catalonia's rightful freedom, of which she has been robbed for a long time," he declared.

Today was the first time the Catalonian assembly has met since the free feudal state was taken over by the Spanish monarchy.

Seven persons were wounded, five seriously, in a clash between radical syndicalists and socialist workers at a lumber mill on the outskirts of Barcelona today. The trouble was said to have started when a band of about 50 radicals tried to stop socialists from resuming work after a strike. Shots were fired on both sides and police were called to restore order.

Building Strike Wanes.

MADRID, June 9.—(AP)—A strike of building construction workers at Bilbao apparently was ending today as many of those who walked out yesterday returned to their jobs and police guards were reduced. The body of a striker, fatally shot in a skirmish with police, was buried secretly to prevent any demonstration.

Authorities in the town of Solana were searching for members of a mob which last night hanged the monarchist Mayor Fernando Petardo, after he refused to turn over his office to a successor.

The peseta showed a further decline during the day, actual transactions being negotiated at 10.58 to the dollar.

Maj. Ramon Franco, noted Spanish flyer, today urged President Alcala Zamora not to reduce the aviation budget, saying that Spain needed an increase in air forces for national defense.

DIES FROM FALL INJURIES.

Nils Cederberg, 75 years old, 744 Belmont avenue, died yesterday of internal injuries received on Tuesday when he fell from a stepladder.

SPORTS CONGRESS TO OFFER UNIQUE PAGEANT

MASS DRILLS, GAMES TO MARK EVENT JUNE 21

Thousands to Take Part in Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Chicagoland Sports Congress, which will be held Sunday afternoon, June 21, at Soldiers' field, offers a unique pageant of mass athletics and games. For the first time all sports, teams, and organizations which place mass athletics will unite on one field in demonstration of their value to exercise and health.

America thinks of itself as a nation of athletes, yet its adult citizens do not participate in games which permit a maximum of exercise. After the ancient age has passed Americans grow to watch others engage in sports rather than compete.

Health, Beauty of Athletics.

The Chicagoland Sports Congress will put thousands of participants will demonstrate the rhythm and beauty of mass games and athletics.

Every believe in Chicago have so many hundred men and women and children arranged to compete on one vast field exhibitions which for years have engaged in gymnastic drills and parades of skill will pass in review at Soldiers' field. Racial pride and esprit de corps demand their best.

Germans as many more Czechoslovaks will combine forces under the banners of the Sports Congress sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Four Hour Program.

Italians, Norwegians, Swedes, all the nationalities have their place in the four hour program June 21.

By the time that the thousands of athletes begin marching down from the north end of Soldiers' field until four hours later, when all assemble on the parade ground between the concrete stands, there will be no dull minutes. The variety of contestants, the very mass of participants is reason enough for a thrilling such a performance.

Germans annually celebrate German day. It is to honor their outstanding leaders in history and to celebrate German culture and physical prowess. The Sokols of the Czechoslovaks will hold their annual demonstration Sunday. The Poles already have participated in their midwestern meet at St. Louis. Swedish and Norwegian communities know of their athletic supremacy on apparatus and mat.

Revival of Tournaments.

Not all these are united. Magnificent as their group efforts undoubtedly are, the danger of all leaves no question of performance.

Chicagoland's Sports Congress is a sports revival. It will be a revival of thousands. And in it will be hundreds of gymnasts, runners, fencers, divers. Even the children—hundreds of them—will have a share when for the minutes they play the games of the parks.

There will be a sports pageant, flashing all forms of athletic endeavor, presented by the Germans. There will spin through the air on horizontal bars. Others will perform

Royal Julian Too Fast for JimmyMoran

BY FRENCH LANE.

Royal Julian, quite a handicap horse in his day, gave Jimmy Moran, owned by Mose Goldblatt, the laugh as the Morrison Hotel handicap at a mile and a furlong ended at Washington Park yesterday.

EUGENE JAMES.

In fact, Royal Julian must have laughed until his sides hurt him all down the stretch, for Jimmy Moran had been made the even money favorite. Royal Julian's old followers deserted him. Along came the run in the stretch and Royal Julian was showing Jimmy Moran the way by five lengths. He passed the line of finish six lengths in front. Jimmy Moran was just able to beat Nostaw out of second money. One almost expected to hear Royal Julian start humming:

"No one knows
Where the money goes
When the favorite blows
Except Uncle Mose."

But Royal Julian was too much of a thoroughbred gentleman to do that, for the folks who had made Jimmy Moran the favorite didn't know the brisk wind sweeping over the Homewood course had dried it out so quickly.

Jimmy Moran never runs a good race except in the mud, and when Jimmy, after leading for three-quarters of a mile, discovered his favorite muddy footing was missing, he decided to slow up and take it easy. When he began to drop back Royal Julian came with one of his old time stretch rallies.

When the price was posted Royal Julian had his biggest laugh. So much support had gone to Jimmy Moran that Royal Julian paid off at better than 4 to 1. He was ridden by Jockey Eugene James.

There was quite an eastern cleanup when La Compere won the 2 year old race by a length and a half from Anita Ormont with Albert 'Sabath's Chicago filly, I Say, third.

La Compere, owned by Max Hirsch, arrived from New York only a few days ago in charge of Bub May, High Ball's old trainer—I mean the horse, High Ball. May slipped the daughter of Runantell into a $4,000 claiming race and she galloped in front for the entire route. Paid near 7 to 1. First real big killing the easterners have made here this season.

The Kentucky crowd was not to be outdone by the New Yorkers and backed Betty Derr in the Hyde Park purse, a six furlong dash, with great confidence. Betty, a star among the 2 year olds of her sex, last year did not fail them.

Kay Spencer didn't win a suburban handicap with Gallant Knight but the failure has not dampened his optimism. Right now he's thinking about the American Derby and victory with Knights Call.

Spence didn't say as much but another chap from the Audley farm stable is of the opinion that Knight's Call is about as good now as Gallant Knight was that July day of last year when he ran Gallant Fox to a nose in the classic. If that dope is true they're going to know that Knight's Call is in the chase for the 3 year old title very shortly.

What a horse Pittsburgher would be if he was as good as his trainer Jim Moody thinks he is. "We're going to take the Derby prize back to old Kentucky," he told a lot of his cronies from down in the blue grass country yesterday after he had let Pittsburgher engage in an easy exercise gallop. Pittsburgher does look finer'n split silk right now but he looked that way a few days before the Kentucky Derby was run.

Don't hear much about Insco. Even his staunchest backers can't be found whispering about him. Last year just before he won the Post and Paddock stakes and paid a hatful for every two dollars invested he had almost been forgotten.

CARNERA FIGHTS REDMOND TO SEE WHICH IS WORSE

Promoter Gives Tonight's Bout a Laugh.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Barring unforeseen developments, a noble experiment will be conducted at the home of the Brooklyn baseball club tomorrow evening when Patrick Redmond, an Irishman weighing 250 pounds, will enter the ring, or tank, as the case may be, to determine whether Primo Carnera is as bad a prize fighter as people think he is.

Some people think Primo cannot be as bad as they think he is, but there is a large left wing majority who insist that he is even worse. At any rate, it is apparent that a heavy burden of proof will rest on Mr. Redmond, and it seems possible that the event will have the scientific merit that it will discover new and hitherto unsuspected horizons of awfulness.

Theory May Be Proved.

The theory of the experiment is that if Primo does not put Patrick on the floor or in the water, as the case may be, within ten rounds, then the point will have been proved. Mr. Redmond was selected for the work in compliance with a court order which decreed that Primo must not fight any dangerous opponent prior to the fulfillment of an engagement to fight the winner of the impending Schmeling-Stribling bout under the auspices of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

The Garden corporation desires to match Carniera for the heavyweight championship of the world, and there was an uneasy feeling among the directors that they might be embarrassed in their business plans if their potential heavyweight champion should be interrupted in the meantime. Obedient to this decree, Mr. James J. Johnston, the promoter of the present experiment, made a diligent search for a pugilist having the peculiar qualifications which the situation required.

First Mr. Johnston thought of Big Boy Peterson, the young man with the rocking chair feet who tipped over within 30 seconds on the occasion of Primo's first American experiment.

Must Protect Primo.

"He seems reliable," Mr. Johnston said, "but I cannot take any chances. If he should make himself daingerous to Primo the honorable court might give him three months under glass for contempt of court. When you are under an obligation to protect the prestige of a potential heavyweight champion of the world you have to exercise the utmost care.

"I gave serious consideration to Diving Dan O'Dowd, also; but when I got into communication with his manager, Mr. Fat Meade, the first thing he said was, 'My Daniel will bat his ears off.' So I quickly hung up the receiver and broke off negotiations. If necessary, I can prove this in court to show that I was trying to do the right thing.

"Then, one afternoon as I was cudgeling my brain with a cudgel which I always keep handy for this purpose, the door opened and in walked Mr. Tom O'Rourke at the head of Patrick Redmond. Mr. O'Rourke yelled, 'Company, halt!' and Patrick halted.

Redmond's His Man.

"I took one look at Patrick and cried, 'Heaven sent you.' And at that Patrick broke out singing, 'Sure, a little bit of heaven fell from out the sky one day——.'

"I cannot sing dialect," said Mr. Johnston, "but I soon discovered that Redmond was my man. I could now go on with my plan to revive prosperity, starting at Ebbets field. And if anything of an untoward nature should happen I could throw myself on the mercy of the court and insist that I had done my best to find the worst man available.

"There then arose the difficult problem of convincing the public that they would see a contest, even though Primo's opponent was picked, not for his ability and ferocity, but for his legality and nondangerousness under the order of the honorable court. But the customers seem to have decided that if Redmond was the worst man I could find then the fight would be the nearest thing to an even match that it is possible to find these days, and, instead of arguing whether one man was better than the other, they have been coming to blows over the question of which man is worse.

Crazy Match, Crazy Odds.

"It is the most curious situation I have ever seen in pugilism. Primo's defenders in the controversy are giving odds of eight to five on him to lose and some are even offering even money on him to lose by a knockout. The Redmond party, on the other hand, with unbounded confidence in their dark horse, are plunging on Primo to win by a knockout in the first round.

"I hesitate to use the word plunge in connection with this contest as it seems to bring up unpleasant and unworthy implications. However, I can only assure the public that both boys will be in there giving their very worst at all times and that whichever man is on his feet at the end of the savage onslaught, that man's supporters may feel that they have had a run for their money and that their fighter simply won from a worse man."

The heavy rainfall did not perturb Mr. Johnston, for, as he pointed out, the customers who have been following Primo Carnera on his travels long ago became accustomed to the splash and spume as his adversaries described their remarkable repertoire of standing sitting double jack knife dives.

Chicago Golfers to Tell Likes, Dislikes of New Ball

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

How does the new golf ball rate with the old in the estimation of Chicago's golfers? Has it improved or hampered their game? Has the 90 score made with the old ball become a 100 with the new edition?

These questions and others pertinent to a subject which has every player in the United States on one side or the other will be answered in a poll of Chicago golfers on the old and new balls, to be taken by THE TRIBUNE in conjunction with the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association.

The poll is endorsed by C. A. Nash, of the Techny Fields course at Northbrook and president of the daily fee association. Officials of the member courses gave their final approval to the plan at a meeting at Pipe O'Peace Monday night.

All to Get Vote.

During the next two weeks, the poll will be conducted only at daily fee courses. Thereafter, the vote will be taken among players on private courses, with a poll of public links golfers concluding the ballot. Voting blanks will be supplied Saturday at all of the daily fee courses, and when filled out they should be addressed to the golf editor, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

The blanks of which the poll is to be taken will contain the following statements:

1. My average score is——.
2. My average drive with the new ball is——yards.
3. My average drive with the old ball was——yards.
4. I [like] or [do not like] the shot to the green with the new ball.
5. I [like] or [do not like] to putt with the new ball.
6. I [would like] or [would not like] to see the old ball come back.

Specific Opinions Invited.

A special space will be left at the end of the blank so that the voter may include any specific opinions on the new and old balls.

When the new ball made its advent, the comments of such stars as Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell and others were sought. Their opinions varied although it appears that a majority of the leading professionals are satisfied with the new pellet.

The question of what the average golfer, the man, woman or junior who may be able to play but once or twice a week and who expects the full measure of enjoyment out of his or her game, thinks of the change remains to be answered. 'Hence THE TRIBUNE-Daily Fee association poll.

Poll at 14 Courses.

Here is your opportunity to express your sentiments on both the old and the new. You may be satisfied with the new ball or, you may desire the return of the old one, but this poll affords every golfer in the Chicago district a chance to have his say in a ballot which may have an important bearing on the status of the ball of the future.

The fourteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association at which the first two week's voting will be taken include Big Oaks, Cog-Hill, Evergreen, Glendale, Golfmoor, Hickory Hills, Chicago Meadows, Mid City, Oak Hills, Our Country, Pickwick Suburban, Pipe O'Peace, St. Andrews and Techny Fields.

U. S. G. A. Ignores Five Affected by Loos' Withdrawal

Eddie Loos, north shore professional, may have no intention of competing in the National open golf tournament at the Inverness Country club, Toledo, O., July 2, 3 and 4, but his performance in the Chicago district trials at Medinah Monday has caused him to be considered a qualifier. This was announced yesterday by Vice President Robert Cutting of the United States Golf association.

Incidentally, this decision leaves the Chicago district with only 14 qualifiers for the championship final instead of the original 15 allotted.

Loos went around the two Medinah courses in 68—80—148 to tie Kuly Schlicht of Madison, Wis., for second place among the qualifiers. He posted his score, and then, after the entire trial field had completed play for the day, he announced his withdrawal from the meet at Inverness.

This apparently moved up the five golfers tied for the last qualifying berth. The U. S. G. A. ruling in this instance calls for a playoff, but Loos' withdrawal became known so late that the five in question could not be found to start a playoff. Their names were forwarded to the U. S. G. A., which then ruled that Loos was a qualifier.

Hence the five who might have battled for a place at Inverness now find themselves out in the cold. The quintet affected is composed of John Van Nortwick Jr., Chicago; Herb Spanheimer, Maywood; Frank Kenmett, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Ray Crosiln, Oak Park, and John Bird, St. John, Ind. All finished with cards of 154, one below what proved to be the highest qualifying score.

JOCKEY, THROWN OFF HORSE, DIES OF BROKEN NECK

CARAWAY FAILS IN REVENGE ACT; GRIFFS WIN, 9-3

Two Bad Innings Give Senators Series Sweep.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Pat Caraway went back to work today with the idea of avenging the rough house manner in which the Senators handled him in the series opener. The long southpaw didn't even come close to accomplishing his purpose. Between enemy base hits and White Sox blunders, Pat suffered two terrifying innings and the consequence was a clean sweep of the four games by the second placers. The score was 9 to 3.

If they paid off on hits alone the Sox could have claimed a victory They banged Alvin Crowder at a pace in excess of that maintained by the locals against Caraway, but the Chicagoans, as usual, didn't cluster their hits properly. Another noticeable difference was that the Senators were sensational in the field, whereas the Sox handed the home folks one batch of four runs which ordinary fielding could have averted.

Ed Sullivan Gets a Chance.

As indicative of Manager Bush's panicstricken state, he dropped young Ed Sullivan into the lineup as soon as the ex-collegian reported. The son of the one time famous Pale Hose catcher was given work in right field, a job at which he is more or less a stranger.

The Sox wanted to make everybody forget about their woeful showing of yesterday, so they started off impressively with a run in round one. Watwood, who was operating in center field, nicked Crowder for a single with one out. Fothergill's high tempered bounder was deflected by Crowder and Bluege was able to recover it in time to throw out the runner. Fonseca's grounder slipped between Bluege and Cronin for a single and Watwood scooted home.

Two hits off Caraway in the second indicated nothing except that the Senators weren't completely baffled. They proved it in the third with an attack which developed after one was out. Caraway gave a pass to Myer, and Manush was tossed out by Cissell. Cronin's single scored Myer. Harris' fly to short right fell a few inches inside the line for a double, Cronin halting at third. The two fellows sprinted home when West doubled to right.

Sox Get a Run.

Although the Chicagoans rifled Crowder for three hits in the fifth they could register only one run. Blue singled with one out and Watwood tapped to the pitcher. Fothergill spanked a hit to center and Blue hurried home. Fonseca also singled and Sullivan spanked one solidly but Myer grabbed it and threw him out. A moment later the Senators snatched the run back. Cronin started the home fifth with a triple against the center field wall and scored on Harris' fly.

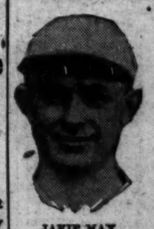
Kerr developed trouble in his third basing and a fly ball caused Sullivan to do a hand spring in the sixth. These were the chief factors in a four run Washington splurge. Spencer doubled with one gone and scored when Kerr pegged wild on Crowder. The latter was forced by Myer. Manush flied high to right. Sullivan started in, saw his error but slipped when he turned to go back. The ball landed for a triple, Myer scoring. Kerr fumbled Cronin's hopper and Manush scored. Cronin worked around to the plate on a stolen base, a wild pitch, and a hit by Harris.

Face Yanks Today.

Cissell doubled in the eighth and Caraway did the same. These two hits enabled the Sox to grab off their third run. The Senators also enjoyed a limited scoring spree in this same round. West walked with two out and rode around to the plate on Bluege's double against the sign board in right.

The Sox open against the mauling Yanks tomorrow, so the rest may be needed. McKain and Sherid will pitch.

May Reduces and Fattens His Record



JAKIE MAY.

Jakie May—there's a pleasant little round man. Not as much of a round man as he was last year, for he trained off 30 pounds after he learned the Cubs had obtained his contract from Cincinnati. But still a round man.

Jakie — Frank Spuriell, his folks call him—so far this year has won three game while losing one, the one he lost being his last time out. On the basis of last year's showing with the Reds he now can lose ten straight and still have as good a record as he had with the Reds last year. That is, he won three and lost eleven with Cincinnati in 1930.

Mr. May is no spring chicken as ballplayers go, having been born in Wendell, N. C., Nov. 25, 1898, and is now working his thirteenth year in the majors. Jake was with the Cardinals for five years beginning in 1917; then there was a spell in the minors. He went to the Reds in 1924 and his contract was Cincinnati property from then until Oct. 16 last fall.

He wasn't a regular starter with the Cards but he saw plenty of work with the Reds. He was frequently used for relief work as revealed by the fact that he was the winning pitcher in 65 games in his major league career prior to this season and losing pitcher in 88. As he worked in 344 games, there were 191 in which the win or the loss was marked to some other pitcher.

May's best record in baseball was with Vernon in the Pacific Coast league in 1922 when he won 35 while losing 9 and his best years in the majors were 1923 and 1927 when he won 13 and lost 9 in the one year and won 15 and lost 12 in the other. After that Jakie fattened up pretty much, until he took off those 50 pounds during the winter.

Jake spends his winters hunting in North Carolina and has 14 hounds.

Jake used to feed the hounds meat and a lot of other stuff but that gave them running fits and there's nothing that upsets a pack of hounds like one hound with a running fit, Jake says. One hound with running fits will chase off after a phantom herd of elephants and the other hounds, who think the dog with the fits knows something, will forget about the fox and go with the other dog after the phantom elephants.

This worried Jake quite a little, for naturally he never was able to shoot a phantom elephant, whereas his record with foxes is pretty good. So now all Jake feeds his hounds is corn meal mush and they don't have running fits any more.

Two Birdies on a Hole; Winged One Brings Other

Jacksonville, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Any golfer knows the shortest route between tee and green is "as the crow flies," but few have the luck of Robert Tatum in proving the old adage.

Tatum hooked his drive into the rough on the long seventh at the Florida Country club today. It would have been necessary for him to recover remarkably to get even a par.

Suddenly a cruising crow spied the glistening ball in a tuft of grass. The bird swooped down, picked it up and resumed cruising.

But other crows had seen the shiny ball and immediately joined combat with their fellow for its possession. As the feathers flew the ball fell just off No. 7 green.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The farewell caress of the New York Giants yesterday afternoon was accorded in the form of the worst blistering our Cubs have suffered this ripening season. The score was 10 to 2—and one wonders that it wasn't much worse, seeing as how Bill Terry, Mel Ott, Ethan Allen, Hughie Critz and a few others were in such a brutally efficient mood in the matter of knocking base hits.

The first three gents on the Giant batting list made two more hits for eight more bases and scored five more runs than the whole Cub cast. Except for Stephenson and Hartnett, each of whom made three hits for three-fourths of the Chicago batting showing, the entire Cub outfit was quite flattened by Bill Morrell in his second major league start.

Terry Fattens Average.

Bill Terry was the most wicked man working for Mr. McGraw. For the second successive day Bill made four hits. Yesterday he tripled in the first and second innings, singled in the fifth and doubled in the eighth. Each of his hits drove in at least one run. He drove in six and scored two more as his damage for the afternoon.

The next wickedest man was Mel Ott, who had a homer, three singles and a walk and the run gettingest athlete was Ethan Allen, with four tallies. Ethan had two doubles and a single in his last three times at bat.

Critz didn't stay tough all the time but he furnished plenty of discouragement to Lester Sweetland, who started out to win his sixth straight of the season. Hughie made a single in the first, a double in the second, and came along with his third hit in the sixth against Baecht.

Phillies Here Today.

The licking slapped the Cubs back into third place and it evened the series at two each. The Giants now are leading the season series, 4 games to 2.

The Phillies come in today. The Philadelphia boys hold a season edge of two games to one over the Cubs, but the Cubs have high hopes of gaining some advantage on the eastern invaders during the Phillies' stay. To date the Cubs have split their two series with eastern visitors.

The pitching of Sweetland, Baecht, and Teachout obviously was pretty sad, and that of Morrell wasn't as good as it looks in the box score, for Ott, Lindstrom, and Critz had to turn in some splendid fielding to protect the young man.

What Happened to Les.

Sweetland was the National league's leading pitcher at 3 p. m., but my goodness, you never would have suspected it at 3:15. Just read the harrowing details of what happened to Lugubrious Les:

Critz opened the assault just as soon as Umpire McGrew had sounded the opening siren. Hughie singled to left and was forced by Allen, but Terry came along with the first of his triples, enabling Allen to walk home. Terry was held on third while Horns by threw out Lindstrom, but the restraining effort was wasted, for Ott singled, scoring Terry.

After three Cubs had been retired in order in the first, the Giants came back in the second inning and ruined Lester. Vergez flied to Stephenson but Hogan singled to left and Morrell walked, after which Critz socked a double to left, Hogan scoring and Morrell stopping at third. Allen grounded to Jurges and Morrell was trapped off third. Terry knocked his second triple and Critz trotted home.

Baecht to Rescue.

This was where Lester went away. Baecht came in and on the first toss managed to get rid of the annoyance of having Terry on base. He hurled a wild pitch and Mr. Terry scored Lindstrom lined to Cuyler for the third out.

The Cubs made a run in the second on doubles by Stephenson and Hartnett. Jurges walked after Gabby's hit, but Lindstrom spoiled a lot of fun by making a sweet one handed

CARDS POUND SIX ROBIN PITCHERS TO WIN FINAL, 8-5

St. Louis Gets 18 Hits; Hafey Raps Homer.

Giants Rout Sweetland; Even Series

catch of Grimm's drive to the screen. The inning terminated with Baecht's foul to Hogan.

The Giants were pretty considerate in the third and fourth innings, what with a couple of double plays to slow them up, but they broke through for a run, despite another double play in the fifth. Allen pushed off with a double and scored on Terry's single to center. Lindstrom hit into a double play, but Ott singled and went to second on a wild pitch, after which Jackson walked. Verges popped to Jurges.

Giants Steal 2 Bases.

Run No. 3 was hung up by the New Yorkers in the seventh. Ott got his third single with one out and, after Jackson had fanned, went home on Verges's double to left. Verges stole third. Then Hogan walked. Hogan got credit for a stolen base in a sort of delayed double steal, though Verges was sunk at the plate, Hartnett to English to Hartnett.

Run No. 3 was manufactured in the eighth on successive doubles by Allen and Terry.

The Cubs made their second run in the eighth on English's single, Hornsby's infield out, and Stephenson's single.

Balko Defeats Mr. Sponge in $4,775 Race

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—The Sagamore stable's Balko today won the Speed handicap, feature at Belmont Park, by a length and a half from Joseph E. Widener's Mr. Sponge. The Beasel was third.

The Beasel's stablemate, Flying Heels, was one of those heavily backed to beat Balko, which went to the post 3 to 1 favorite.

Flying Heels showed speed for part of the way but did not hold on as well as The Beasel in the last couple of furlongs and wound up in the ruck. The order of finish after the placed horses was Happy Scot, Halcyon, Black Majesty, Flying Heels, Panetian, Seb, Commuter, and Inadigator.

Today Balko was lucky not to have his spirit broken by the speed of Mr. Sponge. The Widener colt suffered a very bad start. Despite interference from Panetian, which broke from outside the stalls and crossed over on him, Mr. Sponge ran up from a rear guard position, picked up the field one by one, and at the end of the five and one-half furlongs had only Balko to catch.

If the start had been more even Mr. Sponge might have done it. But Mr. Sponge's bad luck should detract nothing from the Balko victory for he won on his merits and gamely earned the $4,775, which was the winner's share of the purse.

GIVES UP SUIT TO HALT HEAVY TITLE BATTLE

Columbus, O., June 9.—(AP)—The attempt of David Fischer of Cleveland to enjoin the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title bout on July 3 was brought to an end today when the state Supreme court refused to consider before its summer vacation Fischer's proposed appeal from a lower court decision in which his plea for an injunction was denied. After the Supreme court's refusal was made, attorneys for Fischer said the proposed appeal would not be filed.

Fischer's suit had contended the championship bout would be a prize fight illegal in Ohio. Common Pleas court held, however, it would be legal as a boxing exhibition.

King Levinsky Stops McCarthy in Fourth

Charleston, W. Va., June 9.—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago, won a technical knockout over Pat McCarthy, Boston, in the fourth round of a ten round match here tonight. The Boston boxer was knocked down four times in the fourth round.

Harper Leaves to Spend Summer on Kansas Ranch

Juvenile Stake Winners Enter Arlington Race

Thirteen winners of 2 year old stakes since the beginning of the year have entered the third Post and Paddock stake to be decided at Arlington Park Aug. 1. Fall Apple, Universe, Polonaise, Irene's Bob, Uncovered, Sharp Thoughts, Proteus, Princess Ivre, Doctor Happy, Pink, Air Pilot, Election Day and Nevada Queen are the standouts which have been named for the $50,000 juvenile stake.

It is possible that none of these will get any part of the money if all should start. The opinion among experts is general that few of the best 2 year olds of the current season will show before July. Horsemen and horsewomen the country over are not rushing their smartest juvenile material as they did in former years.

TERRY CLUBS HIS WAY TO RANKS OF BIG SIX LEADERS

Bill Terry of the New York Giants, National league batting champion last year, clouted his way into a place among the big six leaders yesterday as he hit two triples, a double and a single in five times at bat. This feat brought his average up to .385 and gave him second place in the National league batting list and fifth in the Big Six. Charley Grimm dropped out.

Harvey Hendrick connected for three hits in four times up and lifted his average 12 points to .390 to pass Mickey Cochrane and take second place. Cochrane and Al Simmons each gained a few points and Buzz Arlett lost five. The standing:

Hafer Leads Coal Men in 1st Golf Meet

Henry Hafer yesterday scored 43—40—83 to capture the low gross prize in the first of the season's four golf tournaments of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association at Midlothian. Seventy-five competed.

Harold Stein was around in 44—42—86 to finish second in the gross event. John Else, host of the tourney, was tied with F. Chandler, Fred Teeman, John Noble, and Ed Hassenstein for third with 88.

James Curran led the net scorers with 102—40—69, his nearest competitors being Else with 88—10—78 and F. B. Brandt with 111—30—81.

Jim Hockberger was low man in the Builders' Tee club meet at Oak Hills yesterday with 41—42—83. Clarence Olson had 41—44—85 to place second and Joe Gooch, 43—44—87, and Russell Christian, 43—44—87, divided third honors.

In the match play which features the builders' meetings Joe Gooch and Len Seymour won their third round matches and will meet in the semi-final round. The other two third round winners were George Murphy and Levi Nelson, who meet in the lower half.

The Chicago District Golf association will hold its third handicap event of the season at the Elmhurst Golf club today. Among the important events on the association's tournament schedule for this year are the national amateur qualifying round at Onwentsia, July 28; the C. D. G. A. junior medal event at Calumet, June 29, and the Illinois state amateur and professional championships at the Quincy Country club, Quincy, Ill., Aug. 18-22, inclusive.

The annual Karnival will be staged at Kildeer today, while the North Shore league will meet at Wilmette. The Forty and Eight's first handicap tournament of the season will be played at Big Oaks, with several prominent jurists competing.

The schedule for the Illinois state amateur and pro titles, which will be decided together at Quincy, Aug. 18-22, includes a program of four days for the amateurs, with 36 hole championship final to be decided on the 21st. The pros will play 36 holes of medal play for their state crown the following day.

The Northwest league will hold one of its regular meets at Park Ridge tomorrow. The league added three new members this year in Kildeer, Rolling Green and Indian Hill. The other members are Sunset Ridge, Park Ridge, Edgewater, Ridgemoor, and Medinah. Fred Lietzow of Ridgemoor is chairman and Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge secretary.

The Sportsman Golf club will be formally opened as a 27 hole daily fee course Friday. The course is located on the south side of Dundee road, just west of Sky Harbor airport, between Milwaukee avenue and the Waukegan road.

McKinley Track Team Defeats Tuley, 43 to 11

McKinley High school yesterday defeated Tuley in a west section track meet at Douglas park, 43 to 11. Griffith and Hazzard starred for the victors, the former scoring 17 points, while the latter collected 15.

Lady Astor Beats Lord Balfour in Parliament Golf

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Lady Astor, only woman entrant in the parliamentary golf tournament that started at Walton Heath, in Surrey, on May 16, today had reached the last eight of 94 starters in the handicap and was regarded as having a good chance of winning the tournament.

She won a sensational victory today over Lord Balfour of Burleigh, who has won the tournament twice in the last six years. She defeated Lord Balfour 6 and 5.

feats of skill on parallel bars and bucks. Expert fencers will contest with flashing blades. One thousand German athletes, trained in the Turnvereins, for 20 minutes will present severance.

The organization of this Sports Congress is no small task. The idea was accepted by various associated groups a year ago. Since December all have been engaged in preparation. The general committee, with representatives from all affiliated, has met twice monthly. Plans have been made for transportation of contestants from Chicagoland cities.

Park Commissioners Help.

The commissioners of the northwest parks have coöperated. They will loan apparatus. The northwest park commissioners, whose slogan of a "small park in every square mile," have supplied unexcelled opportunity for recreation to its citizens, have not hesitated to join in the support of the Chicagoland congress.

Admission June 21 will be 25 cents. The receipts after expenses have been deducted will be turned over to charity.

HOUSE OF DAVID HERE SUNDAY

The House of David club will play a double header at Mills stadium Sunday.

Kirkwood Ties for Lead in French Golf

DEAUVILLE, France, June 9.—[Special.]—Joe Kirkwood of New York turned in a thirty-six hole card of 145 to tie for the lead in the first two rounds of the French open golf championship tournament here today. Kirkwood made the second round in 71, which equals the course record.

Horton Smith, who won the French professional tournament in 1929, is not competing, having scratched his entry, and Johnny De Paolo, Los Angeles amateur, also failed to show up at the starting tee. Absence of these American stars detracted from the interest in the tournament.

Competition was close in the morning round. Two of four Argentinians competing, Tomasco Genta and Marco Churlo, tied for second honors with Marcel Dallemagne and Aubrey Boomer, Frenchmen, at 78.

Jose Jurado, who was runner up to Tommy Armour in the British open, took 152 for the 36 holes of the day. He is expected to withdraw from the tournament tomorrow. Jurado missed one easy six inch putt at the ninth hole.

The best showing of the British contingent was made by R. A. Whitecombe, who turned in a 75 for the first round. Larry Montes of the Philippines carded a 74.

BRITISH GOLFERS CONFIDENT ON EVE OF U. S. TRIP

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—On the eve of its departure for the United States the British Ryder cup team was given a farewell dinner tonight at the 19th club. The duke of York was present, while the prince of Wales sent his best wishes for the team's success.

"I have a very good team of triers," said Charles Whitecombe, team captain. "If it's in the cards that we lose we will lose like sportsmen, but I think we are going to win."

"I say without hesitation I am sure we shall win," was the comment of Samuel Ryder, donor of the cup. "British golf has taken on a new charter in its history. We've been persuaded by all sorts of Jeremiahs that we were inferior to Americans, but we are not."

MISS ORCUTT AN EASY WINNER IN BRITISH TOURNEY

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 9.—(AP)—Led by Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., who took only fourteen holes to win her first round match, all favorites advanced today in the British women's golf championship.

Miss Orcutt, playing a steady game on the soggy fairways and inundated greens, disposed of Mrs. Donald Soulby, 5 and 4.

Keeping step with the American girl were Miss Diana Fishwick, the defending champion, who gained her title last year with a surprising victory over the United States champion, Glenna Collett; Enid Wilson, the English champion, and Molly Gourlay.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CUBS AND SOX.

DEAR WAKE: Isn't it a bit early for Cub fans to start boasting of their "loyalty" to a team which finishes in first or second place? We Sox fans have been loyal for ten years to a team that doesn't even wind up in the first division.

Loyal Sox Fan.

Why all this discussion of loyalty? We all know the Cubs lead other fans on this score. Attendance records for the last several years prove the case. It would be just too bad to publish the yearly total attendance at both local parks. R. O. W.

When did Cub fans ever hear a Sox rooter crying for help or asking any sympathy? When they want to see the best in baseball, they come to the south side. Remember Way Back When a National league champion won a world series. Tom Kane.

I have been a Sox fan for the last 15 years, rooting for them just as hard when at the bottom as when they were at the top of the league, and I might mention I'm a north sider to boot. The White Sox are a hustling club of youngsters and within a few years are expected to go far, so, all you real Chicago fans, why not give them a break and the encouragement they deserve.

Chicago has enough fans to support two clubs, so why not be "good sports" and cheer them both, win or lose, leaving the squabbling and lemon throwing to the hoc[illegible]

White Sox Fannette.

It seems most of the Cub letters you receive are from McCarthy partisans. I'm for the Cubs and always have been, but am stronger than ever since Hornsby has come into his own, and Hornsby will show us a few things before the season is over.

Die-hard Cub.

O, That's All Right.

We have received from a Derby "sweep" in which we made a modest investment a very courteous letter beginning "We note, with pleasure, your subscription to our fund and your interest in our association is greatly appreciated," etc. It was a charity fund.

Now that's real nice. We don't recall ever receiving such a pretty letter from the mutuel windows when we didn't win.

United We Stand.

What's all the petty wrangling
'Bout the Cubiets and the Sox?
Why all the fuss and gossip—
Why the lessons and the knocks?
Why should one be deemed a favorite
And the other just a dub
When they both uphold Chicago
And when each one is OUR club?
Both gangs are in there trying
And they fight—lose, draw, or win.
Can we help the Raj or Donie
When we sock 'em on the chin?
Let's bury futile prejudice
And hand both teams their dues,
And then you'll see the two step out

BOY SCOUTS TO READ RIVER ON CANOEING TRIP

Camp Craft Also Part of Curriculum.

BY BOB BECKER.

Living in pup tents, traveling by canoe, and cooking all meals (rain or shine) over wood fires, Boy Scouts who go on the canoeing and camping expedition down the Flambeau river in Wisconsin on the morning of June 17 are going to have a good time and an opportunity to learn many things about living out of doors.

This year's cruise, the fourth staged by THE TRIBUNE, will start at Park Falls.

Will Learn River Craft.

One of the lessons taught the youngsters who paddle down stream as members of this cruise will be how to "read a river," to follow its channel, and avoid rocks and snags which damage the bottom of the canoe. Another pointer the Scouts learn on such a trip is how to put up a pup tent in jigtime and rig it with mosquito netting so that insects cannot disturb the occupant during the night.

The importance of organization and routine on a camping trip also is stressed. A combination cruise and camping trip, such as this, during which camp is moved each day, requires that each boy shall follow a routine of work and camp chores, so that the large party can get under way quickly.

Inasmuch as the party cooks over wood fires, the Scouts also have a chance to learn many facts about the kinds of wood suitable for cooking fires and the way to start a blaze quickly, regardless of the weather.

Leave Chicago June 26.

According to present plans, THE TRIBUNE party of Scouts will leave Chicago the night of June 26, arriving at Park Falls early on the following morning. Canoes waiting for the party will be loaded with tents and the personal duffel of the boys.

The "commissary department" will make its purchases and the party will start down stream to its first camp.

Scouts who wish to go on this thrilling cruise are urged to make their applications at once to Scout headquarters or through their scoutmasters. Any 15, 16, or 17 year old Life Scout, who has won swimming and canoeing merit badges is eligible.

Clinnin and Griffith to Judge Great Lakes Bouts

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, and Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of athletics, will be judges tonight in the final bouts for the Great Lakes station boxing championships. The show is being sponsored by the Lake County council of the American Legion.

JIM M'MILLEN AND STEINKE ON MILLS MAT CARD

Chicago's first outdoor wrestling show of the season will be held June 19 in Mills stadium. This announcement was made yesterday by Doc Kirk, promoter.

Kirk has signed Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, and Hans Steinke, the German heavy. The two will not meet each other, but have signed identical contracts to meet the best available opponents.

ACTIVE ISSUES CLOSE LOWER IN CHICAGO MARKET

Liquidation Is Orderly; Losses Are Small.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An early period of contrary price movements was followed by reaction on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday. Special developments aided some stocks maintaining a fairly strong tone, but the majority of active issues closed below the level of the previous day's final quotations.

In view of the bearish character of the current news the market's action was regarded as comparatively satisfactory. There was no unusually heavy liquidation and the recessions were orderly in every instance.

The market had to contend with another painful repetition of the adverse dividend story, this time in the form of a reduction by Western Electric which found reflection in the action of the parent stock on the big board. Announcement came after the close of similar action by John R. Thompson company. Sympathetic weakness developed in other spots.

Utilities in Line.

On the Chicago board the utilities were in line with the general list. Insull Utility sold off around a point and Edison was easier at 195, but no severe losses occurred.

One of the sharpest recessions occurred in United States Radio which had made a steep climb on the previous day. The reaction about wiped out the earlier advance with the stock finishing down 3½ points at 15½. The first important trading in several months developed in Gribsby-Grunow. The issue sold up above 4, but eased off to close only a fraction above its previous quotation.

The activity in the stock coincides with the radio show which is being held here, but in which Grigsby is not participating. A few shares of Zenith appeared on the tape following the issuance of the firm's annual report, the results of which were about in line with expectations.

Responds to Announcement.

Stock of the Segal Lock company responded with a fractional advance to the announcement that the company's Brooklyn plant is being put on a 24 hour schedule effective today. Walgreen was weak on fairly heavy trade, but its net loss was moderate in common with most of the list.

In announcing the halving of the John R. Thompson dividend, Charles A. McCulloch, chairman of the board, said that the action was taken because of the contemplated cost of the rehabilitation of restaurants, the absorption of losses on real estate, and the existing trade conditions. A quarterly distribution of 25 cents a share was authorized, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis as compared with $3 heretofore.

SINCLAIR OIL OMITS REGULAR 25 CT. DIVIDEND

Western Electric Cuts Payment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation has passed the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock due at this time. No meeting of the directors was held, it was announced, but "a canvass of the situation, however, has shown that it is the opinion of its members that a regular dividend should not be declared at this time owing to prevailing conditions in the oil industry."

Notwithstanding the increase in the volume of the company's business," the announcement said, "prices received for crude oil have been forced to such low levels that it is impossible to realize earnings that will justify the payment of a common dividend."

Postpone Regular Meeting.

The regular meeting of the directors of the corporation had been scheduled for tomorrow, but it has been postponed owing to the fact that a quorum could not be obtained for the meeting. Harry F. Sinclair, chairman, and other executives of the corporation are now in the midcontinent. On Jan. 15, last, the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock was cut in half by the payment of a dividend of 25 cents a share. Dividends on the common stock were resumed in April, 1929, at the rate of 50 cents quarterly and 25 cents a share extra. At the beginning of 1930 the extra dividends were omitted, but the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was paid throughout that year.

The Western Electric company, more than 90 per cent of the common stock of which is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, declared today to reduce its annual dividend on the common from $4 to $3 with the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable June 30 to owners of record June 25. The company is one of the principal manufacturers of telephone and radio equipment, talking motion picture equipment and numerous types of electrical equipment, supplying virtually all the requirements of the Bell system. Capital stock consists of 100,000 common shares, $92.34 per share of which was held at the close of last year by A. T. & T.

Reduce A. T. & T. Income.

The cut in the dividend rate will result in a reduction of approximately $30,000,000 in American Telephone & Telegraph's annual income from this source. Dividend payments by the company have been very liberal in the last fifteen years. The company paid $9 on the old stock which was split five for one in 1927 and the equivalent of $20 was paid on the old stock in 1929 and 1930. An extra of $3 a share was declared in 1927 in addition to regular payments of $4 for that year.

Directors of Columbia Pictures voted today to cut the common dividend in half with the declaration of a quarterly of 18¾ cents compared with 37½ cents heretofore. The new rate places the stock on a 75 cent annual basis against $1.50.

Directors of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, have declared a dividend of 40 cents a share on both classes of stocks. This is the first payment since the latter part of 1927. The Indiana company owns approximately 55 per cent of both classes and will receive about $1,288,000 as a result of this dividend.

May Continue Payments.

R. G. Stewart, president of Pan-American, indicated today that if earnings warrant the company will continue to pay dividends. He also said that as far as he could ascertain, the Russians were not marketing gasoline in Mexico but that he had heard of some contracts being made for Russian oil in Uruguay.

The meeting of directors of the Willys-Overland company held today to action on the preferred dividend was adjourned until June 17, because of lack of a quorum. Directors of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company postponed action on the dividend until June 16. The board of Illinois County Trust company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, against 40 cents heretofore.

A quarterly dividend of $1 a share was announced on the $4 preferred A stock of Fleur Mills of America, Inc., placing it on a $4 annual basis, against $3 previously. Cincinnati Union Stock Yards company voted an extra of 25 cents and the regular quarterly of 40 cents.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

U. E. Story, president of the Santa Fe railroad, in a statement, asserted that his road will continue to pay dividends on both the common and preferred stocks. He told of a program of betterment making possible such action since December, 1920, 16,000 men had been laid off by his road.

Chicago bank clearings are $76,663,000. Bar silver sells for 99¼ cents an ounce in New York.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon plans to replace $2,000,000 of floating indebtedness by replacing short term treasury certificates by longer term obligations. Offering will be made of 3 year treasury notes bearing 5½ per cent interest.

Peoples Gas drops 3 points on the Chicago exchange to 42. Stock trading in New York tops a million shares for the first time in a month. United States Steel is active and closes at 150. General Asphalt is also heavily traded and closes at 60.

North America Faces Short Crop in Spring Wheat Area

(Crop report details on page 30.)

North America faces a near spring wheat crop failure, according to reports by the United States and Canadian governments issued late yesterday. The condition in both countries is the lowest ever known. A condition of 67.9 for spring wheat was shown for the American northwest, the lowest in over sixty-six years, being 16.8 points below last year and nearly 20 points under the average of the past ten years. The Canadian condition was placed at 80, the lowest since crop reporting started in 1909, and compared with 97 last year.

While no estimates were officially made on the spring wheat crops or the acreage local statisticians figured that the American crop was around 185,000,000 bu, the smallest in over twenty years with the exception of 1916 when it was 156,000,000 bu, and compared with 247,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Lower Wheat Estimates.

A total wheat crop of around 275,000,000 bu was suggested by the Canadian government report, which has changed its method of reporting the condition and the latter is now based on a long time average yield. Last year's harvest was 393,000,000 bu.

Winter wheat crop of only 649,000,000 bu, or the same as the average government report, which was a distinct surprise to the trade. The latter had been looking for around 675,000,000 bu or the same as the average figures of the local statisticians, and the figures showed 4,000,000 bu below the May returns, but were 45,000,000 bu in excess of last year. R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros & Co., statistician had placed the yield at exactly the same figures as the government.

Based on the official and private construction placed on the conditional figures of both winter and spring wheat the aggregate yield for North America would be around 1,109,000,000 bu or 140,000,000 bu less than last year's harvest.

As the trade sees it, should the final harvest being approximately as small as the total suggested yesterday it would force a radical readjustment of world's ideas as to the supply and demand situation for the 1931-32 season, especially as Australian acreage is estimated to show a decrease of 30 to 35 per cent from last year and a reduction of 5 to 20 per cent is looked for in Argentina.

Condition of winter wheat on June 1 of 84.3 was 6 points lower than in May. There were losses in practically all states last month, particularly in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas, due to cold weather and freezing temperatures at times. In the middle west conditions held up well. Condition in Indiana was slightly improved. Nebraska lost 14 points, Kansas 9 points, Colorado 10, Oklahoma 5, and Texas 11 points.

Estimated by States.

Kansas crop is estimated at 167,776,000 bu, compared with 176,768,000 bu last month. Nebraska dropped 3,200,000 bu, while Texas gained over 4,000,000 bu. Heavy losses, due to drought, are reported from the west coast. Comparative yields in the leading winter wheat states, with the last 3 ciphers omitted, follow:

A rye crop 6,000,000 bu less than last year was suggested by the American government report, the indicated yield being placed at 44,000,000 bu, compared with 50,000,000 bu harvested last year. Condition of oats was placed at 84.7, against 83.2 last year and a 10 year average of 82.6, but no official estimates were made on the crop or acreage. On the basis of the private returns a yield of around 1,400,000,000 bu was suggested, or practically the same as last year. Condition of barley was about the same as the average of the past 10 years, while of hay and pasturage it is lower.

Price of Platinum Jumps $12.50 to $37.50 an Ounce

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The price of platinum, which last month was at the lowest level since 1910, took a sharp advance yesterday, when producers pushed it up from $25 to $37.50 an ounce. The advance brought the price of the metal to almost twice its level of less than a month ago, when it sold as low as $21.50 an ounce.

Austin State Bank Holds Fortieth Birthday Today

The Austin State bank, which was founded on June 10, 1891, is celebrating its fortieth anniversary today. The bank was organized by Charles S., Percy V., and Perley D. Castle at a time when Austin was a small suburb west of the city. Charles S. Castle is now chairman of the board and Perley D. Castle is president.

Halsey-Stuart to Offer N. Y. Central Certificates

Halsey, Stuart & Co. are expected to offer shortly, subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission, $3,094,000 New York Central railroad 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates. The certificates are to be issued under the equipment trust agreement dated May 15, 1930, to provide for somewhat less than 75 per cent of the cost of new railway equipment, full title to which is to be vested in the trust. About $3,945,000

DAILY AVERAGE FOR CRUDE OIL OUTPUT UP 12,800 BARRELS

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil productions in the United States increased 12,800 barrels in the week ended June 6, totaling 2,474,350 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 12,100 barrels to 1,945,850.

Refineries representing 94.7 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 66.3 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,418,400 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 95.7 per cent of total, operated at 69.3 per cent of capacity was 2,474,600. Gasoline stocks at these refineries were 44,225,000 barrels against 44,795,000.

Production of cracked gasoline by refineries representing 93.4 per cent of total charging capacity was 3,073,000 barrels. Production the previous week by refineries representing 94.4 per cent of total was 3,233,000 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 860,000 barrels against 1,728,000 barrels.

Electric Bond and Share May Get Mexican Concern

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Acquisition of the Northern Mexico Power and Development company by the American and Foreign Power Company, Inc., subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share, is in prospect, it was learned in Wall street today. Holders of the $100 par 7 per cent preferred shares of the Northern Mexico company have been offered an exchange of stock on a share for share basis for no par $7 preferred stock cumulative of the Empresas Electricas Mexicanas, Inc., a Delaware corporation and a unit of American and Foreign Power.

Urge Southern Railroads to Combat Declining Revenues

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Coöperation of southern railroads with those of the east and west in a unified effort to combat falling revenues—possibly by raising freight rates—was urged today by 23 traffic executives of southern carriers.

Simultaneously, another possible step to bolster railway income was unfolded when it became known that shopmen employed by the Southern railway are casting a secret ballot on a proposal for a five day week.

H. J. Carr, vice president of the International Association of Machinists, announced that officials of that road proposed the move as necessary to reduce expenses without laying off additional workers.

Labor officials said the ballots of about 8,000 shopmen throughout the Southern railway system were returnable tomorrow to chairmen of the employes' organization at Knoxville, Tenn.; Somerset, Ky.; Salisbury, N. C., and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Disagree as to Result.

The action of the southern traffic executives was made known by J. E. Tilford, chairman of the Southern Freight association. He said they were unanimous in agreeing that "something must be done," but that there was disagreement over whether carriers could increase tonnage with a higher freight rate.

Tilford said R. N. Collyer, chairman of the Trunk Line association, had laid before the traffic men the general plan of the eastern carriers, involving an increase in freight rates of approximately 15 per cent.

Collyer was quoted as saying he believed that when this general blanket increase was modified the actual increase of freight rates would vary between 10 and 13 per cent.

This proposal and others will be laid before a meeting of eastern, western and perhaps southern railroad presidents in New York next Thursday at which the entire field of revenues will be discussed.

A Long Delay.

Tilford said he doubted that if a freight rate increase was agreed upon it could be put into effect, with the interstate commerce commission's approval, before 1932.

He exhibited figures which showed the need of speedy action, placing the net railway operating income of southern roads in 1929 at $133,000,000 and at an estimated total of around $50,000,000 for 1931. He estimated the rate of return of investment at 1.43 for the first quarter of 1931, as against 4.04 for 1929.

He explained the vote was necessary because the agreement between the union and the railroad stipulated a six day week, adding that so far as he knew the Southern was the only road to make the five day week proposal for its shopmen.

UTILITY REPORTS ASSETS EXCEED $200,000,000

The annual report of the American Commonwealths Power corporation, made public yesterday, shows that the assets of the corporation now exceed $200,000,000, a gain of $15,773,029 in 1930. Net income for 1930 was $13,418,539, against $11,322,693 the year previous. President Frank T. Hulswit said stimulation and development of gas and electric sales, together with operating economies were largely responsible for increased earnings.

Referring to current business conditions the report says: "The nation has been taking a breathing spell in an unprecedented advance in commerce and industry. We can only judge the future by what we have accomplished in the past. This country and its neighbor to the north will again lead in industrial progress. History does and will repeat itself. Engineering, chemistry, physics, and general scientific research will lead the way. New methods of merchandising, a closer coöperation between business and labor and a better understanding of one another's problems will in the near future bring us to a new era of prosperity. In the end this coöperation will do much to avoid the extremes of such periods of depression of the kind through which we have just passed, and through which we have passed many times before, always followed by greater prosperity and further improvement in the standard of living of all peoples.

CHICAGO DISTRICT GETS $111,923,700 IN TREASURY BONDS

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—The New York federal reserve district received the largest allotment of the $800,000,000 worth of 3½ per cent treasury bonds sold last week by the treasury, getting a total of $386,604,750. Of the $6,315,524,500 subscribed the treasury accepted $321,410,350.

The Chicago district was second, receiving $111,923,700. The amounts allotted to other districts were: Boston, $42,180,600; Philadelphia, $56,500,000; Cleveland, $46,647,850; Richmond, $34,023,900; Atlanta, $29,547,700; St. Louis, $31,416,850; Minneapolis, $9,017,000; Kansas City, $15,738,550; Dallas, $22,786,750; San Francisco, $34,621,450. The treasury allotted $401,250 to miscellaneous subscribers.

The total subscriptions from the different districts were: Boston, $405,570,050; New York, $2,835,545,100; Philadelphia, $511,128,250; Cleveland, $434,539,650; Richmond, $19,829,150; Atlanta, $190,673,250; Chicago, $769,840,700; St. Louis, $118,288,700; Minneapolis, $50,539,400; Kansas City, $119,080,650; Dallas, $137,870,650; San Francisco, $541,103,750.

Acting Secretary Mills said of the total subscriptions, $573,106,500 represented exchange subscriptions in payment for which treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing June 15 were tendered. Such subscriptions were allotted $326,110,300.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The bears started picking on some of the pets of the bull contingent around noon today and within a jiffy a promising little stock market rally had turned turtle completely. Losses were rather disturbing, measured from the highs of the day, but inasmuch as numerous issues had registered new peaks for the recovery before running into difficulties the net declines did not show up so sharply. They amounted to around 1 or 2 points in the milirun of stocks, with a goodly sprinkling of plus signs to help ease headaches.

Being wholly professional in its origin the pressure was concentrated against issues out in front of the list such as United States Steel, singled out in anticipation of a pool showing when its monthly report on unfilled orders appears tomorrow, New York Central, popularly expected to cut its dividend tomorrow, and the utilities, which have been having their troubles in more ways than one here of late.

A Gain for Day.

New York Central broke to a new low of 73⅛ early in the session, but enough buying appeared later when traders began to think better of the road's outlook to boost the share price back to 80½, giving it a net gain for the day. Evidently there were those who were not entirely persuaded that the rate must be reduced. U. S. Steel had no such luck, however, and finished the day at 89, off more than 3 points after touching 93¼ on the early morning freshet.

Railroad shares as a group played fast and loose with their followers all day. Some of them were obtrusively prominent on the advance, Atchison being up more than 4 points at one time, but most of them were overtaken in the bear raids and the final returns on their performances were pretty ragged in appearance. Rock Island, Pennsylvania, Pere Marquette, Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific,

FURTHER RAINS IN CANADA REACT ON WHEAT PRICES

Harvest of Winter Crop Gets Under Way.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Further scattered rains in the Canadian northwest, with Alberta receiving nearly 1 inch in a few sections, combined with uneasiness over the financial situation, resulted in bearish sentiment predominating in the wheat trade yesterday. Liverpool was also affected by the improved weather conditions in the Canadian northwest, as was Winnipeg, and at no time did the various markets show a decided tendenc yto rally.

Buying against bids and evening up for the government report due after the close checked the break in wheat in the local market, but final trades were at net losses of ⅝@⅞c, with July 57¼ to 57¾c; September, 57⅝c to 57¾c, and December, 61⅜ to 61½c. Winnipeg lost 1¼c for the day, with July closing at 60⅝c, while Liverpool was ½@⅝d lower, with July at 62⅝c.

Further rains were predicted for the Canadian wheat belt, and messages late in the afternoon indicated that there was a strong probability of precipitation in parts of Saskatchewan. Out of 27 stations reporting to the weather bureau, 10 points in Alberta had one-fifth inch or more rain over Monday night. R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. statistician, in commenting on the situation, said Monday night's rain in central and northern Alberta, taken with recent amounts in the south, will tide most of that section for another week or so. Central and southern Saskatchewan, however, still need rain badly and are deteriorating daily.

Speculative Trade Light.

The near approach of the new winter wheat crop movement in the southwest was brought home to the trade in reports to J. E. Bennett & Co., showing harvesting had started in southeastern Missouri, with yields in the Sikeston-Essex, Mo., section running around 25 to 30 bu per acre, the best in 5 years. Combines are expected to start operations on Monday if weather conditions are favorable.

The outside trade is not enthusiastic on the buying side of the wheat market despite the unfavorable crop reports from the Canadian and American northwest. Le Count, the Stein, Aistrin & Co. expert, who is out in North Dakota, is finding some very poor wheat in the Bismarck-Bow Bells district, and under the best condition only a light crop would be secured. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan expert, is now in Canada and wired from Moosejaw, Sask., that conditions from the American line north were bad.

Lack of export business in North American wheat is counting rather heavily against the maintenance of bulges in futures, although there were sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu old crop hard winters and Manitobas yesterday. Crop estimates from Europe were somewhat more favorable, with the prospective Italian yield placed at 280,000,000 bu, against 214,000,000 bu harvested last year.

July Corn Weakens.

July corn reversed its recent action and went to a smaller premium over the deferred deliveries as the result of spreading operations and the sale of 850,000 bu cash grain to go to store. In addition Duluth offered two cargoes of No. 2 yellow to come here. The July finished ⅜c lower at 55c, while the distant months were unchanged, September being 52½@c to 52¾c and December 46½c to 46¼c. Commission houses sold July and bought September, while holders of bids were buyers of July.

Excellent weather conditions prevailed over the greater part of the main corn belt, and the forecast was for showers. Reports from Illinois and Iowa to Lamson Bros. & Co. indicated that the country was not disposed to sell old grain freely at the present time, although there were 32,000 bu booked during the day. Shipping demand showed some improvement, with sales of 70,000 bu.

Oats held within a range of ¼c, but finished easy and ⅛c lower in sympathy with corn. July was 26¼c at the last with September 26⅝c and December 29⅛@29⅛c. Cash houses were fair buyers.

Bulk of the trade in rye was of a local character with the undertone easier in sympathy with wheat. Closing trades were ⅜@⅝c lower, with July, 36¾c; September, 37⅝c, and December, 41¾c.

HIDE FUTURES

Trading in futures on the New York Hide exchange was more active. The market closed unchanged to 10 points higher. Total sales, 1,480,000 lbs.

LIGHT PRESSURE ON LARD

Although lard futures were offered with sufficient freedom to cause a weak and lower market early yesterday, the selling being attributed to foreign account; there was an absence of pressure later and prices advanced and closed 10c higher. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to 3d higher. American hams in Liverpool were 1s lower at 69s. Exports of lard were 264,358 lbs and of bacon 83,500 lbs. Cash trade was fair and prices on meats ¼@½c higher. Hogs were lower with supplies fair. Bellies were neglected and prices unchanged. Slaughtering of hogs in the United States in May, as given by the government report, was 3,408,134 head, against 3,822,597 head for the same time last year. Cattle slaughter was 703,694 against 689,502 for the same time last year. Calves 484,863 against 420,868 head. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 7,000.

Weakness appeared in all branches of the live stock market yesterday, but hogs and yearling cattle finished active and some of the loss was recovered. Eastern demand for hogs is the broadest in recent weeks. During the first two days of this week shippers bought 21 per cent of Chicago receipts against 17 per cent a week ago and 14 per cent a year ago.

Hog receipts yesterday were second largest for Tuesday since February at 22,000, but below normal for this time of the year. The extreme top hogs showed a loss of only 5c, while the general average remained unchanged, strength at the close offsetting the slight losses recorded during the first rounds of trading. The eleven markets handled 79,000 hogs, against 90,000 a year ago. Receipts for the first two days of the week show a decrease of 20 per cent compared with a year ago and are 27 per cent smaller than two years ago.

Summer Hogs Bid $6.40.

Light weight hogs for delivery during July and August carried bids of $6.40 on the futures market yesterday, while September light were bid $6.50. The latter were offered at $7.65. Mediums for July were bid $6.40. Heavy grades for September delivery were offered at $7.60 and bid $7.00. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today's delivery were bid $6.35.

Yearling steers held the gains scored on recent sessions, but other cattle ruled weak to lower, medium and heavy stock leading the way back toward the recent low spot. Fancy 1,100 lb steers topped the price list at $8.90. The quality was better, which accounts for the higher bulk of sales yesterday.

Most steers sold within a range of $7.25@8.35. Yearling heifers met good demand at strong prices, while cows weakened toward the close. Baby beef heifers averaging 711 lbs brought $8.60. Calves were steady to strong, with some of the first sales 15@25c higher. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady.

Idaho Lambs Bring $9.00.

Top western range lambs tumbled to $9.00 yesterday when a shipment of three carloads sold at that figure, with 100 sorted out at $6.75. Top natives stopped at $9.00 and packers bought most of the best at $8.75 and below. Yearlings slumped 25c more, the top in this class stopping at $7.00. Aged shee pare weak. Prevailing lamb quotations are $1.25@1.50 under a week ago. Sheep receipts at 8,000 were smallest of the year for Tuesday.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed quiet; sales, 350 bales. July, $2.17; Sept., $2.16; Dec., $2.16. Open market quotations [60 day basis]: Shanghai steam extra B, $2.50; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $1.65; Japanese crack double extra, $2.35.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Little change was shown in the price of butter. Receipts 21,006 tubs. Fresh eggs were ½c lower with offerings liberal. Receipts 21,012 cases. Demand for new potatoes was somewhat better and market showed a firmer undertone. Receipts 94 cars new and 18 cars old with 233 cars new and 32 cars old on team track. Live leghorn hens and old roosters were ½c higher. Receipts 2 cars and 55 trucks.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A surprise was given the wheat trade late yesterday afternoon by the United States crop estimate on winter wheat of 649,000,000 bu, or 26,000,000 bu below general expectations and the same as Cromwell's estimate, the lowest of all the private returns. The Canadian government report was highly sensational, the condition of spring wheat in the prairie provinces being the lowest on record. Predictions were for higher prices today, although it was said at the close that the trade had evened up fairly preparatory to any unexpected change in the popular estimates.

It was believed that the low condition of spring wheat in the American and Canadian northwest would offset any favorable reports from the winter wheat section and traders are looking for an increase in outside speculative buying.

July corn lost part of its premium over September yesterday owing to selling by houses with cash connections and by speculators. Support was poor, due to expectations of a larger movement. The position of July corn, however, is different from any other. There can be no No. 3 corn delivered and no track deliveries, except country run of corn in the last three days of the month.

COTTON OFF WITH STOCKS

A little showing of strength in cotton markets early yesterday followed by selling of sufficient force to carry prices down on an average of $1.00 a bale and to close the market around the inside, with losses of 16@21 points in Chicago futures, and 18@21 points in outside markets. Spots were off 20 points, New York being 8.25c. New Orleans 7.95c, Galveston 8.30c, and Houston 8.15c. Liverpool closed 15 points net higher, with sales 2,000 bales American.

Weather conditions were more favorable. Reports from Washington said the Stabilization corporation would not offer its holdings at current prices. Heavier sales of print cloths were reported at reduced prices.

Private reports gave the conditions on June 2 at 67.7 against 69.1 last year. Acreage is reduced 10.3 per cent compared with last year, being 41,340,000 acres. The southern half of the belt reports the crop slightly late and the northern half 10 days late, and the main belt as a whole stands only fair, with all kinds of insects.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service says cotton continues to sell below past relationships with either farm products as a group or with all commodities in the United States. Prices follow:

CANADIAN CROP REPORT

Grain crops in Canada are off to the poorest start ever known, according to a dominion government report given out late yesterday. Official returns show that the poorest prospects for wheat are in the main producing province of Saskatchewan, where the condition is even lower than after the disastrous spring frosts in May, 1917. According to the detailed report grain crops in the driest section of Saskatchewan are damaged beyond recovery. Serious damage is also reported in central Alberta. Condition of leading crops in the three provinces follow:

	Manitoba, June '30.	Saskatchewan, June '30.	Alberta, June '30.
Wheat	89 93	77 97	84 98
Oats	87 89	79 92	86 90
Rye	87 95	70 95	83 95
Barley	86 95	77 97	87 96

Condition of winter wheat for all provinces is placed at 97 against 91 last year, while condition of spring wheat is 80 against 97 in 1930; oats, 99 against 95 a year ago; all rye, 76 against 95, and barley, 85 compared with 97 last year.
